Mother And 11 Children Lose Lives In Blaze

Woman Gives Life In Vain Attempt To Save Youngsters

NOYAN, Que. (AP) — Eleven children were still in bed when an explosion sent Abel Vosburgh and his wife, Marjorie rushing from their frame home into the freezing darkness outside Thursday morning. The mother, 43, turned back for them and all 12 perished in the flames.

The family tragedy here was one of the worst in Quebec Province history. Noyan, a village of 500 people, is 35 miles south of Montreal and 10 miles north of the Vermont border.

Of the 17 Vosburghs, only the father and four children who were away are alive. The single-story house burned to the ground even before firemen arrived from nearby Clarenceville.

The 11 children were asleep in four beds when the blast, believed caused by a stove, rocked the house about 3 a.m.

Half a mile away a brother of Marjorie Vosburgh got out of bed when his wife saw the flames. All he saw when he arrived was one set of footprints leading away through the snow. Vosburgh made them as he staggered, burned and barefoot, across a field.

Vosburgh, 63, a laborer out of work for two months, wept softly as he told reporters about it later.

"I was sleeping by the door. I woke up and the house was all on fire. There were smoke and flames everywhere. I woke my wife, yelled for the children and plunged out the door," he said.

Six to 12 inches of snow covered the ground and it was bitterly cold, just above zero.

"The door knob was so hot it burned my hands," Vosburgh continued, pawing the air with hands greasy with ointment.

"I heard her (his wife) behind me. But when I turned around I could still see her in the house. I think she went back in to get the baby."

Firemen searching the ruins came first upon Mrs. Vosburgh's body. She died before reaching the children. The charred framework of one bed held six bodies.

Negro Evictee Hit By Bullet

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Negro man, sleeping in a tent city pitched for evicted sharecroppers, was wounded in the arm Thursday by a rifle bullet apparently fired from a passing automobile.

Early B. Williams, 25, was treated for a flesh wound at a Memphis hospital and released.

The bullet ripped through a tent wall, part of a mattress and hit Williams in the lower part of his right arm.

The shooting was the first flare-up of violence in this racially tense west Tennessee area since the start late last year of an organized drive to register Negro voters. Fayette County's population is about 60 per cent Negro.

The tent city, which now shelters 11 families, is being set up in a field owned by a Negro farmer. Negroes say that as it grows it will be needed to house more families of the some 300 Negro sharecroppers facing eviction from Fayette farms.

The Negroes claim the evictions were ordered in retaliation against those who registered to vote. The white landowners contend the annual contracts with the sharecroppers were not renewed because their jobs were eliminated by farm mechanization.

Virginian Held In Theft Of 200 Secret Papers

FBI Charges He Took Documents From Pentagon

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—A former Pentagon employe was arrested here Thursday and charged with stealing 200 documents from the Defense Department.

Arthur Rogers Roddey, 38, of Falls Church, Va., was arrested at the home of his mother-in-law by the FBI and taken before U.S. commissioner Henry Kirkland for a preliminary hearing.

Asked what he planned to do with the documents, Roddey told reporters: "Take them to the National Security Council."

Roddey, former employe of the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group of the Institute of Defense Analysis, waived removal to Virginia where the FBI complaint was filed. Bond of $15,000 was set for appearance in the U.S. District Court at Alexandria, Va.

Asked how he felt, Roddey quipped: "I was all right until I came over here."

Roddey is charged under four code sections, specifically with making false statements, and with taking about 200 documents from the Defense Department.

Denies Any Red Ties

Asked if there was something in the documents that the Security Council should know, Roddey replied "I don't know what they knew, but I knew what I knew."

He said he was apprehended before he had an opportunity to deliver the documents to the council, which he called "the decision-making body of the Department of Defense."

Asked if he had any connections with the Communist party, Roddey laughed and replied: "Oh, no. Nothing like that."

After the hearing, Roddey told newsmen: "I think these charges are bigger, broader than stated here. I have no political affiliation. I don't even belong to any political party in this country. I felt what I was doing was right and I still feel that way."

He did not elaborate on his statement and declined to comment on his actions.

Not Espionage Case

He said he was "greatly relieved that the charges actually are as indicated to me previously." He said although the warrant was taken out only Thursday, he had known about it for three months.

Roddey's arrest was first announced in Washington by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The announcement said Roddey was accused of the theft of about 200 official documents many of which bore security classifications ranging from top secret to confidential.

Asked what motive is charged for the alleged thefts, an FBI spokesman said that is part of the evidence in the case which will be presented in court.

But he emphasized that Roddey was not charged with espionage and said it is not an espionage case.

Drought Brings China To Brink Of Food Crisis

TOKYO (AP) — Drought, typhoons and other natural disasters "without parallel in the past 100 years" struck Red China's farms devastating blows in 1960, Radio Peiping said Thursday.

With unusual frankness, the radio said only remote Tibet and Sinkiang Province escaped the ravages of drought, typhoons, floods and insects that beset the crops on which Red China must depend to feed its people and buy machinery for industrialization.

Peiping said 50 million acres, about one-sixth the cultivated area, were "seriously affected" with some farms producing nothing.

Hong Kong newspapers said Red China, a land whose long history is mottled by famine, faces one of its worst food crises. All possible manpower is being drafted from factories and government offices to increase production, they reported.

A drought so severe that it almost dried up the great Yellow River was the most damaging blow from nature, Peiping said.

In all, about 150 million acres of farmland, half of the total cultivated acreage, were hit to some degree by natural disasters.

In a cluster of four provinces in northeastern China, 60 per cent of all cultivated acreage was stricken by the six- to seven-month drought, Peiping reported.

These are Hopeh, in which Peiping is located, Shansi to the west, and Honan and Shantung to the south. Water in the Yellow River from March to June was so low in Shantung that the river could be forded on foot.

Peiping said 11 typhoons, many of them "of great violence lasting from 10 to 20 hours," ravaged the coastal regions. It said this was the most to hit China in 50 years. The typhoons spread floods that left tilled lands waterlogged.

"Hailstorms, frosts, insect pests and plant diseases repeatedly struck many places," Peiping said.

Marine Hero, Ex-Teacher Jailed For Robbing Bank

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — James Warren Patterson, 53, World War II Marine Corps hero and once a respected high school teacher, sat in a jail cell Thursday — accused of robbing a bank.

His former colleagues at Lowell High School in San Francisco — where he was once voted the most popular instructor — expressed shock at his arrest.

"He was one of the most respected people you'd ever know," said Harry Krytzer, assistant principal.

His father, H. D. Patterson of Palo Alto, said James Patterson once was the journalism instructor of Pierre Salinger, President-elect John F. Kennedy's press secretary, at Lowell.

He said his son had been decorated for gallantry in the Pacific, had entered the Marine Corps as a private and came out a captain after four years and was now a lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps Reserve.

FBI agent William Curran said Patterson admitted robbing the Yuma, Ariz., branch of the First National Bank of Arizona of $5,000. But, Curran said, Patterson refused to say what prompted him Wednesday to hold up the bank with a pistol and threaten manager Mel Stahl with death.

Patterson surrendered without a struggle less than two hours after the robbery — as Curran and a deputy sheriff accosted him while he tried to change a license plate on a downtown street in El Centro.

11 Sentenced To Die For Jordan Bombing

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Eleven men, including a Syrian police official, were sentenced to death Thursday for their part in the time bombing of the Jordanian foreign ministry that killed Premier Hazza Majali.

Eleven other persons were killed and part of the building leveled in the two explosions last Aug. 29.

King, Premier Hold Belgian Strike Talks

Baudouin Returns To Brussels; New Violence Flares

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — King Baudouin cut short his honeymoon in Spain and flew back to riot-ridden Brussels Thursday night.

He went into immediate conference with Premier Gaston Eyskens whose Catholic-conservative government is threatened by spreading violence from nationwide Socialist strikes against the proposed austerity program brought on by material losses in the Congo.

About 15,000 strikers rioted for hours, causing widespread damage in Brussels shortly before the king arrived.

Informants said Eyskens gave Baudouin a detailed report on the 10 days of violence dividing the nation and widening the breach between the 700,000-member Socialist-led General Workers Federation and the 800,000-member Social Christian (Catholic) Trade Unions.

Transit Strike Extended

With strikers running rampant four hours in Brussels, the capital's street car and bus drivers announced an extension of their strike for a third day. The drivers are members of the federation.

More than 200 members of the trade unions, whose leaders have denounced the strikes, drove the buses and streetcars that operated in the capital.

A train left Brussels for Paris but took seven hours to make what ordinarily is a 2½-hour journey. It carried 20 passengers and state policemen who remained aboard until the train reached the French frontier.

The Soviet ship Colodarsky was unloaded by nonstriking stevedores at the struck port of Antwerp. Other ships managed to dock despite strikers' threats to shut down port traffic.

King Appears Grim

Public Works Minister Omer van Audenhove said in a radio address that if the government withdrew its austerity program under Socialist pressure it would mean "the end of parliamentary democracy."

Wed only Dec. 15, Baudouin appeared grim on his return.

With Queen Fabiola at his side, the king hurried to the palace in the royal car through streets darkened by a power shortage, one result of the 10-day strike against the government's economy program.

Socialist leaders, who had demanded that the king return, saw their followers get out of hand and riot in the heart of the city. Demonstrators smashed windows and store fronts and overturned cars.

West At Odds On Laos Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department disclosed Thursday that the United States, Britain and France have failed so far to agree on joint action for ending the civil war in Laos and preserving that country's independence.

Acknowledging a split among the Western Allies over methods for dealing with the Laos crisis, a State Department spokesman said the differences are not serious.

He said the real difficulty is "every-recurring Communist interference and threat in Laos." He accused Communist North Viet Nam and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao movement of double-dealing in Laos for the last six years.

Press officer Lincoln White told a news conference the Western Allies are agreed "on the basic and fundamental objective of helping to preserve the integrity, independence and sovereignty of Laos." The disagreement, he said, is over how to do this.

White would not go into detail regarding differing proposals for action. One concern of all the Western powers, however, is known to be the chance that Laos might become another Korea—that is, a country in which Western and Asian Communist forces could become involved in conflict on a large scale.

Court Will Rule Today In Negro Eviction Cases

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals will rule Friday morning on whether a temporary injunction should be issued to prevent the eviction of approximately 700 sharecroppers from their homes in Haywood and Fayette counties in Tennessee.

The case involves a claim by the government that approximately 150 landowners and merchants and four banks are dispossessing the sharecroppers and imposing economic sanctions because the Negroes registered to vote in the 1960 election.

The landowners have claimed the sharecroppers are being moved out because of mechanization of farms and a reduction in cotton crop acreage.

The main point at issue is an appeal by the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Department of Justice from a refusal by U.S. District Judge Marion S. Boyd of Memphis, Tenn., to issue a temporary injunction to prevent the evictions pending a hearing on the merits of the case involving Haywood County sharecroppers.

Judge Boyd said a hearing would be held later.

The Fayette County case involves Judge Boyd's decision not to hold a hearing pending disposition of the Haywood County case.

Judges Paul Weick, Lester Cecil and Clifford O'Sullivan spent almost four hours Thursday hearing arguments from a battery of lawyers. Then they went into an executive session lasting nearly two hours.

They finally sent out word the decision would be given at 9 a.m. Friday.

Satellite Loses Voice As Batteries Fail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Explorer VIII, the satellite measuring the ionosphere, has stopped transmitting several weeks earlier than anticipated due to battery failure.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday that the last radio signal heard from the spacecraft was received at Quito, Ecuador, at 7:20 a.m. Dec. 27.

Throughout the previous week, NASA said, radio signals had been erratic.

Explorer VIII was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Nov. 3. A useful lifetime of two to three months had been expected. Unlike some other satellites, Explorer VIII was entirely dependent for power upon a self-contained battery pack, rather than being powered by solar cells.

U.N. Command Denies Massacre Charge

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations Command denied Thursday a Katanga Province charge that rebel tribesmen massacred a trainload of Africans at Bukama under the eyes of U.N. troops.

A statement said Col. Henry Byrne, Irish commander of all U.N. troops in Katanga Province, visited Bukama and found there was only one minor incident. Byrnes reported Irish troops guarding the train fired warning shots that chased away threatening tribesmen.

Rose Bowl-Bound Train Derailed

PUYALLUP, Wash. (UPI) — A 17-car southbound Northern Pacific passenger train carrying about 500 persons, many of them students en route to the Rose Bowl football game, was derailed here Thursday but the most serious injury was a rib fracture.

Seventeen persons were taken to hospitals. All but three elderly persons were treated and released. No deaths were reported.

Many of the passengers were University of Washington football fans bound for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., next Monday.

Two cars near the end of the streamliner telescoped and landed in the front yard of a home and rescuers had to break the windows of the coaches to free the passengers.

Khrush Wants Early Summit Disarm Talks

LONDON (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has passed word to the West he seriously wants summit-level talks at the United Nations next year on halting the world arms race.

Diplomatic authorities, reporting this Thursday night, said the Soviet leader also stressed Moscow's resolve to press for an East-West solution of the Berlin dispute in 1961.

These attitudes were said to have highlighted Khrushchev's 90-minute talk last Monday with Britain's newly arrived ambassador in Moscow, Sir Frank Roberts.

Informants said while his manner seemed subdued and even friendly, Khrushchev gave absolutely no ground for supposing the Soviet Union at this time is ready to make any concessions on the big diplomatic issues dividing East and West.

Some authorities in this capital have formed the impression one of Khrushchev's motives in urging early disarmament talks between heads of government at U.N. headquarters is to create a setting for informal exchanges with President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Glennan Quits As Head Of U.S. Space Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. T. Keith Glennan, who nursed America's civilian space program from the blueprint stage to the door of manned orbital flight, resigned Thursday as head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He did so with a prediction that the next decade will see an astronaut in orbit, instrument landings on the moon, reconnaissance of Mars and Venus, flight test of a nuclear-thermal rocket, and finally, after 1970, a manned landing on the moon.

The 55-year-old scientist - administrator, the nation's top civilian space boss for the last two and a half years, will return to his former post as president of the Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, Ohio.

President Eisenhower, accepting the resignation effective inauguration day Jan. 20, said NASA under Glennan's leadership "has compiled a record of achievement of which every American can be justly proud."

The President added: "Because of the organization and program you have helped to create, Americans can look forward to a remarkable future in space exploration. It is hard to realize—yet inexorably true—that the near future will hold such wonders as the orbital flight of an astronaut, the landing of instruments on the moon, the launching of the giant Saturn, and the reconnaissance of Mars and Venus by unmanned vehicles."

Glennan came to Washington when NASA was established by congressional act to conduct nonmilitary aeronautical and space activities.

His successor has not been named. Believed to be a leading candidate is Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner, until recently head of Associated Universities, Inc., and now president of the Graduate Research Center at Dallas, Tex.

Marine Force Calls Off Suburban Home Landing

CHICAGO (AP)—A corporal's guard of Marines—shaken by the excitement and the din of ringing telephones—retreated from suburban Park Forest Thursday, leaving their bivouac bulging with a small mountain of supplies.

"They just walked out," said their stunned hostess, Mrs. John G. Ransford who had been expecting a larger force. "They arrived Wednesday, and today they decided it was just too much. We have not had a minute's peace.

"If it wasn't the telephone, it was the doorbell. Photographers, reporters, newsreel, television, magazines, invitations to go places. Why they didn't even have a chance to talk to each other.

"One boy called, said he'd gotten as far as Indiana and kept reading about the party in the papers and hearing about it on the radio. I don't know where he is—but he said he was afraid to come any farther."

The invasion was signaled by the Ransfords' son, Donald (Butch), 22, a Marine corporal.

He had invited 32 of his buddies for an "after Christmas" get-together at his home. Butch told his mother in a telephone call from California after returning from 16 months service in Okinawa. And, he added hesitantly, 15 had accepted. Mom prepared for the worst.

Only seven showed up—but no one was certain, despite Thursday morning's withdrawal, that the invasion would not flare up and start all over again.

There was a report others were hitchhiking in.

Ambassador Would Boost U. S. Abroad

Landis Given Job Of Drafting Agency Reform Program

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy said Thursday night he is seriously thinking of naming a roving ambassador abroad.

As he explained the idea after a conference with Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., the ambassador-at-large would help strengthen American ties with some of the newly emerging nations, substituting for personal visits by chiefs of state.

Kennedy and Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said they had discussed a sweeping range of domestic and international affairs. They also voiced agreement on a need for putting U.S. economic aid to friendly countries on a long-term basis. They said this would increase the effectiveness of the program.

The two men appeared at a news conference on the patio of Kennedy's home, with a full moon sending its light filtering down through the palm fronds.

Kennedy put in most of the day with Fulbright. They also played a round of golf.

And Kennedy announced a pair of appointments.

Landis Gets Special Job

He persuaded James M. Landis to come back into federal service to chart broad reforms of regulatory agencies whose operations Landis has criticized severely.

Landis' job with the incoming administration will be limited to the amount of time needed for the preparation of a program and the submission of final recommendations for presidential action for legislation.

The other appointment, of Robert V. Roosa, was to the No. 3 position in the Treasury Department. Now vice president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank in charge of research, Roosa will be undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs.

Kennedy and Fulbright met with newsmen just after they came in from the golf course. Kennedy said they talked of matters of mutual concern both in the area of foreign affairs and domestic matters that are of special concern in the light of the economic slump at home.

Landis Report Urged Overhaul

Landis will have only a temporary post in the new administration, with the period of service limited to the amount of time needed for the preparation of a program and the submission of final recommendations for presidential action and legislation, the announcement said.

At Kennedy's request, Landis studied operations of federal regulatory agencies and submitted a report that said in effect many of them are falling down on the job, and are beset by pressure from outside and lack of concern from within the government.

Landis, 61, former Harvard Law School dean served in the past as a chairman or member of a number of regulatory agencies.

His report, made public Monday, carried recommendations for wide-scale reorganization of the agencies, with emphasis on the Federal Power, Communications and Interstate Commerce Commissimons and the Civil Aeronautics board.

Now, Kennedy headquarters said, Landis will consult with interested congressional leaders and others, take into account reaction to his own report and those based on other studies in the same field, and draw up a program of projected reforms.

Khrushchev Shifts Agriculture Minister

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has removed Vladimir V. Matskevich as agriculture minister and apparently has assigned him to the task of rescuing the Soviet leader's cherished program for opening virgin lands to large-scale farming.

The disclosure came as Khrushchev, evidently annoyed by persistent shortcomings in Soviet agriculture, turned his attention to irrigation as one means of overcoming virgin lands crop problems.

Matskevich will go to the northern area of Kazakhstan, the republic which is the scene of Khrushchev's most ambitious virgin lands program, and there he will direct operations in the richest sector of virgin lands area.

FBI agent William Curran said Patterson admitted robbing the Yuma, Ariz., branch of the First National Bank of Arizona of $5,000. But, Curran said, Patterson refused to say what prompted him Wednesday to hold up the bank with a pistol and threaten manager Mel Stahl with death.

Patterson surrendered without a struggle less than two hours after the robbery — as Curran and a deputy sheriff accosted him while he tried to change a license plate on a downtown street in El Centro.

King, Premier Hold Belgian Strike Talks

Baudouin Returns To Brussels; New Violence Flares

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — King Baudouin cut short his honeymoon in Spain and flew back to riot-ridden Brussels Thursday night.

He went into immediate conference with Premier Gaston Eyskens whose Catholic-conservative government is threatened by spreading violence from nationwide Socialist strikes against the proposed austerity program brought on by material losses in the Congo.

About 15,000 strikers rioted for hours, causing widespread damage in Brussels shortly before the king arrived.

Informants said Eyskens gave Baudouin a detailed report on the 10 days of violence dividing the nation and widening the breach between the 700,000-member Socialist-led General Workers Federation and the 800,000-member Social Christian (Catholic) Trade Unions.

Transit Strike Extended

With strikers running rampant four hours in Brussels, the capital's street car and bus drivers announced an extension of their strike for a third day. The drivers are members of the federation.

More than 200 members of the trade unions, whose leaders have denounced the strikes, drove the buses and streetcars that operated in the capital.

A train left Brussels for Paris but took seven hours to make what ordinarily is a 2½-hour journey. It carried 20 passengers and state policemen who remained aboard until the train reached the French frontier.

The Soviet ship Colodarsky was unloaded by nonstriking stevedores at the struck port of Antwerp. Other ships managed to dock despite strikers' threats to shut down port traffic.

King Appears Grim

Public Works Minister Omer van Audenhove said in a radio address that if the government withdrew its austerity program under Socialist pressure it would mean "the end of parliamentary democracy."

Wed only Dec. 15, Baudouin appeared grim on his return.

With Queen Fabiola at his side, the king hurried to the palace in the royal car through streets darkened by a power shortage, one result of the 10-day strike against the government's economy program.

Socialist leaders, who had demanded that the king return, saw their followers get out of hand and riot in the heart of the city. Demonstrators smashed windows and store fronts and overturned cars.

West At Odds On Laos Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department disclosed Thursday that the United States, Britain and France have failed so far to agree on joint action for ending the civil war in Laos and preserving that country's independence.

Acknowledging a split among the Western Allies over methods for dealing with the Laos crisis, a State Department spokesman said the differences are not serious.

He said the real difficulty is "every-recurring Communist interference and threat in Laos." He accused Communist North Viet Nam and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao movement of double-dealing in Laos for the last six years.

Press officer Lincoln White told a news conference the Western Allies are agreed "on the basic and fundamental objective of helping to preserve the integrity, independence and sovereignty of Laos." The disagreement, he said, is over how to do this.

White would not go into detail regarding differing proposals for action. One concern of all the Western powers, however, is known to be the chance that Laos might become another Korea—that is, a country in which Western and Asian Communist forces could become involved in conflict on a large scale.

RANGOON, Burma (AP) —The road to Mandalay is to be rebuilt, with the United States paying 75 per cent under a new agreement. The cost was scaled down by U.S. engineers from $74 million to $40 million to break a deadlock on U.S.-Burma negotiations.

Eleven other persons were killed and part of the building leveled in the two explosions last Aug. 29.

Court Will Rule Today In Negro Eviction Cases

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals will rule Friday morning on whether a temporary injunction should be issued to prevent the eviction of approximately 700 sharecroppers from their homes in Haywood and Fayette counties in Tennessee.

The case involves a claim by the government that approximately 150 landowners and merchants and four banks are dispossessing the sharecroppers and imposing economic sanctions because the Negroes registered to vote in the 1960 election.

The landowners have claimed the sharecroppers are being moved out because of mechanization of farms and a reduction in cotton crop acreage.

The main point at issue is an appeal by the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Department of Justice from a refusal by U.S. District Judge Marion S. Boyd of Memphis, Tenn., to issue a temporary injunction to prevent the evictions pending a hearing on the merits of the case involving Haywood County sharecroppers.

Judge Boyd said a hearing would be held later.

The Fayette County case involves Judge Boyd's decision not to hold a hearing pending disposition of the Haywood County case.

Judges Paul Weick, Lester Cecil and Clifford O'Sullivan spent almost four hours Thursday hearing arguments from a battery of lawyers. Then they went into an executive session lasting nearly two hours.

They finally sent out word the decision would be given at 9 a.m. Friday.

Satellite Loses Voice As Batteries Fail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Explorer VIII, the satellite measuring the ionosphere, has stopped transmitting several weeks earlier than anticipated due to battery failure.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday that the last radio signal heard from the spacecraft was received at Quito, Ecuador, at 7:20 a.m. Dec. 27.

Throughout the previous week, NASA said, radio signals had been erratic.

Explorer VIII was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Nov. 3. A useful lifetime of two to three months had been expected. Unlike some other satellites, Explorer VIII was entirely dependent for power upon a self-contained battery pack, rather than being powered by solar cells.

U.N. Command Denies Massacre Charge

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations Command denied Thursday a Katanga Province charge that rebel tribesmen massacred a trainload of Africans at Bukama under the eyes of U.N. troops.

A statement said Col. Henry Byrne, Irish commander of all U.N. troops in Katanga Province, visited Bukama and found there was only one minor incident. Byrnes reported Irish troops guarding the train fired warning shots that chased away threatening tribesmen.

Rose Bowl-Bound Train Derailed

PUYALLUP, Wash. (UPI) — A 17-car southbound Northern Pacific passenger train carrying about 500 persons, many of them students en route to the Rose Bowl football game, was derailed here Thursday but the most serious injury was a rib fracture.

Seventeen persons were taken to hospitals. All but three elderly persons were treated and released. No deaths were reported.

Many of the passengers were University of Washington football fans bound for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., next Monday.

Two cars near the end of the streamliner telescoped and landed in the front yard of a home and rescuers had to break the windows of the coaches to free the passengers.

Khrush Wants Early Summit Disarm Talks

LONDON (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has passed word to the West he seriously wants summit-level talks at the United Nations next year on halting the world arms race.

Diplomatic authorities, reporting this Thursday night, said the Soviet leader also stressed Moscow's resolve to press for an East-West solution of the Berlin dispute in 1961.

These attitudes were said to have highlighted Khrushchev's 90-minute talk last Monday with Britain's newly arrived ambassador in Moscow, Sir Frank Roberts.

Informants said while his manner seemed subdued and even friendly, Khrushchev gave absolutely no ground for supposing the Soviet Union at this time is ready to make any concessions on the big diplomatic issues dividing East and West.

Some authorities in this capital have formed the impression one of Khrushchev's motives in urging early disarmament talks between heads of government at U.N. headquarters is to create a setting for informal exchanges with President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Marine Force Calls Off Suburban Home Landing

CHICAGO (AP)—A corporal's guard of Marines—shaken by the excitement and the din of ringing telephones—retreated from suburban Park Forest Thursday, leaving their bivouac bulging with a small mountain of supplies.

"They just walked out," said their stunned hostess, Mrs. John G. Ransford who had been expecting a larger force. "They arrived Wednesday, and today they decided it was just too much. We have not had a minute's peace.

"If it wasn't the telephone, it was the doorbell. Photographers, reporters, newsreel, television, magazines, invitations to go places. Why they didn't even have a chance to talk to each other.

"One boy called, said he'd gotten as far as Indiana and kept reading about the party in the papers and hearing about it on the radio. I don't know where he is—but he said he was afraid to come any farther."

The invasion was signaled by the Ransfords' son, Donald (Butch), 22, a Marine corporal.

He had invited 32 of his buddies for an "after Christmas" get-together at his home. Butch told his mother in a telephone call from California after returning from 16 months service in Okinawa. And, he added hesitantly, 15 had accepted. Mom prepared for the worst.

Only seven showed up—but no one was certain, despite Thursday morning's withdrawal, that the invasion would not flare up and start all over again.

There was a report others were hitchhiking in.

Glennan Quits As Head Of U.S. Space Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. T. Keith Glennan, who nursed America's civilian space program from the blueprint stage to the door of manned orbital flight, resigned Thursday as head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He did so with a prediction that the next decade will see an astronaut in orbit, instrument landings on the moon, reconnaissance of Mars and Venus, flight test of a nuclear-thermal rocket, and finally, after 1970, a manned landing on the moon.

The 55-year-old scientist - administrator, the nation's top civilian space boss for the last two and a half years, will return to his former post as president of the Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, Ohio.

President Eisenhower, accepting the resignation effective inauguration day Jan. 20, said NASA under Glennan's leadership "has compiled a record of achievement of which every American can be justly proud."

The President added: "Because of the organization and program you have helped to create, Americans can look forward to a remarkable future in space exploration. It is hard to realize—yet inexorably true—that the near future will hold such wonders as the orbital flight of an astronaut, the landing of instruments on the moon, the launching of the giant Saturn, and the reconnaissance of Mars and Venus by unmanned vehicles."

Glennan came to Washington when NASA was established by congressional act to conduct nonmilitary aeronautical and space activities.

His successor has not been named. Believed to be a leading candidate is Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner, until recently head of Associated Universities, Inc., and now president of the Graduate Research Center at Dallas, Tex.

Ambassador Would Boost U. S. Abroad

Landis Given Job Of Drafting Agency Reform Program

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy said Thursday night he is seriously thinking of naming a roving ambassador abroad.

As he explained the idea after a conference with Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., the ambassador-at-large would help strengthen American ties with some of the newly emerging nations, substituting for personal visits by chiefs of state.

Kennedy and Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said they had discussed a sweeping range of domestic and international affairs. They also voiced agreement on a need for putting U.S. economic aid to friendly countries on a long-term basis. They said this would increase the effectiveness of the program.

The two men appeared at a news conference on the patio of Kennedy's home, with a full moon sending its light filtering down through the palm fronds.

Kennedy put in most of the day with Fulbright. They also played a round of golf.

And Kennedy announced a pair of appointments.

Landis Gets Special Job

He persuaded James M. Landis to come back into federal service to chart broad reforms of regulatory agencies whose operations Landis has criticized severely.

Landis' job with the incoming administration will be limited to the amount of time needed for the preparation of a program and the submission of final recommendations for presidential action for legislation.

The other appointment, of Robert V. Roosa, was to the No. 3 position in the Treasury Department. Now vice president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank in charge of research, Roosa will be undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs.

Kennedy and Fulbright met with newsmen just after they came in from the golf course. Kennedy said they talked of matters of mutual concern both in the area of foreign affairs and domestic matters that are of special concern in the light of the economic slump at home.

Landis Report Urged Overhaul

Landis will have only a temporary post in the new administration, with the period of service limited to the amount of time needed for the preparation of a program and the submission of final recommendations for presidential action and legislation, the announcement said.

At Kennedy's request, Landis studied operations of federal regulatory agencies and submitted a report that said in effect many of them are falling down on the job, and are beset by pressure from outside and lack of concern from within the government.

Landis, 61, former Harvard Law School dean served in the past as a chairman or member of a number of regulatory agencies.

His report, made public Monday, carried recommendations for wide-scale reorganization of the agencies, with emphasis on the Federal Power, Communications and Interstate Commerce Commissimons and the Civil Aeronautics board.

Now, Kennedy headquarters said, Landis will consult with interested congressional leaders and others, take into account reaction to his own report and those based on other studies in the same field, and draw up a program of projected reforms.

Khrushchev Shifts Agriculture Minister

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has removed Vladimir V. Matskevich as agriculture minister and apparently has assigned him to the task of rescuing the Soviet leader's cherished program for opening virgin lands to large-scale farming.

The disclosure came as Khrushchev, evidently annoyed by persistent shortcomings in Soviet agriculture, turned his attention to irrigation as one means of overcoming virgin lands crop problems.

Matskevich will go to the northern area of Kazakhstan, the republic which is the scene of Khrushchev's most ambitious virgin lands program, and there he will direct operations in the richest sector of virgin lands area.

Gas Blast Cause Sought

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP) — Authorities sought Thursday the cause of a fearsome chain reaction explosion in a gas storage area that rocked homes here Wednesday night.

About 2,000 persons, or 300 families by police estimate, were driven out into subfreezing cold by the explosions of propane gas tanks on the property of the Sungas Products Corp.

Six of those who fled their homes were treated for exposure. Six men were injured, one critically, in connection with the explosions and the spectacular general alarm that resulted.

The blasts were felt over a 10-square block area.

The families forced out returned to their homes Thursday after being provided temporary shelter but many homes were without windows. Blankets and plastic curtains were used for window cover.

Police said the conflagration apparently began when a tractor backing up to hook into a trailer tanker truck struck a valve. A moment later there was a burst of flame which spread to cylinders containing propane gas.

He was the father of Delbert S. Null, president of the Board of Frederick County Commissioners.

Peru Officials Said To Favor Castro Break

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Official quarters speculated Thursday that Peru and possibly other South American countries are preparing to sever diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Both President Manuel Prado and Prime Minister Pedro Beltran are said to favor a diplomatic break with Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government.

"If Peru and some of the other countries break with Cuba it would deal an almost devastating blow to Castro's revolutionary campaign throughout Latin America," one diplomatic source said.

Such speculation has been building for several days. It was heightened Thursday when Beltran published in La Prensa a photostatic copy of a letter the Peruvian Communist party purportedly sent to Cuban Ambassador Luis Alonso.

The letter was dated July 19 and signed by Raul Acosta, secretary-general of the Peruvian Communist party. It acknowledged receipt of the embassy's "generous contribution sent during the present month to our institute"—Communist party.

The letter thanked Cuba for its student exchange program. "There is now a large cadre of bright and dedicated youths whose enthusiastic work is devoted relentlessly to the fight," it said. It asked Cuba to expand this program.

The letter was one of several documents scooped up in a bold daylight raid on the Cuban Embassy here Nov. 8. The raid reportedly was masterminded by anti-Castro agents operating under the name of the Revolutionary Democratic Front of Cuba.

Motorist Convicted Of Manslaughter

VIENNA, Md. (AP)—A 22-year-old Easton man was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction Thursday after being convicted of manslaughter by motor vehicle in the death of a Cambridge woman.

The defendant, James Earl Walker, was released under $2,500 bail pending a possible appeal of the verdict by Magistrate Harold Richardson.

According to testimony at the hearing, Walker was the driver of a car which collided with another auto Sept. 11 at a Cambridge intersection.

Fatally injured in the accident was Mrs. Dorothy Weedon Kelly, 38, a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Charles, a Cambridge pharmacist.

The trial was moved here from Cambridge at Walker's request.

Walker was convicted and fined $10 each on three other charges—reckless driving, failing to stop at a stop sign and driving at a speed greater than reasonable.

MSTS Bribe Report Probed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations' subcommittee said Thursday it is exploring the alleged bribing of some civilian employes of the Military Sea Transportation Service in New York.

The investigation centers upon operations of the agency's Atlantic Coast headquarters on the Brooklyn waterfront. MSTS is supervised by the Navy, but its eastern headquarters is located at a waterfront Army base.

The agency operates a fleet of ships to transport passengers and cargo for all the armed forces between military bases around the world.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the subcommittee, said public hearings starting here Wednesday will deal with allegations of bribery and other improprieties between various ship repair contractors and some civilians employed by MSTS.

Informed sources said subcommittee investigators have found evidence of a web of influence deals involving alleged cash payoffs, costly gifts and shady under-the-table loans aggregating "thousands and thousands of dollars."

Alleghany Corp. Backs NYC Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Alleghany Corp. has thrown its weight behind the New York Central Railroad in the latter's efforts to merge with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

This move Thursday put Alleghany in opposition to the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, which seeks to affiliate with and eventually merge with the B & O. The C & O has refused to consider a Central proposal to merge all three lines.

Allan Kirby, president of Alleghany, said the big holding company had purchased "more than 100,000 shares" of B & O common stock.

Alleghany controls the New York Central. Kirby, the largest stockholder in Alleghany, is also a director of the Central.

Distressed Area Aid Plan Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new plan for federal aid to distressed areas, whereby states would match federal funds, was proposed Thursday by Rep. James E. Van Zandt, R-Pa.

Administration of the program would be left largely in state hands, rather than under jurisdiction of a federal agency.

Van Zandt said his proposal, to cost an estimated $150 million in federal funds for the first five years, would be embodied in a bill he will introduce in the new Congress.

It would call for state and federal governments to provide up to 90 per cent of the cost of establishing new industry in distressed areas.

Of this, the federal government would provide half and the state government half. The remaining 10 per cent would be provided by local sources.

Van Zandt, advocate of federal aid to depressed areas, said he decided on provisions of his new bill after conferring with coal and railroad interests, government research men and faculty members of the School of Business Administration at the Pennsylvania State University.

Africa Facing Many Stubborn Problems In '61

By HUGH WATERFIELD

LONDON (UPI)—Optimists who hailed 1960 in its early months as the year of African independence were only partly justified. Africa still has its most stubborn problems left to settle in 1961—and probably in a good many years to come.

But 1960 saw the tide of independence sweep down the west coast of the vast continent from the borders of Morocco to the frontier of Portuguese Angola: down the center to the border of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland: and down the east coast to the frontier of Kenya.

In the east and center, the tide was still held back by the strongholds of white settlement, although even they began to rock before it. And African nationalists suffered one of their biggest disappointments to date when independence in the Belgian Congo disintegrated into chaos, internal conflict and foreign intervention.

Yet 1960 will close with 24 independent states on the continent of Africa and the big island of Madagascar — now the Republic of Malagasy — off the southeast coast. This figure includes the Union of South Africa as well as the United Arab Republic, whose biggest part, Egypt, is in Africa.

It also includes the Belgian Congo — nominally independent since July 1, but with its battle for real independence still to be won.

The start of 1961 will see four more territories on the verge of independence—the British colony of Sierra Leone, with independence promised on April 27; the two French territories of Upper Volta and Gabon, whose full independence appears to have been delayed by decision of their own governments and the British trust territory of Tanganykia, which achieved internal self-government last year.

When 1960 dawned, Africa had only 10 independent states.

It was a year of great political advance for Africa, although it left struggles for independence of different kinds and intensity still raging in Algeria and the Congo, throughout British East Africa and against white settler domination in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, the Union of South Africa and South-West Africa, mandated to the Union after it was seized from Germany at the end of World War I.

These political conflicts are enough to ensure that Africa will continue to be one of the world's storm centers in 1961.

But a still more difficult future problem for Africa and for the outside world — particularly the West in its relations with Africa—was foreshadowed in February of last year at the Pan-African Peoples' Conference in Tunis.

The emphasis at that conference was on "neo - colonialism." By that term the delegates meant the retention by European powers of economic control of African territories even after those territories achieved political independence.

"Neo-colonialism" is the wrong term for this phenomenon, since it actually is the oldest form of colonialism. European powers exploited African territories and their peoples economically before they annexed them politically.

Despite criticisms, the problem of economic colonialism is at least as vital to Africa as the problem of political imperialism. The experience of Liberia and Ethiopia has shown that political independence is of little or no benefit to the mass of the African people as long as a country's main resources are chaneled out into foreign markets instead of being used for that country's own economic development.

Liberia and Ethiopia have been independent longer than any other African territories, yet the poverty and illiteracy of their people is remarkable even for Africa.

Milk Shipping Fee Plan Protested By Legislator

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Harford County member of the Maryland Legislature protested Thursday against a Baltimore City move to collect an annual $15 fee on dairy farmers shipping milk into the city.

Del. W. Dale Hess, a Democrat who is also a dairy farmer, raised the objection in a letter to Mayor J. Harold Grady and threatened to introduce a bill in the legislature next month to block the move.

"I was both surprised and shocked to learn that you and the city council have imposed an annual $15 inspection fee on all dairy farmers holding Baltimore City health permits," Hess wrote Grady.

"As I understand it, the purpose of the Baltimore City health inspection of dairy farms is for the protection of the health of the citizens of Baltimore City. If this is true, the Baltimore City residents should be willing to pay for protecting their own health and not ask the farmers to do it for them.

"By imposing this tax, Baltimore City certainly is starting a very bad precedent because this is the case of taxation without representation. If the officials of the city are really sincere about trying to cut expenditures and meet their tax burdens, they might do well to abolish the inspection of dairy farms and let the State Health Department take care of this job for them.

"As you probably know, the State Health Department is now charged with the responsibility of inspecting dairy farms and I certainly see no need for a duplication by the Baltimore City Health Department.

"The dairy farmers of the state find themselves in probably a worse economical crisis than Baltimore City. Therefore they cannot stand this additional taxation.

"If the city sees fit to impose this tax and carry through with their present plans in this field, I, as a member of the General Assembly, must introduce legislation during the coming session to try to correct this situation.

"I hope to hear from you concerning this matter in the near future."

Hess said he operates a farm with 180 head of dairy cattle and ships about 4,000 pounds of milk into the city daily.

Man's Body Found Near College Park

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The body of a man, apparently frozen to death, was found Thursday on a snow covered embankment near Kenilworth Avenue south of Calvert Road.

Two boys on their way to skate on a frozen pond made the discovery.

Prince Georges County police said death was due to exposure and that the body apparently had been on the embankment before the heavy snowfall on Dec. 11.

Police said the man was a Negro, about 60.

Cones of the sugar pine are sometimes 20 inches long.

Md. Road Crews Busy

By The Associated Press

The snowstorm that moved into Maryland Thursday morning lost much of its punch as it headed northeast, but foul weather made highways slick and treacherous.

By evening, rising temperatures had turned most of the precipitation into rain and drizzle, and fog and haze were expected to last into Friday with continued mild temperatures.

Snow Thursday accumulated to little more than two inches in most areas. But freezing rain hindered traffic, and road crews were kept busy sanding throughout the state.

Poor highway conditions forced cancellation of the racing program at Charles Town, W. Va. Race Track. Track officials said that the card scheduled for Thursday would be raced Friday.

Three Maryland counties — Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset —received no snow at all. Further along the Eastern Shore, an all-night search Wednesday for a disabled oyster dredge was hampered by foul weather. The 36-foot dredge C. A. Parks was found Thursday morning by two Coast Guard craft and towed into Tilghman, Talbot County.

CPA Recommended For Md. House Seat

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Paul B. Garbelman has been recommended by the Prince Georges County Democratic Committee for appointment to the Maryland House of Delegates.

Garbelman, a 39-year-old certified public accountant and president of the Prince Georges County Democratic Club, Inc., was endorsed last night for the vacancy created by appointment of Del. Ernest A. Loveless Jr. as a judge of the Prince Georges Circuit Court. Loveless is a Democrat.

Aspirin Donor Thanked By Nixon

SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—A gift of four aspirin tablets from an elderly Maryland farm woman has been gratefully acknowledged by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The aspirin donor, Miss Rosa Humphreys, wrote Nixon several days after his defeat at the polls. "am enclosing some aspirin tablets. You won't need these now, but you can pass them on to someone else who might need them later," she said.

The "someone else" referred to President-elect Kennedy, the Republican Miss Humphreys explained to a reporter.

Nixon's reply read in part, "In the years ahead, as we look back to 1960, the disappointment of losing the closest election in history will fade into the background. But your act of thoughtfulness will always remain in our hearts."

Negro Charged In Rape-Killing

BALTIMORE (AP) — When police were called to the apartment of Mrs. Viola Epps, 54, Wednesday, they found her dead.

She had been beaten, raped, murdered—apparently by asphyxiation — and left dead on her bed in the East Baltimore apartment. She was found lying face down, her hands tied behind her and a gag stuffed into her mouth.

On the bedside table was a paperback novel, "Let Me Kill You, Sweetheart."

William S. Homes, 49, told police he called them after finding the Negro woman dead. The meowing of her cat caused him to investigate, he said.

Homes, also a Negro, occupies an apartment in the same building.

He was charged Thursday with raping and killing Mrs. Epps.

Weather Curtails D.C. Building, Idles Many

WASHINGTON (AP) — Severe winter weather which has had a tight grip on the Washington area for nearly three weeks has forced job layoffs for hundreds of construction workers.

One labor leader called it the worst seasonal building industry slump in more than 15 years.

"You have to go back to 1944 or the 1930's to find job conditions as bad as they are now for construction workers here," said J. C. Turner, president of the Greater Washington Central Labor Council.

"We're better off than Baltimore, but this is going to be a real hard winter here in the construction industry."

Aspirin Donor Thanked By Nixon

SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—A gift of four aspirin tablets from an elderly Maryland farm woman has been gratefully acknowledged by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The aspirin donor, Miss Rosa Humphreys, wrote Nixon several days after his defeat at the polls. "am enclosing some aspirin tablets. You won't need these now, but you can pass them on to someone else who might need them later," she said.

The "someone else" referred to President-elect Kennedy, the Republican Miss Humphreys explained to a reporter.

Nixon's reply read in part, "In the years ahead, as we look back to 1960, the disappointment of losing the closest election in history will fade into the background. But your act of thoughtfulness will always remain in our hearts."

Negro Charged In Rape-Killing

BALTIMORE (AP) — When police were called to the apartment of Mrs. Viola Epps, 54, Wednesday, they found her dead.

She had been beaten, raped, murdered—apparently by asphyxiation — and left dead on her bed in the East Baltimore apartment. She was found lying face down, her hands tied behind her and a gag stuffed into her mouth.

On the bedside table was a paperback novel, "Let Me Kill You, Sweetheart."

William S. Homes, 49, told police he called them after finding the Negro woman dead. The meowing of her cat caused him to investigate, he said.

Homes, also a Negro, occupies an apartment in the same building.

He was charged Thursday with raping and killing Mrs. Epps.

Weather Curtails D.C. Building, Idles Many

WASHINGTON (AP) — Severe winter weather which has had a tight grip on the Washington area for nearly three weeks has forced job layoffs for hundreds of construction workers.

One labor leader called it the worst seasonal building industry slump in more than 15 years.

"You have to go back to 1944 or the 1930's to find job conditions as bad as they are now for construction workers here," said J. C. Turner, president of the Greater Washington Central Labor Council.

"We're better off than Baltimore, but this is going to be a real hard winter here in the construction industry."

Piggyback Satellite Reaps New Data

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A modest little satellite which got into space only by hitching a ride is turning out to be one of the most valuable fact-finders ever sent aloft.

A report published by the National Academy of Sciences Wednesday credits the little satellite with transmitting the first continuous measurements of X-ray and ultraviolet emissions from the sun.

And on one of its trips around the earth it reported six minutes of the life history of a solar explosion which disrupted shortwave radio communications on earth.

It is information of this sort which scientists must have to improve their ability to predict the sudden changes in the output of rays and particles by the sun.

The satellite, nicknamed "Sunray," is a 20-inch aluminum sphere weighing 42 pounds. It was given a piggyback ride into orbit June 22 when the Navy's transit II-A navigation satellite was launched at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Once aloft the two satellites went their separate ways with most of the publicity following the bigger and more glamorous transit II-A. But valuable as transit may be to mariners, Sunray is the more useful to science.

It is, in fact, the world's first orbiting solar observatory. Although bigger and more complicated solar observatories are planned, Sunray already is reaping new data on Solar X-rays and ultraviolet light.

Feud Of Greek Restaurateurs Ended By Death

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Death has ended the long, much publicized, sometimes bitter, sometimes funny feud between two immigrant Greeks and their competing restaurants.

The dispute, which reached the state's highest court three times, was between Demtris (Jim) Diakandru, 71, and Tom Petropulous.

There is an unwritten rule that two Greek-born immigrants should not operate competing businesses in the same area.

But somebody violated the rule — nobody recalls which of the two restaurateurs did — but, because somebody did, this city was treated to a rollicking comic opera.

One restaurant is "The Old Transfer Lunch." The other is "The New Transfer Lunch."

For 20 years the two businessmen competed in price wars. One offered a roast beef special for 11 cents. The other would counter with roast beef special for 11 cents. The other would counter with roast beef and beer for a dime.

In 1914 Petropulous became tired of the competition. He secretly leased the building containing the restaurant of his competitor and triumphantly refused to extend the lease.

But to his surprise, Diakandru had secretly leased the building containing the Petropulous restaurant. Diakandru refused to extend the lease.

Jim evicted Tom. Tom evicted Jim. Municipal Court upheld the evictions.

On the double-eviction day, both men served customers free lunches. At 1 p.m. the move began. Customers and partisans aided with spectators cheering. The two restaurant owners and their helpers passed each other time after time as they carried pots and pans across the street. They never exchanged glances.

They also put the name of their former restaurant up on the front of their new restaurant. Thus the "New Transfer Lunch" was operating where the "Old Transfer Lunch" had operated. Customers were confused.

Secretly, the two rivals purchased the other's building. The fight started all over again.

There were evictions and counter-evictions. Both men went into Municipal Court 13 times, to Common Pleas court three times, to the state Court of Appeals eight times and to the Ohio Supreme Court three times.

Thursday Jim Diakandru was buried. He died Monday night, with many of the city's old-timers recalling the city's war of the Greeks.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you don't have trouble managing money you're as rare as a diamond mine in the middle of Main Street.

The budget you tried to stick with during 1960 probably has long since failed. But don't consider yourself a failure. Or your husband a failure for not bringing home enough of the long green to put you on easy street.

Make a New Year's resolution now to try to be more efficient in 1961.

Money management experts agree that just the addition of income frequently doesn't solve problems associated with financial headaches.

Whether you run the family on $4,000 or $8,000 or $15,000 a year, if you are average, you probably think that your money problems will disappear when your income's fattened. But that's a myth.

To prove the point, a leading woman's magazine once smoked out a family that was practically headed for the poor house on $25,000 a year!

Some folks get neurotic about money. A New York executive who finally had to seek psychiatric help over the hives he suffered on payday was "cured" a simple way. The doc ordered him to carry a $100 bill in his wallet all the time. Made him feel secure.

Money management disorders coming to the attention of social workers usually have one thing in common: Big leaks in the budget. No one in the family, for example, knows for certain where all the money goes.

Shirley Camper, family life consultant at the Family Service Association of America, said that the trouble with budgets — in the main—is that there's no miracle budget.

In other words - no formula guarantees that a budget prescribed by a money management expert will work perfectly for you.

This is because what one family spends doesn't necessarily have a bearing on what another ought to spend. Like fingerprints, each family is different.

The burden for successful money management then shifts right back to you.

As the manager of a family, you've got to work out your plan on money management and set your goals for spending and saving.

If there isn't enough money to reach all the goals, then comes the difficult part—deciding what is necessary, what is unnecessary and what, if anything, can be sacrificed.

Top Notch Tricks For Holidays

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A few holiday hair tricks can change your personality for those big fun occasions.

"It's all done with mirrors, a hair brush and some hair spray," says Nancy Mace of New York, a hair-dresser who specializes in recombing the hair. "You have one basic hairdo, but by practicing you can create many styles from it."

If your hair is cut short, even in one of the 1930 hair styles, you still can create many different styles from it, she says.

"Your hair must have body, natural wave or permanent wave, then you can mold it more easily. I set curls on large rollers so that the curl will be large. Then I brush the hair in any direction with the aid of a hair spray as I go along.

"If you want a forward look one day, you merely brush your hair forward from the nape of the neck. Then mold sections of it any way you like with your hairbrush.

"A pretty style for more formal occasions is the turban coiffure. This may be styled by brushing the hair over and over around the head, smaller at the top as a turban would be with the aid of hair spray. A small bejeweled ornament may be added to give the hair a true turban look."

Once you learn how to recomb your hair, Nancy says, you can work out your own interesting hair styles. Plan hairdo rehearsals or experiment on friends from time to time until you master the hairdos you like, she suggests.

Once you comb your hair with the aid of a spray and get the knack of it, the rest is easy, she says. Just spray your hair into the style you want until it is locked into position like a mold.

When hair spray is used, the hair will need a shampoo before another style is attempted.

Top Notch Tricks For Holidays

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A few holiday hair tricks can change your personality for those big fun occasions.

"It's all done with mirrors, a hair brush and some hair spray," says Nancy Mace of New York, a hair-dresser who specializes in recombing the hair. "You have one basic hairdo, but by practicing you can create many styles from it."

If your hair is cut short, even in one of the 1930 hair styles, you still can create many different styles from it, she says.

"Your hair must have body, natural wave or permanent wave, then you can mold it more easily. I set curls on large rollers so that the curl will be large. Then I brush the hair in any direction with the aid of a hair spray as I go along.

"If you want a forward look one day, you merely brush your hair forward from the nape of the neck. Then mold sections of it any way you like with your hairbrush.

"A pretty style for more formal occasions is the turban coiffure. This may be styled by brushing the hair over and over around the head, smaller at the top as a turban would be with the aid of hair spray. A small bejeweled ornament may be added to give the hair a true turban look."

Once you learn how to recomb your hair, Nancy says, you can work out your own interesting hair styles. Plan hairdo rehearsals or experiment on friends from time to time until you master the hairdos you like, she suggests.

Once you comb your hair with the aid of a spray and get the knack of it, the rest is easy, she says. Just spray your hair into the style you want until it is locked into position like a mold.

When hair spray is used, the hair will need a shampoo before another style is attempted.

There's something basic about bread. Particularly Italian bread. With all our streamlining we Americans have never made a bread with the earthy goodness of a real Italian loaf. To do it, you have to slow down the clock. And that's what we did with 'taliano—a bread that's actually aged a bit, after mixing, like a fine wine . . . then slow-baked in a hearth. Try it toasted. Council To Meet Millon To Discuss Pay And Jobs

The Mayor and Council and the man who laid the groundwork for the city's present wage and job classification ordinances will confer Thursday, January 12, at 7:30 p. m. in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

The meeting with Milton B. Millon, director of the Municipal Technical Advisory Service of the Maryland Municipal League at College Park, is the result of a recent meeting between council and the Cumberland Civil Service Commission.

The commission had asked that the present ordinances be unchanged for a year in order to give them a fair chance to work. Some changes have been made and there are requests for correction of what have been termed "inequities."

At the meeting it was decided to confer with Millon and that any changes in the ordinances adopted last July 1 should be a matter of study and not a spur of the moment decision.

Fate Of Plane Service Tied To Subsidy

Cumberland is on the brink of losing its newest air service which has been in operation here only since the first part of November.

U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall in a telegram to local officials says that unless Algonquin Airlines obtains federal mail subsidy it must cease operations here within the next four weeks. He urged immediate local action.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday sent a telegram to the CAB following up a letter he dispatched in November urging the subsidy be granted for air mail and air express.

In his telegram, Mayor Keech pointed out it is imperative that the CAB grant the subsidy. He said elimination of flights would have a direct bearing on local plants having important defense contracts.

At the same time, Keech urged the general public to write the CAB asking that the subsidy be granted so that Cumberland can retain its air service.

Algonquin provides air service between here and Washington, D. C., and return and is a branch agency of Montgomery Air Charter Service, Inc., of Gaithersburg. T. J. (Ted) Whalen is general manager. Algonquin bought two "Dove" passenger planes for the local service and its investment in the venture represents nearly $200,000. Despite bad weather, it has maintained a steady schedule since coming here.

When Algonquin started flights here, it marked the first regular air service the city had had since February 1959 when Allegheny Airlines pulled out because of what it claimed was lack of business and terrain problems at the airport.

This case has been argued before the Civil Aeronautics Board with the city, Chamber of Commerce, industry and others opposing Allegheny's arguments and pointing up the need for air service here. No CAB decision is expected until spring but in the interim Allegheny is not required to service Cumberland.

Allegheny is a subsidized airline and had received a subsidy for its service to Cumberland.

Whalen several weeks ago said a subsidy for his air service would allow him to reduce fares and possibly increase a schedule to include Baltimore, Martinsburg and possibly Pittsburgh.

W. Earle Cobey Takes Oath As Judge

W. Earle Cobey, a native of Frostburg, yesterday took the oath of office as an associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland in an impressive ceremony at the Court House.

Cobey, who has practiced law in Cumberland for 25 years, was administered the oath by Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden as Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided.

Practically every member of the Allegany County Bar Association and many friends of the new judge were on hand.

Chief Judge Harris opened the proceedings by stating that Judge Cobey is the 63d judge to serve in the Fourth Judicial Circuit. The first to serve in the local court was Judge Andrew Bruce in 1791.

Judge Harris recounted that Judge Samuel Semmes was the first county citizen to become a judge in this circuit when he was appointed in 1844. Judge Thomas Perry was the first Allegany County citizen to be elected when he was chosen by voters in 1851. He served ten years. Judge Harris also stated:

"The Constitution and the statutes of the State of Maryland prescribe certain conditions that a man must meet before he may lawfully occupy a seat on the bench: and these are, technically, the qualifications of a judge, but I am sure nobody expects me to discuss them. They are too plain and simple to need discussion, and we all know that some qualifications of a judge are anything but plain and simple. Here is a dictum that I think most of us will agree is pretty sound: 'If thou be a severe sour-complexioned man, then I here disallow thee to be a competent judge.' True, that does not come from any famous jurist, but from a man that Judge Cobey probably admires—the great angler, Izaak Walton.

"I do not wish to make any extended remarks but from my observation and experience I would say to Judge Cobey that the public generally, and some inexperienced lawyers, believe judges to be sweet-tempered and possessed with an abundance of patience. The average citizen believes that judges should have no friends, should love isolation and whose wildest enjoyment should be working crossword puzzles. He should be kind and sympathetic—but not too kind and not too sympathetic. He should be tough—but not too tough. He should always preserve the balance of thought and should never, under any circumstances, do the wrong thing, and I can also say to our new judge that if he complies with all of these observations, he still will not satisfy everyone.

"Judge Cobey, I congratulate you on this fine demonstration of the confidence and pride that your fellow citizens repose in you. As one of those fellow citizens I join happily in this demonstration. And, as one of the judges of this circuit, it is my privilege and pleasure to welcome you to the bench."

Judge Cobey in a short talk from the bench stated he was "proud to serve as a judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit."

The jurist, appointed to serve until the next election in 1962, commented that he had been a member of the bar for 25 years and that it had been his observation that the Allegany County Bar Association was comprised of very competent attorneys.

As an example of the excellence of the county bar, he recalled that three former chief judges of the Maryland Court of Appeals, D. Lindley Sloan, Walter C. Capper and William C. Walsh, are members of the county bar. Then too, the recently-appointed attorney general of Maryland is Thomas B. Finan, also a member of the local bar, Judge Cobey said.

Judge Cobey said the Circuit Court here has been fortunate that Judge Harris had instituted procedures which have added to the decorum of the court and also expeditious handling of litigation.

"In Maryland it is possible to have a case heard and a decision handed down by the Court of Appeals within a year, in contrast with many other states where three to five years are often required for final disposition of cases," Judge Cobey said.

He said he will continue this procedure in the court here which Judge Harris instituted."

"It has made better lawyers of most members of the bar," Judge Cobey added.

Judge Cobey and his wife, the former Virginia Brewer, were congratulated individually by the members of the bar and their friends who attended the ceremony.

Fate Of Plane Service Tied To Subsidy

Cumberland is on the brink of losing its newest air service which has been in operation here only since the first part of November.

U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall in a telegram to local officials says that unless Algonquin Airlines obtains federal mail subsidy it must cease operations here within the next four weeks He urged immediate local action.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday sent a telegram to the CAB following up a letter he dispatched in November urging the subsidy be granted for air mail and air express.

In his telegram, Mayor Keech pointed out it is imperative that the CAB grant the subsidy. He said elimination of flights would have a direct bearing on local plants having important defense contracts.

At the same time, Keech urged the general public to write the CAB asking that the subsidy be granted so that Cumberland can retain its air service.

Algonquin provides air service between here and Washington, D. C., and return and is a branch agency of Montgomery Air Charter Service, Inc., of Gaithersburg. T. J. (Ted) Whalen is general manager. Algonquin bought two "Dove" passenger planes for the local service and its investment in the venture represents nearly $200,000. Despite bad weather, it has maintained a steady schedule since coming here.

When Algonquin started flights here, it marked the first regular air service the city had had since February 1959 when Allegheny Airlines pulled out because of what it claimed was lack of business and terrain problems at the airport.

This case has been argued before the Civil Aeronautics Board with the city, Chamber of Commerce, industry and others opposing Allegheny's arguments and pointing up the need for air service here. No CAB decision is expected until spring but in the interim Allegheny is not required to service Cumberland.

Allegheny is a subsidized airline and had received a subsidy for its service to Cumberland.

Whalen several weeks ago said a subsidy for his air service would allow him to reduce fares and possibly increase a schedule to include Baltimore, Martinsburg and possibly Pittsburgh.

W. Earle Cobey Takes Oath As Judge

W. Earle Cobey, a native of Frostburg, yesterday took the oath of office as an associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland in an impressive ceremony at the Court House.

Cobey, who has practiced law in Cumberland for 25 years, was administered the oath by Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden as Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided.

Practically every member of the Allegany County Bar Association and many friends of the new judge were on hand.

Chief Judge Harris opened the proceedings by stating that Judge Cobey is the 63d judge to serve in the Fourth Judicial Circuit. The first to serve in the local court was Judge Andrew Bruce in 1791.

Judge Harris recounted that Judge Samuel Semmes was the first county citizen to become a judge in this circuit when he was appointed in 1844. Judge Thomas Perry was the first Allegany County citizen to be elected when he was chosen by voters in 1851. He served ten years. Judge Harris also stated:

"The Constitution and the statutes of the State of Maryland prescribe certain conditions that a man must meet before he may lawfully occupy a seat on the bench: and these are, technically, the qualifications of a judge, but I am sure nobody expects me to discuss them. They are too plain and simple to need discussion, and we all know that some qualifications of a judge are anything but plain and simple. Here is a dictum that I think most of us will agree is pretty sound: 'If thou be a severe sour-complexioned man, then I here disallow thee to be a competent judge.' True, that does not come from any famous jurist, but from a man that Judge Cobey probably admires—the great angler, Izaak Walton.

"I do not wish to make any extended remarks but from my observation and experience I would say to Judge Cobey that the public generally, and some inexperienced lawyers, believe judges to be sweet-tempered and possessed with an abundance of patience. The average citizen believes that judges should have no friends, should love isolation and whose wildest enjoyment should be working crossword puzzles. He should be kind and sympathetic—but not too kind and not too sympathetic. He should be tough—but not too tough. He should always preserve the balance of thought and should never, under any circumstances, do the wrong thing, and I can also say to our new judge that if he complies with all of these observations, he still will not satisfy everyone.

"Judge Cobey, I congratulate you on this fine demonstration of the confidence and pride that your fellow citizens repose in you. As one of those fellow citizens I join happily in this demonstration. And, as one of the judges of this circuit, it is my privilege and pleasure to welcome you to the bench."

Judge Cobey in a short talk from the bench stated he was "proud to serve as a judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit."

The jurist, appointed to serve until the next election in 1962, commented that he had been a member of the bar for 25 years and that it had been his observation that the Allegany County Bar Association was comprised of very competent attorneys.

As an example of the excellence of the county bar, he recalled that three former chief judges of the Maryland Court of Appeals, D. Lindley Sloan, Walter C. Capper and William C. Walsh, are members of the county bar. Then too, the recently-appointed attorney general of Maryland is Thomas B. Finan, also a member of the local bar, Judge Cobey said.

Judge Cobey said the Circuit Court here has been fortunate that Judge Harris had instituted procedures which have added to the decorum of the court and also expeditious handling of litigation.

"In Maryland it is possible to have a case heard and a decision handed down by the Court of Appeals within a year, in contrast with many other states where three to five years are often required for final disposition of cases," Judge Cobey said.

He said he will continue this procedure in the court here which Judge Harris instituted."

"It has made better lawyers of most members of the bar," Judge Cobey added.

Judge Cobey and his wife, the former Virginia Brewer, were congratulated individually by the members of the bar and their friends who attended the ceremony.

Police Continue Probe Of Jug Store Robbery

Vague Description Hinders Authorities

City police are checking out a couple of leads in an armed robbery reported Wednesday night by a clerk in a local store who said $134.56 was taken.

Two men of medium build who are in their 20s entered Barton's J&K Jug Store at 7:56 p.m. Wednesday, according to Mrs. Louise Emerick, store clerk.

She said one of them held a gun on her and told her to sit in a chair behind a cooler in the store. The other man took the money from the cash register, the clerk told police.

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van said yesterday the Detective Bureau is having trouble tracking down the two men since such a "vague" description was furnished by the frightened store clerk.

Mrs. Emerick who lives at 510 Patterson Avenue, was alone in the store at the time of the robbery, according to police, who said they checked out any possibility the two men may have fled from the area on foot.

After the two men took the money they told the clerk to remain seated for five minutes until they got away, police added.

The lotus plant was used as food in India and later introduced into Egypt.

Hume Resigns As Treasurer Of Demo Party

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — David Hume submitted his resignation as Maryland Democratic party treasurer and Gov. Tawes indicated Thursday it would be accepted without regret.

The eruption of the intra-party backstage feud had been expected for some time. Hume had differed with the governor and other party leaders on issues ranging from slot machines to water pollution.

The 45-year-old Hume, a Washington lawyer and Texas-born son-in-law of millionaire industrialist Cyrus Eaton, has indicated he plans to run for statewide office in 1962.

The terms of Tawes, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, Atty. General-designate Thomas B. Finan — all Democrats — and Republican U. S. Sen. John Marshall Butler expire then.

Hume also has been reported under consideration for appointment by President-elect Kennedy as U. S. ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS).

Without Endorsement

But without endorsement by the state party organization, said one highly-placed Democrat, his bid for such a post would be considerably weakened.

"Of course, we're going to accept it (Hume's resignation) because Dave has contributed little or nothing to the party as treasurer," Tawes said.

"We feel he has been a great disappointment to us."

The governor said he received Hume's letter of resignation late Wednesday.

Hume said he mailed it after a lengthy telephone conversation Monday with Finan, who is state party chairman. Finan was named by Tawes last week to step from his post as secretary of state into the office of attorney general, made vacant by the earlier appointment of C. Ferdinand Sybert to the Maryland Court of Appeals bench.

Hume said he gave no particular reason in his one-paragraph resignation letter but indicated the step was a natural result of his many differences with administration forces on policy matters.

Hume achieved prominence in the party organization by helping Goldstein in his successful 1958 campaign for comptroller on the Tawes ticket.

Named To Board

Later named to the State Board of Natural Resources by Tawes, he has sought to develop that agency into a strong coordinator of state conservation and resources development programs. It is now merely an advisory body with little actual power.

In this move Hume crossed swords with Dr. H. C. Byrd, acting director of the Tidewater Fisheries Department and chairman of the fisheries commission. Byrd has resisted attempts to strip his agency of some of its independence.

Southern Maryland members of the General Assembly also balked at contributing toward maintenance of the party's year-around headquarters because of Hume's campaign against slot machine operations in their area.

Spearheaded Fight

Despite opposition from established party elements, Hume spearheaded the successful fight to limit slot machine operations by referendum in the Nov. 8 elections. The public vote placed a limit of 35 on the number of machines which can legally be operated in a single establishment in Charles County, where Hume lives on a 220-acre farm near Bryantown.

Hume and other party leaders also clashed when the treasurer spoke out against the new Potomac River Compact and called for reapportionment of legislative seats strictly in accordance with population.

Dividends Declared

The board of directors of Hercules Powder Company yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, equal to $1.25 per share on its preferred stock. It is payable on February 15, 1961, to stockholders of record on February 1.

A German-Italian soccer game, played at Huntsville, Ala., ended with a bang. The ball exploded.

pears convincing evidence that he was sympathetic to the Union cause. In those days, President Abraham Lincoln has suspended the writ of habeas corpus and had had a number of pro-Southern Maryland officials arrested, including the mayor of Baltimore and a number of members of both the House of Delegates and the State Senate.

The Semmes family apparently had Cumberland links almost to contemporary times. Richard Thompson Semmes, a son of Samuel M. Semmes, was born in Cumberland January 2, 1843. At the time the Thomas and Williams History of Allegany County was published in 1923, Richard T. Semmes was identified in a biographical sketch as the oldest member of the Allegany County bar. He had served as magistrate of the Juvenile Court here from 1916 until 1920.

An interesting note about the independence of Samuel M. Semmes is included in the biographical sketch of his son. The account stresses that Samuel Semmes was a Roman Catholic but yet donated the ground for the first temple when the Masonic Order was organized in Cumberland.

Samuel Semmes died in November 1867 and Raphael Semmes died nearly 10 years later, on August 30, 1877.

About one-third of all U.S. farm families now have television sets.

Steel Production: What Does It Mean?

Steel production for many weeks has been about one-half of mill capacity, and therein lies a tale of two observers. One sees this statistic as a sign of recession, a slipping economy and a dangerous dragging of feet at a time when economic aggression is an important gauge of cold war achievement.

The other observer points to the wide divergence of steel levels produced by Russia's straining facilities and U. S. idling plants, the fact that the Soviet bloc has been forced to turn to U. S. sources for a growing volume of consumer steel, and the ease with which the American steel industry could double its output at the onset of increased demand.

Both observers present plausible arguments, based on a single statistic. It is apparent that the rate of steel production expansion has outstripped a growing demand when steel output passes records of a few years ago while mills operate at half speed.

Steel production—that is, the tonnage output—for the year is not far from all time records. But, the steel industry has undergone an expansion program in the last decade which would be hard to match in any other field. Each Year Its Own

The year, 1961, brings in a new President, with some new faces in his Administration and some very old ones. Some of the new faces give hope of a rationalization of the structure and policy of government; some of the old faces are not a little frightening because they were among the authors of the errors which have brought upon us many of our present difficulties. But men do grow older and they do mature and those who blundered may have learned that doctrinaire assumptions are neither facts nor policies.

One of the principal assumptions of Franklin D. Roosevelt, based upon nothing more realistic than "hunch," was that he, of all men, could win Stalin over to his conception of democracy and Christian virtue. However, Stalin was a Marxist and was unaffected by Roosevelt's blandishments any more than Khrushchev was influenced by the spirit of Camp David or Tito by the vast extravagances which we showered upon him. Whether we shall have to go through another experiment at the conversion of Khrushchev by those who are to have a voice in the formulation of policy during the Kennedy Administration, I cannot, of course, know.

Some of those appointed might try their hand at it, particularly those who had been associated with the Roosevelt or Truman Administrations who are being resurrected from the oblivion which was their meet. However, some of them may redeem themselves, for there is nothing like a sinner who is given a second chance.

What is necessary is not so much a reformulation of policy as a total reorganization of the personnel of the State Department, the searching out of blackmailable homosexuals in both the State Department and the Pentagon and their elimination at any cost, and the exposure of characters such as William Arthur Montenegro, by whatever name he goes.

And this brings me to the question of what will be done about William Arthur Montenegro, by whatever name he goes in the State Department.

This man used the power of the government of the United States which he was able to exercise to make it possible for Fidel Castro to turn Cuba into a Soviet satellite just as the little I.P.R. experts in the various parts of the government were able in the Truman Administration to make it possible for those "agrarian reformers," the Chinese Communists, to take over the whole of China and lower the status and prestige of the United States in the world. This country does not need to go through another period of wild-eyed world-changers.

I have been told that the Eastland Committee has been investigating William Arthur Montenegro, by whatever name he goes, for many months and that this committee possesses more information concerning him and his activities than I possess, although I doubt that, for I have the entire story. However, if the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee possesses such data, what is it waiting for? Is it waiting for the State Department to shift this man to a European country so that he can go behind the Iron Curtain?

The new President will need to face many reorganizations of departments, but none is as important as the restudy of the personnel of the State Department and of other departments which deal with foreign relations. For some reason, these departments have been infiltrated and infested with unsatisfactory personnel. It is not so much a matter of the "Ugly American," as it is that the information which comes to a President is too often inadequate or even incorrect and that the day-by-day actions and decisions which cumulatively become policy before a President can act, are not always beneficial to the United States.

Some Presidents have taken the view that because these departments affect international relations, they must be protected from the vulgar eyes of the people through the action of a Congressional Committee. Thus great mischief can be done by small people. The William Arthur Montenegro case—by whatever name he goes—opens the door wide. No Secretary of State and no President can have any excuse for protecting this case from Congressional investigations, and this one case will open many windows to shocking conditions.

The new President will have to clean house anyhow and he might as well start in the State Department which is the show-case of the nation and a very sloppy show-case it is, indeed.

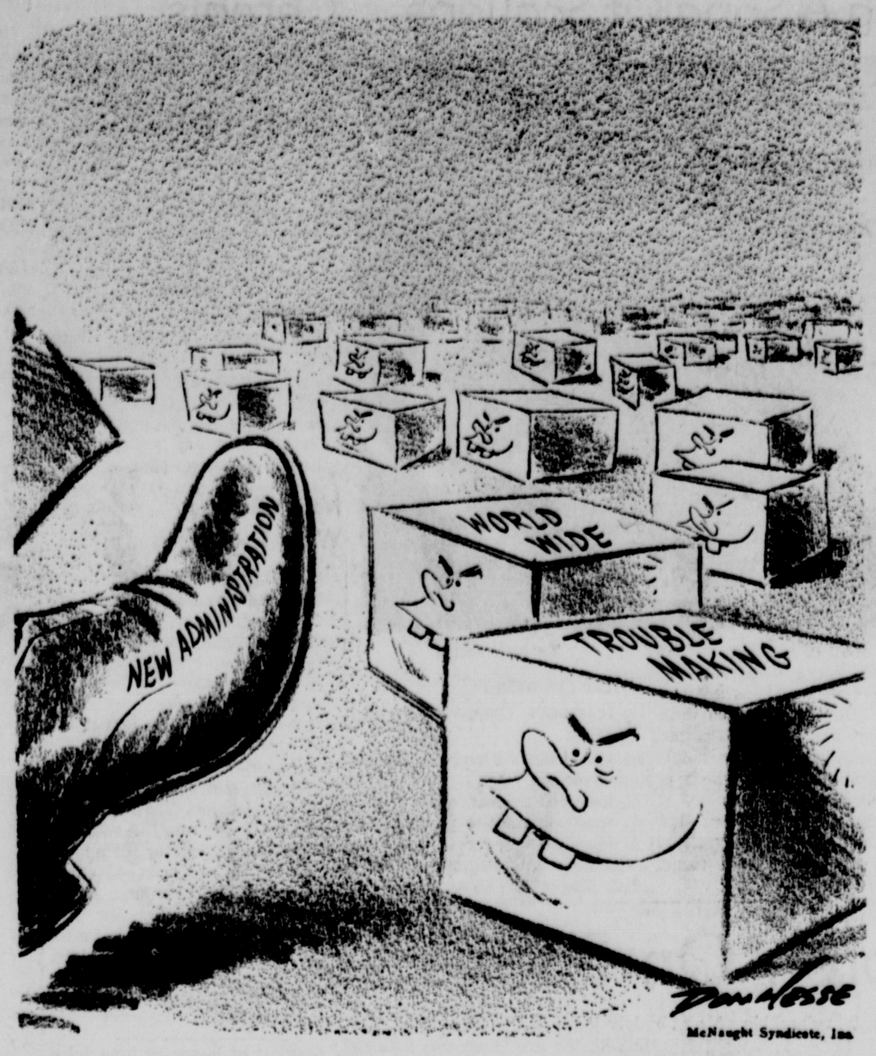
Stumbling Blocks A-Plenty



Federal Commissions And The Tug-Of-War

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — How federal commissions and boards shall function isn't a very spectacular subject and hence suffers from inattention by the public, yet this fundamental issue goes to the root of responsible government. It involves many hundreds of millions of dollars in governmental favors, the handing out of which under lobbying pressures and other forms of influence have produced many scandals.

When the founding fathers created three separate divisions of government — the Executive, the Legislative, and the Judicial branches—they didn't foresee the need for a fourth, namely, the commissions and boards that necessarily combine both administrative and judicial functions.

There have just been issued two reports on the whole subject. One is called a "staff report to the special subcommittee on legislative oversight of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce." The other is a special report submitted to President-elect Kennedy by James M. Landis, who occupied a prominent role in two of these federal commissions under Democratic administrations.

The recommendations of both reports are general in nature and urge the appointment of better qualified men, with a high sense of duty, so as to avoid the scandals in lobbying and outside influence that have been exposed in recent years. The report to the House, in one of its conclusions, says:

"The time has arrived when Congress, the Executive, and the commissions themselves should institute a program of action to eliminate bottlenecks and provide for more just and expeditious administration of the law. The goal is not an across-the-board solution for the myriad problems of the several agencies. Nor should it be a superficial tinkering with existing statutes and regulations. What we need are far-reaching, constructive measures implementing a broad, clearly defined, national policy in each of the regulatory areas involved, plus a limited number of enactments tailored to meet the particular needs of the various commissions."

In his report, Mr. Landis speaks of "lobbying in its worst sense" as occurring in connection with the award of overseas airline routes by the Civil Aeronautics Board, of which he was at one time chairman. Criticism is also directed against the Federal Communications Commission, and the charge is made that "a strong suspicion also exists that far too great an influence is exercised over the commission" by the radio and TV networks. The Federal Power Commission is reprimanded for allegedly flouting the interest of consumers in deciding rate cases in the national-gas industry, while opinions of the Interstate Commerce Commission are characterized as "in the poorest category."

Mr. Landis realizes that there is no simple solution and proposes therefore that Congress give the President the power to carry out reorganizations from time to time, subject to Congressional veto. In the meantime, he would set up in the White House itself an office for the coordination and development of transportation policy, and similar offices for communications and energy policies, along with a super-coordinating agency to oversee the work of all the regulatory commissions.

The truth of the matter is that until the basic issue involved is settled—to what extent these commissions shall remain executive, and how judicial matters arising under their operations shall be handled—not much progress is likely to be made on the whole complex problem.

After Herbert Hoover left the Presidency, he spent several years at the head of commissions studying governmental reorganization, and one of his most significant recommendations was that federal regulatory agencies should exercise quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial functions but turn over their administrative activities to the Executive departments of government headed by members of the Cabinet.

The many regulatory commissions are dealing every day with questions that involve hundreds of millions of dollars. The licenses for valuable radio and television facilities are, for instance, issued free on a discretionary basis, instead of being awarded to the highest bidder.

There has been much criticism of the lobbying that goes on, but the most serious phase of it isn't likely to be corrected if the present system is maintained. Members of Congress, under pressure from their constituents, do a lot of lobbying for them and consider it legitimate. Yet they wouldn't venture to approach judges who are part of a court system.

No matter how much "coordinating" is done, as urged in the Landis report, the main issue still remains untouched—if Congress isn't permitted to lobby, shall the White House staff enjoy that privilege? F. D. R. tried to control the Federal Trade Commission and fired its chairman because he said the latter's views "didn't go along" with his own. The Supreme Court reversed that action and said that the commissioners could be removed only for the causes specifically set forth in the law by Congress, and that disapproval of a commissioner's policies wasn't one of them. Yet the Landis report now would give the President dictatorial power over the commissions by providing that the chairman of each would serve at the pleasure of the President.

Congress is jealous of its prerogatives, and ultimately the whole problem will be satisfactorily solved only if there's a distinct line drawn between administrative and judicial matters, and if boards or special courts of review—untouchable by any lobbyist—are set up to protect the public interest.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NEW DEFENSE BOSS—Secretary of Defense-designate Robert S. McNamara is listed as a Republican, but the fact is that he's pretty independent politically.

In 1940, when he was a faculty member of the Harvard Business School, a poll was taken to find out how the top school's faculty felt about a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The vote was 98 to 2 to back F.D.R. One of the two dissenters was—you guessed it—McNamara, then a 24-year-old. Obviously, McNamara, even at that young age, was a traditionalist, hardly the kind of man to march in the forefront toward Kennedy's "new frontier."

McNamara is no stranger to Washington. He was one of a tight group of "bright young men" who worked in the Pentagon during World War II. As Defense secretary, he'll be making the same kind of seemingly-impossible decisions he's been doing at the Ford Motor Co., whose presidency he has resigned after just a month in the job.

One kind of decision he'll be called upon to make at the Pentagon is the design of weapons which won't come off the assembly line for five more years. As Ford president, he just got through okaying the 1963 model cars of that company.

Something like playing three-level chess blindfolded by mail.

Van Cliburn Declines Inauguration Bid, Offers To Address Congress

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Plans are proceeding for one of the most glamorous Inaugurations Washington has seen in years. But the ceremonies will be minus one headlined Texan who has received the plaudits of music lovers in Moscow, New York, Washington, and the capitals of Europe.

Mrs. Paul Magnuson, co-chairman of the Inaugural Concert Committee, made a report to her colleagues the other day as follows:

"The concert program is taking shape nicely," she said. "We have no lack of artists who are delighted to participate, except for one—Van Cliburn.

She referred to the young pianist who received the Tschaikovsky Award in Moscow and who has played to capacity audiences in Constitution Hall in the nation's capital.

"Mr. Cliburn," continued Mrs. Magnuson, "said that since he is a Republican he could not participate in Mr. Kennedy's Inauguration. But the next time he comes to Washington he said he would be glad to address a joint session of Congress."

Liberals vs. Old Guard

Liberal Democratic Senators meet privately today to map strategy for a showdown with right-wing Southern Democrats over which side—the North or the South—will dominate the Senate under President Kennedy.

What they decide will, in turn, decide whether there is a bitter fight at the opening of Congress over filibustering, passing a strong civil rights bill, and knocking Sens. Harry Byrd of Virginia and Jim Eastland of Mississippi out of their committee chairmanships because they don't agree with the Democratic platform. What they decide will also affect the Kennedy legislative program.

Meanwhile, what the Democratic liberals don't know is that another rebellion is springing up on the Republican side of Congress, sparked by Congressman John Lindsay of New York. He has got together with other liberal Republicans to work out the same kind of revolt against GOP leader Charlie Halleck that liberal Democrats are organizing against Southern Democrats.

So far no Republican, except ex-speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts, has dared defy Halleck's iron-fisted leadership. But now some GOP Congressmen are revolting. And certain Republican Senators—Case of New Jersey, Javits and Keating of New York, Cooper of Kentucky—may do likewise in the Senate.

They will be working directly with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in New York, who without saying so publicly is determined not to let the Republican Party be dominated by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. If the new Republican insurgents are tough enough, they could tip the balance in Congress and break up the old Republican-Dixiecrat coalition.

Why Nixon Lost

It has been no secret that President Eisenhower was bitterly disappointed at Vice President Nixon's defeat and that some careful diagnoses were made inside the White House as to what caused the defeat. These diagnoses, however, were kept secret.

This column is now able to publish one of them, written by Bryce N. Harlow, deputy assistant to the President, and one of Ike's closest aides.

Writing a confidential letter on White House stationery one week after the election, Harlow told the late Victor Emmanuel, head of AVCO and a big business backer of the President, that the TV debates should not have taken place, that Nixon's speech writers were inferior to Kennedy's, and that "Negroes, Jews and Catholics committed political incest."

Here is the text of Harlow's confidential letter:

"Dear Victor:

". . . I am still far from recovering. When asked what happened, my stock reply is that the bigots were maldistributed. In retrospect:

(1) If Dick had started flailing massively one week sooner;

(2) If my boss had done simultaneously likewise;

(3) If Cabot hadn't got his hand caught in the Cabinet;

(4) If Bruce Alger hadn't mauled Lady Bird;

(5) If Negroes, Jews and Catholics hadn't committed political incest;

(6) If Reuther's hate sheet had been, in retaliation, hatefully used;

(7) If Dick had been willing to arouse a religious war;

(8) If Republicans weren't too virtuous to make promises they can't keep;

(9) If all ballots had been honestly counted;

(10) If there had been no debates;

(11) If RN had emanated prurience instead of principle;

(12) If Nelson had tried earlier—and tried;

(13) If we had more chairmen like Bliss;

(14) If the South really believed what its bleats;

(15) If conservatives would make like cope;

(16) If Republican proliferated and registered as rapidly as Democrats, and,

(17) If Dick Nixon had had as good speech writers as Kennedy—we MIGHT have won.

At least, looking back we can say that Dick proved that America is half sane. Looking ahead, we can say that Kennedy starts out with half the votes, and in four years will have less. Less than one-half isn't enough for '64 . . .

Warmly,

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

MIAMI, Fla.—The beach looks like the jaw of a rich barracuda. The snowy hotels make a jagged line of teeth 6 miles long and a half mile wide. About 65,000 people live in Miami Beach. Between now and Easter, there will be 190,000 tourists at all times. They will scale in and out of planes, Pullman sleepers, and cars rolling down Route One.

The beach is America's premier playground. For every American who vacations somewhere else, three come here. Who made it? Carl Fisher? E. M. Flagler? Steve Hannagan? They helped. So did Walter Winchell and Arthur Godfrey. The man who came here when it was sand dunes and swale grass and remained until it became a $700,000,000 insult to the American pocketbook is Claude Renshaw.

He was city manager of Miami Beach from 1925 until 1958. He is 69 now, a man with a big dome, a soft whisper and the word "no." These are his assets. Today, he is president of the Miami Beach Federal Savings and Loan Company and he stands in a plush office with his hands in his pants pockets looking out the window and shaking his head.

Once, Renshaw was a farm kid in Inwood, Iowa. He was so far from any place else that his best fun was going to bed. Iowa University made a civil engineer of him and he went off to a big city—Roundup, Montana—to practice. It wasn't bad. He did surveying and irrigation engineering and he got away once, when he went to World War I. When he came home, 3,500 people in Roundup elected him mayor.

He married Zoe Parkinson, a big-eyed ranch girl who used to drive 125 miles in a buckboard with her father to get to a railroad. They were happy and, in time, had two children to prove it. In 1925, a friend of a friend sent Claude a copy of the Miami Herald. It was a special edition devoted to the great big land boom in Florida.

Renshaw left Roundup, told Zoe to keep the children warm, and went to Florida. The City of Miami looked like a hubcap built around Flagler Street and North West 2nd. The rest of the big wheel was missing. It had one skyscraper, one big department store, a scandal sheet printed in blue ink, sunshine and pink clouds.

It also had a land bridge built to Miami Beach, 3 miles across Biscayne Bay. This was called a causeway. There was a concrete ship high and dry beside the ship channel, a lot of maps showing how beautiful everything was going to look someday, and a lot of New York swindlers called the "binder boys."

William Jennings Bryan was selling lots. Arthur Pryor conducted band concerts in Bay Front Park. Jan Garber and his band played music on a raft in the middle of a Coral Gables pool. Miami Beach was even less exciting. It had 4,000 residents. There was a pool on the south end run by Smith and Hardy. At 22nd Street there was a place called The Roman Pools. Three hotels faced the bay. Old John Collins had a house on 26th Street. Harvey Firestone had one on 44th.

Claude Renshaw worked at surveying for a while. Then he answered an advertisement for city manager of Miami Beach and got the job. It paid $7,500 a year. He sent for Zoe and the children. Then he examined the so-called city. It was rich in sand dunes and swamps. It had no sanitary department and water came across the causeway in a wooden pipe.

There was one fire company and 25 policemen. Renshaw said that the place needed a press agent. He hired Steve Hannagan, Joe Copps and Larry Smits. They were paid $1,000 each for sending pictures of Miami high school girls in bathing suits to northern newspapers. Then the boom busted, a hurricane bent the palm trees and someone said the whole island could be bought for $500,000. No one wanted it.

Claude Renshaw stuck to it. He and Tom Pancoast and the Collinses worked with Hannagan to build it big. Today, there are 375 hotels and motels in the 7.1 square miles of Miami Beach. There are 30,000 hotel rooms and 25,000 apartment units. There are big yachts and brazen neon signs and plush lobbies. There are golf courses and beaches and cabanas. The Sanitation Dept. has 1,200 employees. There are 200 policemen, some of whom live only on their salaries.

Renshaw was getting $21,000 a year when he retired. He has property in Ojus, a small town on the mainland, and his investments help him to sleep well. For diversion, he used to like drinking with the boys, but age made him give it up. When he quit as city manager, the beach was worth $700,000,000.

The children are married, and he and Zoe live in a nice apartment. In 33 years, they have never been to another resort on vacation. This might be a good time for a trip—well, Roundup . . .

It Makes Sense To Wear A Hat In Cold Weather

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Cover the head with a hat or scarf in cold weather when inactive. A recent experimental study shows that at a temperature of 25 degrees F., a clothed man can lose half the heat produced by his body via an uncovered head. Three-quarters escapes through this route perature drops to 5 degrees F. This is important to know because the body is our only source of heat production when standing out into the cold.

The head need not be protected when exercising or working out of doors in frigid weather, as the body generates more heat than it needs. Since little is lost through the garments, shoes, and gloves, the individual will be more comfortable if he has an escape hatch, such as an uncovered cranium.

Perspiration is a continuous process in winter as well as summer. It increases with exertion and lessens during rest. Evaporation of this water vapor is needed to assure maximum comfort but waterproof outer garments hinder the process.

Many mariners continue to prefer oilskins to protect against cold sea water, spray and rain. They are wonderful outer garments but perspiration may make the wearer wet on the inside, especially if he is active. This often leads to an after exercise chill — which is uncomfortable but better than chilling by external near freezing water.

The ideal outer garment on damp days is made of two layers of tightly woven fabric. It resists water and the space between is an effective windbreak. The cloth is air permeable to allow vapor from perspiration to escape.

TOMORROW: Discolored skin

RUBBER SOLES

F. W. writes: I like to wear rubber soled shoes but my friends tell me they are dangerous. If so, why are they allowed on the market

REPLY

This fallacy was disproved so long ago I thought it would never come up again. Rubber soles have no effect on the body except to cushion every step. They are objectionable only if the shoes fail to support the arches and in persons allergic to rubber.

DAY-NIGHT CYCLE

H. P. S. writes: What causes the kidneys to excrete more at night than during the day?

REPLY

The filtration units have been damaged due to chronic infection, obstruction, or changes in circulation. The normal kidneys usually excrete three times as much urine during the day as at night. When damaged, the output equalizes or becomes greater at night.

LOOK FOR OTHER CAUSES

H. A. L. writes: Are dizziness, headache palpitation and rapid pulse symptomatic of high blood pressure?

REPLY

Some hypertensives have these complaints, but 95 per cent feel fine. They would not know that the blood pressure is up unless a physician tells them.

LEAD POISONING

M. O. writes: Can a person get lead poisoning if paint gets into a cut?

REPLY

Not under reasonable circumstances. Lead poisoning is common in children who eat lead laden flakes of paint from old buildings or fences.

CHEWING AND ULCER

M. M. writes: Must a person with ulcer chew his food to excess before swallowing it?

REPLY

No. I've never known a person who ate rapidly who had ulcer. Even though there is no relationship between the number of chews and ulcer, it pays to eat your meals in a happy, leisurely atmosphere.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Mike Nichols, a new favorite with theatre and night club audiences, began his professional career in New York as a waiter in Howard Johnson's, and lived for one month on mustard and cold cereal. "There was really nothing to it," he explains. "I simply mixed the mustard with the cold cereal and ate it."

Elaine May, Nichols' brilliant young partner, found the early going equally rough in Chicago. "There was only one way I could live there successfully on $12 a week," she recalls. "I kept a goat."

Letter received by an Edinburgh newspaper:

"Sir: When I subscribed to your rag a year ago you guaranteed that if I was dissatisfied, my money would be refunded. Well, send it back. P. S. On second thought, to save you bother, you may apply it to my next year's subscription."

Steel Production: What Does It Mean?

Steel production for many weeks has been about one-half of mill capacity, and therein lies a tale of two observers. One sees this statistic as a sign of recession, a slipping economy and a dangerous dragging of feet at a time when economic aggression is an important gauge of cold war achievement.

The other observer points to the wide divergence of steel levels produced by Russia's straining facilities and U. S. idling plants, the fact that the Soviet bloc has been forced to turn to U. S. sources for a growing volume of consumer steel, and the ease with which the American steel industry could double its output at the onset of increased demand.

Both observers present plausible arguments, based on a single statistic. It is apparent that the rate of steel production expansion has outstripped a growing demand when steel output passes records of a few years ago while mills operate at half speed.

Steel production—that is, the tonnage output—for the year is not far from all time records. But, the steel industry has undergone an expansion program in the last decade which would be hard to match in any other field. A smaller output in the early 1950s was achieved only by operating some months at a phenomenal rate of 110 per cent of capacity.

After Herbert Hoover left the Presidency, he spent several years at the head of commissions studying governmental reorganization, and one of his most significant recommendations was that federal regulatory agencies should exercise quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial functions but turn over their administrative activities to the Executive departments of government headed by members of the Cabinet.

The many regulatory commissions are dealing every day with questions that involve hundreds of millions of dollars. The licenses for valuable radio and television facilities are, for instance, issued free on a discretionary basis, instead of being awarded to the highest bidder.

There has been much criticism of the lobbying that goes on, but the most serious phase of it isn't likely to be corrected if the present system is maintained. Members of Congress, under pressure from their constituents, do a lot of lobbying for them and consider it legitimate. Yet they wouldn't venture to approach judges who are part of a court system.

No matter how much "coordinating" is done, as urged in the Landis report, the main issue still remains untouched—if Congress isn't permitted to lobby, shall the White House staff enjoy that privilege? F. D. R. tried to control the Federal Trade Commission and fired its chairman because he said the latter's views "didn't go along" with his own. The Supreme Court reversed that action and said that the commissioners could be removed only for the causes specifically set forth in the law by Congress, and that disapproval of a commissioner's policies wasn't one of them. Yet the Landis report now would give the President dictatorial power over the commissions by providing that the chairman of each would serve at the pleasure of the President.

Congress is jealous of its prerogatives, and ultimately the whole problem will be satisfactorily solved only if there's a distinct line drawn between administrative and judicial matters, and if boards or special courts of review—untouchable by any lobbyist—are set up to protect the public interest.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NEW DEFENSE BOSS—Secretary of Defense-designate Robert S. McNamara is listed as a Republican, but the fact is that he's pretty independent politically.

In 1940, when he was a faculty member of the Harvard Business School, a poll was taken to find out how the top school's faculty felt about a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The vote was 98 to 2 to back F.D.R. One of the two dissenters was—you guessed it—McNamara, then a 24-year-old. Obviously, McNamara, even at that young age, was a traditionalist, hardly the kind of man to march in the forefront toward Kennedy's "new frontier."

McNamara is no stranger to Washington. He was one of a tight group of "bright young men" who worked in the Pentagon during World War II. As Defense secretary, he'll be making the same kind of seemingly-impossible decisions he's been doing at the Ford Motor Co., whose presidency he has resigned after just a month in the job.

One kind of decision he'll be called upon to make at the Pentagon is the design of weapons which won't come off the assembly line for five more years. As Ford president, he just got through okaying the 1963 model cars of that company.

Something like playing three-level chess blindfolded by mail.

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Cover the head with a hat or scarf in cold weather when inactive. A recent experimental study shows that at a temperature of 25 degrees F., a clothed man can lose half the heat produced by his body via an uncovered head. Three-quarters escapes through this route perature drops to 5 degrees F. This is important to know because the body is our only source of heat production when standing out into the cold.

The head need not be protected when exercising or working out of doors in frigid weather, as the body generates more heat than it needs. Since little is lost through the garments, shoes, and gloves, the individual will be more comfortable if he has an escape hatch, such as an uncovered cranium.

Perspiration is a continuous process in winter as well as summer. It increases with exertion and lessens during rest. Evaporation of this water vapor is needed to assure maximum comfort but waterproof outer garments hinder the process.

Many mariners continue to prefer oilskins to protect against cold sea water, spray and rain. They are wonderful outer garments but perspiration may make the wearer wet on the inside, especially if he is active. This often leads to an after exercise chill — which is uncomfortable but better than chilling by external near freezing water.

The ideal outer garment on damp days is made of two layers of tightly woven fabric. It resists water and the space between is an effective windbreak. The cloth is air permeable to allow vapor from perspiration to escape.

TOMORROW: Discolored skin

RUBBER SOLES

F. W. writes: I like to wear rubber soled shoes but my friends tell me they are dangerous. If so, why are they allowed on the market

REPLY

This fallacy was disproved so long ago I thought it would never come up again. Rubber soles have no effect on the body except to cushion every step. They are objectionable only if the shoes fail to support the arches and in persons allergic to rubber.

DAY-NIGHT CYCLE

H. P. S. writes: What causes the kidneys to excrete more at night than during the day?

REPLY

The filtration units have been damaged due to chronic infection, obstruction, or changes in circulation. The normal kidneys usually excrete three times as much urine during the day as at night. When damaged, the output equalizes or becomes greater at night.

LOOK FOR OTHER CAUSES

H. A. L. writes: Are dizziness, headache palpitation and rapid pulse symptomatic of high blood pressure?

REPLY

Some hypertensives have these complaints, but 95 per cent feel fine. They would not know that the blood pressure is up unless a physician tells them.

LEAD POISONING

M. O. writes: Can a person get lead poisoning if paint gets into a cut?

REPLY

Not under reasonable circumstances. Lead poisoning is common in children who eat lead laden flakes of paint from old buildings or fences.

CHEWING AND ULCER

M. M. writes: Must a person with ulcer chew his food to excess before swallowing it?

REPLY

No. I've never known a person who ate rapidly who had ulcer. Even though there is no relationship between the number of chews and ulcer, it pays to eat your meals in a happy, leisurely atmosphere.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Mike Nichols, a new favorite with theatre and night club audiences, began his professional career in New York as a waiter in Howard Johnson's, and lived for one month on mustard and cold cereal. "There was really nothing to it," he explains. "I simply mixed the mustard with the cold cereal and ate it."

Elaine May, Nichols' brilliant young partner, found the early going equally rough in Chicago. "There was only one way I could live there successfully on $12 a week," she recalls. "I kept a goat."

Letter received by an Edinburgh newspaper:

"Sir: When I subscribed to your rag a year ago you guaranteed that if I was dissatisfied, my money would be refunded. Well, send it back. P. S. On second thought, to save you bother, you may apply it to my next year's subscription."

Van Cliburn Declines Inauguration Bid, Offers To Address Congress

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Plans are proceeding for one of the most glamorous Inaugurations Washington has seen in years. But the ceremonies will be minus one headlined Texan who has received the plaudits of music lovers in Moscow, New York, Washington, and the capitals of Europe.

Mrs. Paul Magnuson, co-chairman of the Inaugural Concert Committee, made a report to her colleagues the other day as follows:

"The concert program is taking shape nicely," she said. "We have no lack of artists who are delighted to participate, except for one—Van Cliburn.

She referred to the young pianist who received the Tschaikovsky Award in Moscow and who has played to capacity audiences in Constitution Hall in the nation's capital.

"Mr. Cliburn," continued Mrs. Magnuson, "said that since he is a Republican he could not participate in Mr. Kennedy's Inauguration. But the next time he comes to Washington he said he would be glad to address a joint session of Congress."

Liberals vs. Old Guard

Liberal Democratic Senators meet privately today to map strategy for a showdown with right-wing Southern Democrats over which side—the North or the South—will dominate the Senate under President Kennedy.

What they decide will, in turn, decide whether there is a bitter fight at the opening of Congress over filibustering, passing a strong civil rights bill, and knocking Sens. Harry Byrd of Virginia and Jim Eastland of Mississippi out of their committee chairmanships because they don't agree with the Democratic platform. What they decide will also affect the Kennedy legislative program.

Meanwhile, what the Democratic liberals don't know is that another rebellion is springing up on the Republican side of Congress, sparked by Congressman John Lindsay of New York. He has got together with other liberal Republicans to work out the same kind of revolt against GOP leader Charlie Halleck that liberal Democrats are organizing against Southern Democrats.

So far no Republican, except ex-speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts, has dared defy Halleck's iron-fisted leadership. But now some GOP Congressmen are revolting. And certain Republican Senators—Case of New Jersey, Javits and Keating of New York, Cooper of Kentucky—may do likewise in the Senate.

They will be working directly with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in New York, who without saying so publicly is determined not to let the Republican Party be dominated by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. If the new Republican insurgents are tough enough, they could tip the balance in Congress and break up the old Republican-Dixiecrat coalition.

Why Nixon Lost

It has been no secret that President Eisenhower was bitterly disappointed at Vice President Nixon's defeat and that some careful diagnoses were made inside the White House as to what caused the defeat. These diagnoses, however, were kept secret.

This column is now able to publish one of them, written by Bryce N. Harlow, deputy assistant to the President, and one of Ike's closest aides.

Writing a confidential letter on White House stationery one week after the election, Harlow told the late Victor Emmanuel, head of AVCO and a big business backer of the President, that the TV debates should not have taken place, that Nixon's speech writers were inferior to Kennedy's, and that "Negroes, Jews and Catholics committed political incest."

Here is the text of Harlow's confidential letter:

"Dear Victor:

". . . I am still far from recovering. When asked what happened, my stock reply is that the bigots were maldistributed. In retrospect:

(1) If Dick had started flailing massively one week sooner;

(2) If my boss had done simultaneously likewise;

(3) If Cabot hadn't got his hand caught in the Cabinet;

(4) If Bruce Alger hadn't mauled Lady Bird;

(5) If Negroes, Jews and Catholics hadn't committed political incest;

(6) If Reuther's hate sheet had been, in retaliation, hatefully used;

(7) If Dick had been willing to arouse a religious war;

(8) If Republicans weren't too virtuous to make promises they can't keep;

(9) If all ballots had been honestly counted;

(10) If there had been no debates;

(11) If RN had emanated prurience instead of principle;

(12) If Nelson had tried earlier—and tried;

(13) If we had more chairmen like Bliss;

(14) If the South really believed what its bleats;

(15) If conservatives would make like cope;

(16) If Republican proliferated and registered as rapidly as Democrats, and,

(17) If Dick Nixon had had as good speech writers as Kennedy—we MIGHT have won.

At least, looking back we can say that Dick proved that America is half sane. Looking ahead, we can say that Kennedy starts out with half the votes, and in four years will have less. Less than one-half isn't enough for '64 . . .

Warmly,
S/ Bryce

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

MIAMI, Fla.—The beach looks like the jaw of a rich barracuda. The snowy hotels make a jagged line of teeth 6 miles long and a half mile wide. About 65,000 people live in Miami Beach. Between now and Easter, there will be 190,000 tourists at all times. They will scale in and out of planes, Pullman sleepers, and cars rolling down Route One.

The beach is America's premier playground. For every American who vacations somewhere else, three come here. Who made it? Carl Fisher? E. M. Flagler? Steve Hannagan? They helped. So did Walter Winchell and Arthur Godfrey. The man who came here when it was sand dunes and swale grass and remained until it became a $700,000,000 insult to the American pocketbook is Claude Renshaw.

He was city manager of Miami Beach from 1925 until 1958. He is 69 now, a man with a big dome, a soft whisper and the word "no." These are his assets. Today, he is president of the Miami Beach Federal Savings and Loan Company and he stands in a plush office with his hands in his pants pockets looking out the window and shaking his head.

Once, Renshaw was a farm kid in Inwood, Iowa. He was so far from any place else that his best fun was going to bed. Iowa University made a civil engineer of him and he went off to a big city—Roundup, Montana—to practice. It wasn't bad. He did surveying and irrigation engineering and he got away once, when he went to World War I. When he came home, 3,500 people in Roundup elected him mayor.

He married Zoe Parkinson, a big-eyed ranch girl who used to drive 125 miles in a buckboard with her father to get to a railroad. They were happy and, in time, had two children to prove it. In 1925, a friend of a friend sent Claude a copy of the Miami Herald. It was a special edition devoted to the great big land boom in Florida.

Renshaw left Roundup, told Zoe to keep the children warm, and went to Florida. The City of Miami looked like a hubcap built around Flagler Street and North West 2nd. The rest of the big wheel was missing. It had one skyscraper, one big department store, a scandal sheet printed in blue ink, sunshine and pink clouds.

It also had a land bridge built to Miami Beach, 3 miles across Biscayne Bay. This was called a causeway. There was a concrete ship high and dry beside the ship channel, a lot of maps showing how beautiful everything was going to look someday, and a lot of New York swindlers called the "binder boys."

William Jennings Bryan was selling lots. Arthur Pryor conducted band concerts in Bay Front Park. Jan Garber and his band played music on a raft in the middle of a Coral Gables pool. Miami Beach was even less exciting. It had 4,000 residents. There was a pool on the south end run by Smith and Hardy. At 22nd Street there was a place called The Roman Pools. Three hotels faced the bay. Old John Collins had a house on 26th Street. Harvey Firestone had one on 44th.

Claude Renshaw worked at surveying for a while. Then he answered an advertisement for city manager of Miami Beach and got the job. It paid $7,500 a year. He sent for Zoe and the children. Then he examined the so-called city. It was rich in sand dunes and swamps. It had no sanitary department and water came across the causeway in a wooden pipe.

There was one fire company and 25 policemen. Renshaw said that the place needed a press agent. He hired Steve Hannagan, Joe Copps and Larry Smits. They were paid $1,000 each for sending pictures of Miami high school girls in bathing suits to northern newspapers. Then the boom busted, a hurricane bent the palm trees and someone said the whole island could be bought for $500,000. No one wanted it.

Claude Renshaw stuck to it. He and Tom Pancoast and the Collinses worked with Hannagan to build it big. Today, there are 375 hotels and motels in the 7.1 square miles of Miami Beach. There are 30,000 hotel rooms and 25,000 apartment units. There are big yachts and brazen neon signs and plush lobbies. There are golf courses and beaches and cabanas. The Sanitation Dept. has 1,200 employees. There are 200 policemen, some of whom live only on their salaries.

Renshaw was getting $21,000 a year when he retired. He has property in Ojus, a small town on the mainland, and his investments help him to sleep well. For diversion, he used to like drinking with the boys, but age made him give it up. When he quit as city manager, the beach was worth $700,000,000.

The children are married, and he and Zoe live in a nice apartment. In 33 years, they have never been to another resort on vacation. This might be a good time for a trip—well, Roundup . . .

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Everything looks the same color to a dog—a solid gray. Maybe this is why some pooches don't seem able to distinguish between a juicy steak and a postman's skinny ankle!

Political speechifying isn't as raucous as it used to be, declares Grandpappy Jenkins. Says this year, for the first time in decades, he woke up on election day without an earache.

Eggs Baked In English Muffins

4 large English muffins
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
4 eggs
4 teaspoons cream or milk
¼ cup grated process cheese

Cut the center from each English muffin almost to the bottom with a (3-inch) cookie cutter and work circles out with a fork or knife. Spread center of muffins and cut-out portion with butter and place on a baking sheet. Break an egg into each muffin cup. Put 1 teaspoon cream and 1 tablespoon cheese on each egg. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for about 15 minutes, or until eggs are soft cooked and set. Serve the cut-out portion with each egg.

Yield: 4 servings.

Snacks To Sleep On

Researchers at the University of Illinois have come to the rescue of the restless sleeper. An easy-to-digest snack, they say, promotes restful sleep. Such a snack could be: Enriched or whole grain toast and tea, fruit, or cereal and milk. But keep it light. Those who ate heavy snacks were more restless in sleep than the light snackers.

Sing A Song Of Scallops

Sing a song of scallops . . . or better yet, serve them for supper! Pre-cooked scallops are tender and plump, cut into bite-sized pieces and fried to a golden brown goodness. They need only a brief heating in a hot oven or a quick broiling to be ready to serve. Team them with cole slaw and French fries for a traditional sea food meal. And don't forget the tartare sauce!

Tartare Sauce

½ cup mayonnaise
1½ teaspoons chopped pickle relish
1½ teaspoons chopped stuffed olives
½ teaspoon minced onion
½ teaspoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon vinegar

Cereals Make Good Extenders

When it comes to food economy, many clever homemakers help their food budget by using extenders to stretch a small quantity of meat into a satisfying family entree. Many ready-to-eat cereals are admirably suited to this extender role.

This recipe for Meat Balls With Tomatoes, for instance, utilizes oven-toasted rice cereal. These crisp rice puffs not only give unusual texture to the meat balls but also add a flavor that enhances this ever-popular dish.

Meat Balls With Tomatoes

¾ pound ground beef
¼ pound ground pork or sausage
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup finely chopped onions
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups toasted rice cereal
1½ cups cooked tomatoes

Combine meats, egg, onions, seasonings and rice cereal; mix well. Shape into 12 balls. Fry meat balls in small amount of heated shortening or drippings, turning until well browned on all sides. Pour on tomatoes; cover. Continue cooking over low heat about 45 minutes or until meat balls are thoroughly cooked. Serve at once.

Yield: 6 servings, 2 medium meat balls each

A squirt of lemon or lime juice in the glass and a slice of lemon on the rim of the glass turns prune juice into a zesty dinner appetizer.

Hash a la Catalana

Leftover roast beef takes on new character in this hash of Spanish inspiration. Put the cooked meat through the food grinder enough to make 2 cups. Then put 2 carrots through grinder, and 2 medium onions, as well. Peel and chop 2 medium tomatoes. Now heat 3 tablespoons of Spanish olive oil in a heavy skillet, add the ground meat, stir until it starts to brown. Push the meat to one side, add the ground carrots and onions, saute about 1 minute. Add the tomatoes, cook until mushy, then blend in 2 tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Slowly add 2½ cups water. Simmer covered over low heat 15 to 20 minutes. Makes six scrumptious servings.

A giraffe has fewer bones in its neck than a bird does.

Beef "Kabobs"

Cut 2 pounds beef, round or sirloin, into 1½ inch cubes. Marinate 3 hours in ½ cup Italian Dressing to tenderize the meat and add delicious flavor. Then, string beef cubes, small pearl onions, mushrooms and green pepper chunks on skewers. Place 4 or 5 inches from heat. Broil approximately 25 minutes; turn frequently and baste with Wish-Bone marinade. 6 servings.

Valencia Salad

Combine sliced oranges and thin slices of onion for a refreshing salad: Marinate these two in a mixture of two parts Spanish olive oil to one part vinegar, with salt, pepper and a dash of paprika; then combine with crisp head lettuce when ready to serve. Excellent with chicken.

Opening lead: Five of ♠

In today's hand South became declarer at a contract of three no trump. With all hands exposed to view, it is evident that a five diamond contract would be much safer. However, when North was able to give only a single raise South decided to abandon any hopes for an 11 trick game. Perhaps a little patience on the part of South, during which time he might take pains to describe his entire hand, he would have made it clear that the spades were a weak spot in the no trump.

The five of spades was opened and East's jack went to declarer's ace. Declarer found himself with only seven running tricks inasmuch as the immediate establishment of the spades precluded his cashing of a heart trick. It appeared, therefore, that the success of the contract would depend upon the club finesse. This was a depressing thought because if the clug finesse succeeded a slam in diamonds was there and, if it failed, the three no trump contract was apparently doomed. However, there was nothing to do about it but try.

The ace of diamonds brought no news but, on the king of diamonds, East showed out, discarding the queen of spades. It had been declarer's intention to win the third diamond in dummy and try the club finesse. But East's peculiar discard set him thinking. What was East about? Surely he was not pinched for a discard this early in the play. Could it be that he had the spade suit blocked for partner and was trying to get out of the way? This seemed plausible. If that were the case it would be fatal to lead one more diamond and permit him to discard the king of spades.

So reasoning, declarer immediately led a heart. When West was in with the ace there was nothing he could do but continue with the spades. East won with the king, but the suit was hopelessly blocked.

Spanish Barbecued Lamb

Spit-roasting is one of the most pleasant of all outdoor barbecue methods: pleasant for the cook who can relax in the shade only watching the spit from an easy chair, and pleasant for everyone else who smells the heavenly fragrance. Try this basting sauce for a leg of lamb on a spit: combine 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, 1 tablespoon wine vinegar, ½ teaspoon crushed cumin (sometimes called cumino), ¼ teaspoon crushed rosemary and 1 teaspoon salt. Brush lamb frequently as it turns on spit.

Easy Way To Cook Fish

One of the easiest and most delightful ways to cook fish is to saute the fillets or steaks in Spanish olive oil. No breading or crumbing is needed: simply sprinkle salt over the fish, place it in a pan in which the olive oil has already been heated, and cook over moderate flame until the fish is delicately browned on each side. This does wonderful things for fish flavor.

Eggs Baked In English Muffins

4 large English muffins
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
4 eggs
4 teaspoons cream or milk
¼ cup grated process cheese

Cut the center from each English muffin almost to the bottom with a (3-inch) cookie cutter and work circles out with a fork or knife. Spread center of muffins and cut-out portion with butter and place on a baking sheet. Break an egg into each muffin cup. Put 1 teaspoon cream and 1 tablespoon cheese on each egg. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for about 15 minutes, or until eggs are soft cooked and set. Serve the cut-out portion with each egg.

Yield: 4 servings.

Snacks To Sleep On

Researchers at the University of Illinois have come to the rescue of the restless sleeper. An easy-to-digest snack, they say, promotes restful sleep. Such a snack could be: Enriched or whole grain toast and tea, fruit, or cereal and milk. But keep it light. Those who ate heavy snacks were more restless in sleep than the light snackers.

Sing A Song Of Scallops

Sing a song of scallops . . . or better yet, serve them for supper! Pre-cooked scallops are tender and plump, cut into bite-sized pieces and fried to a golden brown goodness. They need only a brief heating in a hot oven or a quick broiling to be ready to serve. Team them with cole slaw and French fries for a traditional sea food meal. And don't forget the tartare sauce!

Tartare Sauce

⅓ cup mayonnaise
1½ teaspoons chopped pickle relish
1½ teaspoons chopped stuffed olives
½ teaspoon minced onion
½ teaspoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon vinegar

Cereals Make Good Extenders

When it comes to food economy, many clever homemakers help their food budget by using extenders to stretch a small quantity of meat into a satisfying family entree. Many ready-to-eat cereals are admirably suited to this extender role.

This recipe for Meat Balls With Tomatoes, for instance, utilizes oven-toasted rice cereal. These crisp rice puffs not only give unusual texture to the meat balls but also add a flavor that enhances this ever-popular dish.

Meat Balls With Tomatoes

¾ pound ground beef
¼ pound ground pork or sausage
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup finely chopped onions
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups toasted rice cereal
1½ cups cooked tomatoes

Combine meats, egg, onions, seasonings and rice cereal; mix well. Shape into 12 balls. Fry meat balls in small amount of heated shortening or drippings, turning until well browned on all sides. Pour on tomatoes; cover. Continue cooking over low heat about 45 minutes or until meat balls are thoroughly cooked. Serve at once.

Yield: 6 servings, 2 medium meat balls each

A squirt of lemon or lime juice in the glass and a slice of lemon on the rim of the glass turns prune juice into a zesty dinner appetizer.

Hash a la Catalana

Leftover roast beef takes on new character in this hash of Spanish inspiration. Put the cooked meat through the food grinder enough to make 2 cups. Then put 2 carrots through grinder, and 2 medium onions, as well. Peel and chop 2 medium tomatoes. Now heat 3 tablespoons of Spanish olive oil in a heavy skillet, add the ground meat, stir until it starts to brown. Push the meat to one side, add the ground carrots and onions, saute about 1 minute. Add the tomatoes, cook until mushy, then blend in 2 tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Slowly add 2½ cups water. Simmer covered over low heat 15 to 20 minutes. Makes six scrumptious servings.

A giraffe has fewer bones in its neck than a bird does.

Beef "Kabobs"

Cut 2 pounds beef, round or sirloin, into 1½ inch cubes. Marinate 3 hours in ½ cup Italian Dressing to tenderize the meat and add delicious flavor. Then, string beef cubes, small pearl onions, mushrooms and green pepper chunks on skewers. Place 4 or 5 inches from heat. Broil approximately 25 minutes; turn frequently and baste with Wish-Bone marinade. 6 servings.

Valencia Salad

Combine sliced oranges and thin slices of onion for a refreshing salad: Marinate these two in a mixture of two parts Spanish olive oil to one part vinegar, with salt, pepper and a dash of paprika; then combine with crisp head lettuce when ready to serve. Excellent with chicken.

Opening lead: Five of ♠

In today's hand South became declarer at a contract of three no trump. With all hands exposed to view, it is evident that a five diamond contract would be much safer. However, when North was able to give only a single raise South decided to abandon any hopes for an 11 trick game. Perhaps a little patience on the part of South, during which time he might take pains to describe his entire hand, he would have made it clear that the spades were a weak spot in the no trump.

The five of spades was opened and East's jack went to declarer's ace. Declarer found himself with only seven running tricks inasmuch as the immediate establishment of the spades precluded his cashing of a heart trick. It appeared, therefore, that the success of the contract would depend upon the club finesse. This was a depressing thought because if the clug finesse succeeded a slam in diamonds was there and, if it failed, the three no trump contract was apparently doomed. However, there was nothing to do about it but try.

The ace of diamonds brought no news but, on the king of diamonds, East showed out, discarding the queen of spades. It had been declarer's intention to win the third diamond in dummy and try the club finesse. But East's peculiar discard set him thinking. What was East about? Surely he was not pinched for a discard this early in the play. Could it be that he had the spade suit blocked for partner and was trying to get out of the way? This seemed plausible. If that were the case it would be fatal to lead one more diamond and permit him to discard the king of spades.

So reasoning, declarer immediately led a heart. When West was in with the ace there was nothing he could do but continue with the spades. East won with the king, but the suit was hopelessly blocked.

Spanish Barbecued Lamb

Spit-roasting is one of the most pleasant of all outdoor barbecue methods: pleasant for the cook who can relax in the shade only watching the spit from an easy chair, and pleasant for everyone else who smells the heavenly fragrance. Try this basting sauce for a leg of lamb on a spit: combine 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, 1 tablespoon wine vinegar, ½ teaspoon crushed cumin (sometimes called cumino), ¼ teaspoon crushed rosemary and 1 teaspoon salt. Brush lamb frequently as it turns on spit.

Easy Way To Cook Fish

One of the easiest and most delightful ways to cook fish is to saute the fillets or steaks in Spanish olive oil. No breading or crumbing is needed: simply sprinkle salt over the fish, place it in a pan in which the olive oil has already been heated, and cook over moderate flame until the fish is delicately browned on each side. This does wonderful things for fish flavor.

Chili Meat De Luxe

Here's a dish to please and satisfy a hungry family! When cold days put an edge on appetites, the homemaker turns to hearty main dishes such as this ground beef and spaghetti casserole. This popular combination is given distinction and new tastiness by the use of chili powder and paprika, and a topping of grated cheddar cheese.

This is an economical dish. It is also easy to prepare. It is the kind of dish which can "wait" for the family, and can be kept hot if the dinner hour is delayed or for those who are late.

Chili Meat De Luxe

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) tomatoes
- ½ cup chopped green pepper, if desired
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 package (8 ounces) spaghetti, cooked
- ¼ pound cheddar cheese, grated

Cook ground beef slowly until crumbly, but not hard. Add onions, tomatoes, green pepper and seasonings. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Alternate layers of cooked spaghetti or macaroni in a 2-quart greased casserole, or baking dish, so the top layer is meat. Sprinkle grated cheese over mixture and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 20 to 30 minutes or until cheese is melted and lightly browned. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Try Something New For The New Year

So here we are again, anticipating the start of a new year . . .

And this time you've decided that you're definitely going to start out with some part of you new and fresh — makeup approach, clothes type, hair style.

Want to change your hair style? Don't do anything drastic. First, let me tell you the ten secrets of a charming hair style and what it should do for your appearance.

1. Your hair style must flatter your face, figure, and personality.

2. It must accentuate your best features, never overshadow them. 3. It must eliminate your negative features by making them less apparent. 4. It must ovalize the shape of your face since an oval is most pleasing to the eye. 5. It must conform to the size of your head and be proportionate to your figure.

6. It must complement the current silhouette of your clothes, so that head and apparel seem parts of the same design. 7. It must fit into your new hats, which will be snug this season. 8. It must manage easily — and it will, if professionally cut and expertly waved. 9. It must groom your appearance by being, itself, groomed to perfection. 10. It must appeal to you — and to others.

Study the contours of your face. Determine its shape, before you select a new hair style. Make a rectangular cardboard frame with a six by nine-inch opening. Push all your hair back from your face, pinning up wisps that show behind the ears. Sit before your mirror and center your face in the frame. Comparison of facial contours with those of the frame, will tell you if your face is rectangular square, round, triangular, or oval.

Oval? Style your hair simply, whether you prefer the sophisticated or the soft and feminine. Gentle waves at right and left, a smooth top and back, pertly turned-up ends reveal perfect contours.

A hair style for the square face should avoid exact balance that would only accentuate squareness. Try an offside part with curls high on one side, a flat upward wave at the temples, or a smooth crown accented by a frame of easy-curling ends.

The sharp lines of the triangular face must be softened. Bangs or curls to the side of the forehead are flattering. A smooth top and crown, gently up-waved sides, feathery ends tend to ovalize the triangle.

Ease the temple and forehead lines to de-emphasize the length of the oblong face. Provide side interest with moderate curled fullness over the ears; try short, wispy bangs . . . curve back hair into deep waves low on your head . . . turn the ends up lightly in a head-hugging finish.

To lessen pronounced roundness, concentrate on upward lines at the sides of the face. Achieve height with forehead curls, flatness at the temples, and fullness below the ears. A side part is preferred.

Whatever you decide, never forget that cleanliness is standard for any style!

TOMORROW: Dare new dimensions.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WEIGH: Your ideal weight in a jiffy . . . find it on the lightening quick calculator in HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WEIGH. Get your copy by sending just 10c and a stamped, return envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

A small amount of cooked diced ham may not be enough for a large omelet but it definitely has a place in this easy-to-fix dish. Take a can of macaroni with cheese sauce . . . 15¼ ounces . . add the ham and heat. Makes 3 luncheon-size servings.

Poached Eggs In Cheese Sauce

- ¾ cup prepared soft cheese
- ¼ cup milk
- 4 eggs
- 4 slices enriched bread, toasted

Place cheese and milk into a 10-inch skillet. Blend over low heat, stirring constantly. Place eggs into cheese sauce and simmer until eggs are done. Serve on toast or in bread cups. To make cups: Brush butter on both sides of bread slices. Trim crusts. form a bread cup by gently pressing each slice of bread into custard cup. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for twenty-five minutes.

Yield: 4 servings

Lamb "Kabobs"

Cut 2 pounds of leg of lamb into 1½ inch cubes. Place in shallow dish. Season with salt and pepper and pour ⅓ cup Italian dressing over meat. Let it marinate 3 hours. Then string lamb cubes on skewers. Broil directly over charcoal or wrap skewers in aluminum foil and roast in oven for 15 minutes. Remove foil and broil over coals of barbecue or under broiler of range. 5-6 servings.

It's delicious served on bed of cooked rice. Variation: The meat can be alternated on skewers with mushrooms, onions, pieces of tomato or green pepper.

Pecan Date Kisses

- 3 egg whites
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1½ cups chopped dates
- 1½ cups chopped pecan meats

Beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Add sugar gradually and beat until dissolved and the mixture has a good piling quality. Add vanilla. Fold in dates and pecans. Drop by teaspoonful on greased cooky sheet. Bake in a very slow oven (275 degrees F.) 20 minutes. (A few minutes less if you like them chewy.) Makes about 5 dozen.

Hot Tea With Honey

(A favorite recipe for honey lovers . . . it's syrupy and stimulating—serve piping hot.)

INGREDIENTS:

- 1½ cups liquid honey
- ½ cup cold water
- 1¼ cups orange juice
- ½ cup lemon juice

Method: Make a syrup by combining water and honey. Bring to a boil and simmer 2 minutes. Add orange and lemon juices. Make strong deep flavor tea. To make tea strong use 2 tea bags per cup. Add heated syrup to the tea. Use 3 parts tea to 1 part syrup.

Serving Tip: The syrup may be prepared, cooled and stored in refrigerator until ready to use. Then reheat at serving time.

Both Nutritious

The chocolate milk and chocolate dairy drink you see flowing plentifully this winter may be used interchangeably in any of your recipes. Both are highly nutritious milk beverages. Chocolate dairy drink is so labeled because it is slightly less rich than chocolate milk.

Tonight a few cub scouts are getting together to discuss a winter week-end. They'll have a quick, but good supper . . . frozen prepared meat loaf dinners. In fact, they plan to turn back the aluminum foil covering the dinners and sprinkle the meat loaf with grated Parmesan cheese. Then they'll follow label directions for heating the dinners.

- 1½ cups chopped dates
- 1½ cups chopped pecan meats

Beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Add sugar gradually and beat until dissolved and the mixture has a good piling quality. Add vanilla. Fold in dates and pecans. Drop by teaspoonful on greased cooky sheet. Bake in a very slow oven (275 degrees F.) 20 minutes. (A few minutes less if you like them chewy.) Makes about 5 dozen.

Hot Tea With Honey

(A favorite recipe for honey lovers . . . it's syrupy and stimulating—serve piping hot.)

INGREDIENTS:

- 1½ cups liquid honey
- ½ cup cold water
- 1¼ cups orange juice
- ½ cup lemon juice

Method: Make a syrup by combining water and honey. Bring to a boil and simmer 2 minutes. Add orange and lemon juices. Make strong deep flavor tea. To make tea strong use 2 tea bags per cup. Add heated syrup to the tea. Use 3 parts tea to 1 part syrup.

Serving Tip: The syrup may be prepared, cooled and stored in refrigerator until ready to use. Then reheat at serving time.

Both Nutritious

The chocolate milk and chocolate dairy drink you see flowing plentifully this winter may be used interchangeably in any of your recipes. Both are highly nutritious milk beverages. Chocolate dairy drink is so labeled because it is slightly less rich than chocolate milk.

Tonight a few cub scouts are getting together to discuss a winter week-end. They'll have a quick, but good supper . . . frozen prepared meat loaf dinners. In fact, they plan to turn back the aluminum foil covering the dinners and sprinkle the meat loaf with grated Parmesan cheese. Then they'll follow label directions for heating the dinners.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Try Something New For The New Year

So here we are again, anticipating the start of a new year . . .

And this time you've decided that you're definitely going to start out with some part of you new and fresh — makeup approach, clothes type, hair style.

Want to change your hair style? Don't do anything drastic. First, let me tell you the ten secrets of a charming hair style and what it should do for your appearance.

1. Your hair style must flatter your face, figure, and personality. 2. It must accentuate your best features, never overshadow them. 3. It must eliminate your negative features by making them less apparent. 4. It must ovalize the shape of your face since an oval is most pleasing to the eye. 5. It must conform to the size of your head and be proportionate to your figure. 6. It must complement the current silhouette of your clothes, so that head and apparel seem parts of the same design. 7. It must fit into your new hats, which will be snug this season. 8. It must manage easily — and it will, if professionally cut and expertly waved. 9. It must groom your appearance by being, itself, groomed to perfection. 10. It must appeal to you — and to others.

Study the contours of your face. Determine its shape, before you select a new hair style. Make a rectangular cardboard frame with a six by nine-inch opening. Push all your hair back from your face, pinning up wisps that show behind the ears. Sit before your mirror and center your face in the frame. Comparison of facial contours with those of the frame, will tell you if your face is rectangular square, round, triangular, or oval.

A hair style for the square face should avoid exact balance that would only accentuate squareness. Try an offside part with curls high on one side, a flat upward wave at the temples, or a smooth crown accented by a frame of easy-curling ends.

The sharp lines of the triangular face must be softened. Bangs or curls to the side of the forehead are flattering. A smooth top and crown, gently up - waved sides, feathery ends tend to ovalize the triangle.

Ease the temple and forehead lines to de-emphasize the length of the oblong face. Provide side interest with moderate curled fullness over the ears; try short, wispy bangs . . . curve back hair into deep waves low on your head . . . turn the ends up lightly in a head-hugging finish.

To lessen pronounced roundness, concentrate on upward lines at the sides of the face. Achieve height with forehead curls, flatness at the temples, and fullness below the ears. A side part is preferred.

Whatever you decide, never forget that cleanliness is standard for any style!

TOMORROW: Dare new dimensions.

A small amount of cooked diced ham may not be enough for a large omelet but it definitely has a place in this easy-to-fix dish. Take a can of macaroni with cheese sauce . . . 15¼ ounces . . add the ham and heat. Makes 3 luncheon-size servings.

Olives Add Color

Aim for colorful meals during these dreary winter months. Cook vegetables quickly so they remain bright green or yellow. Serve hot breads with preserves. Set out a relish tray of crisp raw vegetables centered with a tiny tree of assorted stuffed olives.

For teen-agers plagued with skin disorders, corrective measures rest not so much with proprietary drugs as with healthful living and eating habits. To satisfy the longing for sweets, a box of prunes is a good between meal snack. An excellent source of Vitamin A, rich in other essential vitamins and minerals, prunes are a teen-age beauty aid.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I couldn't get all the candles on one cake."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A recent column in which you enumerated things a 14-year-old girl should be doing around the house was wonderful. It was the first time I had seen anything specific on the subject.

I happen to be the mother of sons and I would very much appreciate it if you would tell me what should be expected of a boy who is 14 years old. Many of my friends would also benefit since there seems to be a great deal of divided opinion among the women in our group. Thank you in advance.—ANOTHER DUMB MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's difficult to set down flat rules for ALL 14-year-old boys because some boys at 14 are more mature and stronger physically than their peers.

Generally speaking, by the time he's in high school a boy should be responsible for some heavy chores such as upkeep of the lawn and removal of snow from the walk. Running errands, carrying out the trash, and other odd jobs, such as fixing the fence or painting the garage should be his responsibility. Helping with the dishes now and then (not every night, however) is good training, and should not be considered girl stuff.

A 14-year-old should be receiving an allowance and the chores and responsibilities should be tied in with it. No child should get an allowance just for breathing. If kids get the idea early that there's some connection between work and reward, they will be less likely to develop into loafers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been married 13 years and have three lovely children. The trouble is I'm overweight and my husband makes my life miserable because of it. He calls me a fat slob, a pig and many other names which are unprintable. I admit I'm fat but I'm not THAT hard to look at. He refuses to be seen in public with me, which means I have to go everywhere alone or with friends.

My doctor says I eat because I am emotionally disturbed. The reason I'm emotionally disturbed is because my husband makes me feel like I'm nothing. Why should I deprive myself of good things to eat for HIM? If he loved me he'd overlook the bulges. Plenty of men love their fat wives. Am I right?—PATSY

DEAR PATSY: If you really wanted your husband's approval you'd knock yourself out to get it. He's told you how he feels about your excessive weight, but you'd rather eat than please him.

Some men just don't like fat women and you're married to one. Now stop making excuses for yourself and get on a doctor-supervised diet. Not only will your husband like you better, but you'll like yourself better.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read your column about Gamblers' Anonymous. You listed chapter addresses and added "Las Vegas — naturally." Why does everyone assume Las Vegas is made up strictly of slot-machines, crap tables, 21-girls and roulette wheels?

We've lived in Las Vegas 20 years and have never gone near a gambling casino. There are many other happy and normal people who live quiet, useful lives in Las Vegas. We raise families, go to church and share a strong civic spirit. It's the vacationers who gamble here, not the local citizens. You owe us an apology. —SOLVENT CITIZEN

DEAR SOLVENT: I'll apologize, pardner, but since gambling is the city's major industry you must admit it was a reasonable assumption.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Sunset Bubbler

1 jar marshmallow creme

⅔ cup peach or apricot nectar

Combine marshmallow creme and a small amount of milk. Add fruit nectar and remaining milk, beating until well blended. Chill. 4 Servings.

Hot Cheese Puffs Complement Any Party Beverage

Having a party? If you are, you no doubt are looking for different kinds of tasty tidbits to serve your guests.

Here is a suggestion for an unusual cheese appetizer that is perfect for the refreshment table. They're called Cheese Puffs and combine the flavors of American cheese and shredded wheat biscuits. Served hot, they're a flavor-filled complement to any party beverage.

Shredded Wheat Cheese Puffs

3 Shredded Wheat biscuits
½ pound processed American cheese, grated
⅓ cup butter or margarine
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
¾ cup sifted flour

Crumble Shredded Wheat biscuits into fine crumbs. Blend cheese and butter thoroughly; add cayenne pepper, flour and Shredded Wheat crumbs; blend well. Shape into small balls about ¾ inch in diameter; place on ungreased baking sheets. Flatten with fork. Bake in very hot oven (450°F.) about 8 minutes. Serve immediately.

Yield: About 65 puffs, 1 inch in diameter.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Hot Tea Claret Cup

(A ruby red spiced tea recipe that's an ideal "different" party beverage).

INGREDIENTS:

Juice of three lemons
1 cup orange juice
1 cup water
½ cup loganberry beverage syrup
½ cup sugar
1 cinnamon stick

METHOD: Combine ingredients. Bring to a boil and simmer ten minutes. Make strong deep flavor tea. To make tea strong use 2 tea bags per cup. Add heated syrup to the tea. Use 3 parts tea to 1 part syrup.

Serving Tip: The syrup may be prepared, cooled and stored in refrigerator until ready to use. Then reheat at serving time.

Tip For Stew

When you are making a stew from leftover cooked beef or lamb, add a tablespoonful or more of brown gravy sauce to the thickened liquid.

This versatile product is a big help when you want to give rich, appetizing color and extra flavor to gravies and stews.

We've lived in Las Vegas 20 years and have never gone near a gambling casino. There are many other happy and normal people who live quiet, useful lives in Las Vegas. We raise families, go to church and share a strong civic spirit. It's the vacationers who gamble here, not the local citizens. You owe us an apology. —SOLVENT CITIZEN

DEAR SOLVENT: I'll apologize, pardner, but since gambling is the city's major industry you must admit it was a reasonable assumption.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Hot Cheese Puffs Complement Any Party Beverage

Having a party? If you are, you no doubt are looking for different kinds of tasty tidbits to serve your guests.

Here is a suggestion for an unusual cheese appetizer that is perfect for the refreshment table. They're called Cheese Puffs and combine the flavors of American cheese and shredded wheat biscuits. Served hot, they're a flavor-filled complement to any party beverage.

Shredded Wheat Cheese Puffs

3 Shredded Wheat biscuits
½ pound processed American cheese, grated
⅓ cup butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
¾ cup sifted flour

Crumble Shredded Wheat biscuits into fine crumbs. Blend cheese and butter thoroughly; add cayenne pepper, flour and Shredded Wheat crumbs; blend well. Shape into small balls about ¾ inch in diameter; place on ungreased baking sheets. Flatten with fork. Bake in very hot oven (450°F.) about 8 minutes. Serve immediately.

Yield: About 65 puffs, 1 inch in diameter.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Hot Tea Claret Cup

(A ruby red spiced tea recipe that's an ideal "different" party beverage).

INGREDIENTS:
Juice of three lemons
1 cup orange juice
1 cup water
½ cup loganberry beverage syrup
½ cup sugar
1 cinnamon stick

METHOD: Combine ingredients. Bring to a boil and simmer ten minutes. Make strong deep flavor tea. To make tea strong use 2 tea bags per cup. Add heated syrup to the tea. Use 3 parts tea to 1 part syrup.

Serving Tip: The syrup may be prepared, cooled and stored in refrigerator until ready to use. Then reheat at serving time.

Tip For Stew

When you are making a stew from leftover cooked beef or lamb, add a tablespoonful or more of brown gravy sauce to the thickened liquid.

This versatile product is a big help when you want to give rich, appetizing color and extra flavor to gravies and stews.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Just heard from Jimmy Shigeta in Tokyo and on Sunday he'll show up in Hollywood. Jimmy is enroute from Japan to Paris to film additional scenes for "Bridge to the Sun," so he took the long way around to see Ross Hunter. The very attractive Shigeta has the top role in "Flower Drum Song" and that's the reason he is paying Ross a visit.

Ross is also going to test Cily Carillo, a Chinese-Portuguese gal who is in "Flower Drum Song" in Chicago. He is also testing France Nuyen and Myoshi Umeki.

Jimmy has just signed a three picture deal and in it are such pictures as "Hawaii" and "Earthquake." I, personally, think he is the most attractive Japanese actor we have ever had on the motion picture screen.

Tommy Sands has turned down $128,000 in bookings to play the star role in "Babes in Toyland" for Walt Disney. He signed the contract just a few days before the new year.

Victor Herbert's beautiful music will be used, plus a few new songs. Walt is making it in typical Disney fashion and it will be a picture you want to see. I saw the original company in Chicago when I was a youngster and loved it. This will be one picture the children as well as adults will appreciate.

At long last news about John Kerr which should delight all the fans who write about this young man demanding to know why he doesn't receive more important attention. Well, John gets one of the top roles in "The Pit and the Pendulum." Edgar Allen Poe's classic which American International is putting before putting the cameras on Jan. 4.

I hope Vincent Price, the star of the picture, won't mind my mentioning young Kerr first. Vincent is so established in those chiller-thrillers he doesn't have to worry. I also hope producers Nicholson and Arkoff realize they have a "hot" fan property in John Kerr. He clicked big in "South Pacific" and then seemed to take a bit of a dip. The girl in the cast is Luana Anders, hailed from the Broadway stage and TV.

The beautiful blonde daughter of the Bob Hopes, who is as lovely inside as she is out, has a New Year's date with John Rosellini, son of Gov. Albert Rosellini of Washington State. John met Linda last year when he was here to see the University of Washington play in the Rose Bowl and was her date for Bob's New Year's party.

The young son of the governor flew in with his father today for the Rose Bowl Near Year's classic and he will also take Linda to the game. One of the nicest governors of any state is Gov. Rosellini, who stopped by my house to say hello.

Joe Levine got right out of a sick bed and took off for Miami Beach, Fla. He complained bitterly that it was cold in New York and I told him he ought to come to Hollywood.

Joe told me that of all the pictures he's made all over the world, he's now going to make his first movie in England.

"It starts in May, and we have David Niven, Sophia Loren and Peter Sellers in the cast. Sellers, a fine British actor, will also be the producer, and we have a real trhiller."

A new name which should be prominently displayed on the marquee in 1961 is that of Jack Ging, former All-America halfback from Oklahoma University and a Marine Corps captain.

Jack has just put his John Hancock on a deal with Robert L. Lippert calling for two top budgeted productions. In the first, "Twenty Thousand Eyes," he is one of the co-stars. This will be his fourth for Lippert. He made his screen debut in "Desire in the Dust" the Martha Hyer picture.

City Auditor Gives Report Of Frostburg's Finances

FROSTBURG — The City of Frostburg is operating on a "pay-as-you-go" plan, according to James A. Rogers, city auditor and C.P.A., who recently finished the audit of city books for the year ending June 30, 1960. Total revenues for the city amounted to $285,638.84, with the expenditures amounting to $246,195.09. In addition to the above expenditures a payment was made on the debt service (bonded indebtedness) to the amount of $40,201 which includes $32,000 on the principal and $8,201.00 for interest.

According to the audit the source of the city's revenue was as follows: taxes, local $122,428.18; taxes, state shared, $43,651.23; licenses and permits, $23,652.21; fines and forfeitures, $2,584.60; revenues from use of money and property, $1,722.51; revenue from other agencies, $2,660; and service charges for current services $88,940.11.

Expenditures were as follows: general government $20,983.33; public safety $61,844.98; sanitation and waste removal $20,207.74; correction (meals for prisoners) $12.70; recreation $7,668.87; public service enterprises $48,985.13 and miscellaneous $6,826.73.

The auditor commented that the city, during the past five years, "has paid a total of $172,000 on the city indebtedness and has plans to pay $159,000 in the next five years."

During the past year the general unexpended balance dropped from $35,476 to $27,161. This, the auditor said, is a reasonable reduction and may be caused by a number of reasons, such as unforseen expenses as snow removal and increased expenses not figured in the budget.

The city water department, according to the auditor, is a self-supporting department in that no city taxes are used for its expenses, all expenses being paid from revenues. Any balances in the department are applied to new equipment and renewal of old equipment.

As may be seen from the city income, the larger portion comes from the general property tax. In 1957, 99.97 per cent of the taxes have been collected with an outstanding balance of $196.66. In 1959, 99.66 per cent was collected with a $303.93 balance; in 1959, 98.40 per cent collected with a balance of $1,840.91; and in 1960, with the assessment at $124,043.38, 97.10 has been collected with $3,659.63 remaining to be collected. The auditor pointed out that this was a very high collection percentage.

The general book value of city property which includes sewers, water lines and plants, roads and any other property amounts to nearly a million dollars. The city government receives and spends nearly a quarter of a million dollars each year and according to the auditor "the city government is big business."

Plan Skating Party

LONACONING — Cub Scouts and 4-H Club members and their friends will meet today at 12:30 p.m. at Love's corner, Main Street, to leave by bus at 1 p.m for an afternoon skating party.

F. E. Burkett Is Head Of School Board

HYNDMAN — Frank E. Burkett, of Londonderry Township was elected president of the Hyndman-Londonderry Joint School Board at the annual reorganization meeting.

Burkett, who was vice president the past year, succeeds H. H. Zeigler, of Hyndman.

Richard E. Shaffer, of Hyndman, was elected vice president of the board for the new year.

The joint board's two other officers are Secretary Dayton G. Harold Jr. and Treasurer John A. Topper. The board's solicitor is Charles Koontz, who will be reappointed.

Also reorganizing were the two member district boards of the jointure. The Londonderry board named Frank E. Burkett as president and Sherman Lehman, vice president. The Hyndman borough board re-elected Harry L. Ahlburn as president and H. H. Zeigler, vice president.

All of the officers of both the jointure and district boards will serve until July 1 when all three boards will be dissolved and a single merged school district board formed as authorized by the vote of the Hyndman and Londonderry districts in the November election.

In other business at the joint meeting, the board approved the extension of the school term this spring by one day to compensate for the unscheduled day off recently called in the system due to the Hyndman water shortage.

The jointure's three schools will now close Monday, June 5, rather than Friday, June 2, as originally planned.

The board also approved the new tuition rate for the current year for the non-resident students attending Hyndman-Londonderry High School. The new fee, as approved by the state, was set at $341 per annum for an increase of about $22 over last year's rate.

WESTERNPORT — In accordance with its annual custom for 36 years, the Piedmont Rotary Club entertained the children and the personnel of the Methodist Orphanage of Burlington, W. Va., with a turkey dinner and a movie show on Wednesday.

Following the dinner, Christmas carols were sung by the children and Santa Claus presented each of the 26 children with a Christmas gift. Piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. George Ord. The dinner was served at the St. James Episcopal Church Parish Hall by the ladies of the parish.

The members of the staff of the home also were guests. They were Dr. A. C. Brown, Bridgeport, W. Va., district superintendent of the homes; Mrs. Bernice B. One hundred children of the community also attended the movie which was shown at the Majestic Theatre in Piedmont. Their admittance was by bringing a package of foodstuff and about two bushels of groceries was received.

Martinsburg Tavern License Suspended

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— State Beer Commissioner Roy D. Platt held Thursday what probably were his last hearings for suspected violators of West Virginia beer laws.

He suspended for 40 days, effective Friday, the permit of Park Inn at Milton for selling beer after hours and dismissed whisky charges against Royal Inn at Martinsburg.

Platt said no other cases were pending and that these apparently would be his last hearings before he is replaced after the new Democratic state administration takes over next month.

New Creek Included In W.Va. Watershed Plans

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— State Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson said Thursday the Kennedy Committee on depressed areas could help alleviate West Virginia's unemployment problem and at the same time exploit the state's natural resources by coming up with a watershed development program.

Johnson said he made such a recommendation to the West Virginia subcommittee of the full group — appointed by President-elect John F. Kennedy to aid in drafting legislation aimed at aiding West Virginia and other areas with chronic unemployment.

"A watershed development program is an excellent opportunity for our smaller cities and towns to improve and increase their water supply at a reasonable cost," he said.

Johnson said it would also provide additional recreational facilities and help in pollution abatement and stabilize and control flood waters.

So far, four watershed projects are in the planning stage in the state, seven are in operation and five more applications for watershed construction have been filed and are under study.

West Virginia's $703,000 pilot Salem watershed, constructed under a $5 million federal program approved in 1953, was completed in 1958.

Those now under various phases of construction are Upper Grave Creek in Marshall County; Warm Springs, Morgan County; New Creek, Mineral County; Dave's Fork - Christian's Fork, Mercer County; Marlin Run, Pocahontas County; South Fork, Hardy and Pendleton Counties; Bond's Creek, Ritchie County and Brush Creek, Mercer County.

Projects on Saltlick Creek in Braxton County; Patterson Creek, Mineral and Grant Counties; Polk Creek, Lewis County, and Harmon Creek, Hancock and Brooke Counties, are in the planning stage.

Average Tax Table Listed

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — Here's a tip for West Virginians who deduct state sales tax payments from federal income tax payments: The average amount of such payments in a year by a single person earning $3,500 to $4,400 a year is $44. For a couple it's $56.

That information is contained in a table of "average" West Virginia sales tax payments put out Thursday by the Internal Revenue Service.

West Virginia IRS Director Nathanial Looker said his office might want proof if a deduction exceeds the average.

Boys Report Flag Displayed In Heavy Rain

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Two rain - soaked boys caused the chief custodian of West Virginia's capitol building a bit of embarrassment Thursday afternoon.

Johnny Laverty, 14, of Chelyan and David Fleck, 13, of Marmet, sought out the man in charge of the capitol to point out that it is improper to fly the stars and stripes in inclement weather.

The alert boys noted that although it had been pouring in Charleston all day, the flag on the east wing of the Statehouse was still flying.

State General Services Director Orville Haynes admitted to the boys they were "perfectly right" and thanked them for bringing the matter to his attention.

Dance Group Has Election

KEYSER — Robert Morris, Keyser, was named president of the Allegheny Square Dance Club, Wednesday evening at the Moose Home in Keyser.

Attorney and Mrs. Joseph Blundon who serve as instructors of the group, are attending the year-end folk dance festival at Keene, New Hampshire. While in New England, they will visit Mrs. Blundon's parents.

Keyser Elk Plan Holiday Program

City Auditor Gives Report Of Frostburg's Finances

FROSTBURG — The City of Frostburg is operating on a "pay-as-you-go" plan, according to James A. Rogers, city auditor and C.P.A., who recently finished the audit of city books for the year ending June 30, 1960. Total revenues for the city amounted to $285,638.84, with the expenditures amounting to $246,195.09. In addition to the above expenditures a payment was made on the debt service (bonded indebtedness) to the amount of $40,201 which includes $32,000 on the principal and $8,201.00 for interest.

According to the audit the source of the city's revenue was as follows: taxes, local $122,428.18; taxes, state shared, $43,651.23; licenses and permits, $23,652.21; fines and forfeitures, $2,584.60; revenues from use of money and property, $1,722.51; revenue from other agencies, $2,660; and service charges for current services $88,940.11.

Expenditures were as follows: general government $20,983.33; public safety $61,844.98; sanitation and waste removal $20,207.74; correction (meals for prisoners) $12.70; recreation $7,668.87; public service enterprises $48,985.13 and miscellaneous $6,826.73.

The auditor commented that the city, during the past five years, "has paid a total of $172,000 on the city indebtedness and has plans to pay $159,000 in the next five years."

During the past year the general unexpended balance dropped from $35,476 to $27,161. This, the auditor said, is a reasonable reduction and may be caused by a number of reasons, such as unforseen expenses as snow removal and increased expenses not figured in the budget.

The city water department, according to the auditor, is a self-supporting department in that no city taxes are used for its expenses, all expenses being paid from revenues. Any balances in the department are applied to new equipment and renewal of old equipment.

As may be seen from the city income, the larger portion comes from the general property tax. In 1957, 99.97 per cent of the taxes have been collected with an outstanding balance of $196.66. In 1959, 99.66 per cent was collected with a $303.93 balance; in 1959, 98.40 per cent collected with a balance of $1,840.91; and in 1960, with the assessment at $124,043.38, 97.10 has been collected with $3,659.63 remaining to be collected. The auditor pointed out that this was a very high collection percentage.

The general book value of city property which includes sewers, water lines and plants, roads and any other property amounts to nearly a million dollars. The city government receives and spends nearly a quarter of a million dollars each year and according to the auditor "the city government is big business."

Plan Skating Party

LONACONING — Cub Scouts and 4-H Club members and their friends will meet today at 12:30 p.m. at Love's corner, Main Street, to leave by bus at 1 p.m for an afternoon skating party.

F. E. Burkett Is Head Of School Board

HYNDMAN — Frank E. Burkett, of Londonderry Township was elected president of the Hyndman-Londonderry Joint School Board at the annual reorganization meeting.

Burkett, who was vice president the past year, succeeds H. H. Zeigler, of Hyndman.

Richard E. Shaffer, of Hyndman, was elected vice president of the board for the new year.

The joint board's two other officers are Secretary Dayton G. Harold Jr. and Treasurer John A. Topper. The board's solicitor is Charles Koontz, who will be reappointed.

Also reorganizing were the two member district boards of the jointure. The Londonderry board named Frank E. Burkett as president and Sherman Lehman, vice president. The Hyndman borough board re-elected Harry L. Ahlburn as president and H. H. Zeigler, vice president.

All of the officers of both the jointure and district boards will serve until July 1 when all three boards will be dissolved and a single merged school district board formed as authorized by the vote of the Hyndman and Londonderry districts in the November election.

In other business at the joint meeting, the board approved the extension of the school term this spring by one day to compensate for the unscheduled day off recently called in the system due to the Hyndman water shortage.

The jointure's three schools will now close Monday, June 5, rather than Friday, June 2, as originally planned.

The board also approved the new tuition rate for the current year for the non-resident students attending Hyndman-Londonderry High School. The new fee, as approved by the state, was set at $341 per annum for an increase of about $22 over last year's rate.

LaSalle, Valley Slated To Play Alumni Passers

AFL Playoff Game Sunday TV Bonanza

Oilers, Chargers Battle For Title

NEW YORK (UPI)—An American Football League official estimated Thursday that next Sunday's title game between the Houston Oilers and Los Angeles Chargers will be viewed by 42-million persons—"making it the biggest TV bonanza in New Year's Day football history."

"No televised sporting event except perhaps a weekend World Series game or a heavyweight title fight ever has been watched by so many TV viewers," said Harry Wismer, president of the New York Titans and chairman of the AFL's TV and radio committee. "This will be the first New Year's Day in TV history in which one game will have the airwaves all to itself."

Wismer said this would be an important stride in the AFL's efforts to attract a following on a par with the National Football League.

Wismer, a former vice president of the NFL's Washington Redskins, tossed another dart at his old associates when he claimed that four AFL teams could beat NFL rivals. He said, "The Dallas Texans could beat the Dallas Cowboys, the Oilers could beat the Chicago Bears, the Titans could beat the Redskins and the Chargers could beat the Los Angeles Rams."

Tech was in front 44-31 at the half and four times in the second half led by as much as 23 points. Dave West added 18 points to the Tech total as it chalked up its ninth win in 11 starts.

Steve Hatch had 32 points for Indiana Tech.

Rice, which meets Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl game, now is known as William Marsh University. It is privately endowed and charges no tuition.

AFL Playoff Game Sunday TV Bonanza

Oilers, Chargers Battle For Title

NEW YORK (UPI)—An American Football League official estimated Thursday that next Sunday's title game between the Houston Oilers and Los Angeles Chargers will be viewed by 42-million persons—"making it the biggest TV bonanza in New Year's Day football history."

"No televised sporting event except perhaps a weekend World Series game or a heavyweight title fight ever has been watched by so many TV viewers," said Harry Wismer, president of the New York Titans and chairman of the AFL's TV and radio committee. "This will be the first New Year's Day in TV history in which one game will have the airwaves all to itself."

Wismer said this would be an important stride in the AFL's efforts to attract a following on a par with the National Football League.

Wismer, a former vice president of the NFL's Washington Redskins, tossed another dart at his old associates when he claimed that four AFL teams could beat NFL rivals. He said, "The Dallas Texans could beat the Dallas Cowboys, the Oilers could beat the Chicago Bears, the Titans could beat the Redskins and the Chargers could beat the Los Angeles Rams."

West Va. Tech Reaches Finals

Tops Indiana Tech By Score 105-85

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — West Virginia Tech shot an amazing 57.5 per cent from the field Thursday night as it thumped defending champion Indiana Tech 105-85 in the semifinals of the Rochester Invitational basketball tournament.

The West Virginians will face the winner of Thursday's second game between Illinois Tech and Newark, N. J., Tech in Friday's finals at 9 p.m.

Senior Bob Watson of South Charleston, W. Va., scored 31 points as the Golden Bears treated the crowd to a real display of the run-and-shoot basketball they have made famous among the nation's small colleges.

Tech was in front 44-31 at the half and four times in the second half led by as much as 23 points. Dave West added 18 points to the Tech total as it chalked up its ninth win in 11 starts.

Steve Hatch had 32 points for Indiana Tech.

North Carolina Belts Terps In Dixie Classic, 81-57

Larese, Moe Chalk Up 43 For Tarheels

Villanova Rallies, Tops North Carolina State Quint, 72-63

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Villanova, 14 points behind at the half, stormed back to defeat North Carolina State 72-63 and North Carolina overwhelmed Maryland 81-57 Thursday in the first round of the Dixie Basketball Classic.

In Thursday night's games, defending champion Wake Forest met Marquette, each with 5-2 records, and undefeated Duke, 6th-ranked in the nation, went against Wyoming.

Villanova trailed by 12 points, 42-30, with 16:56 left to play. Then the Wildcats caught fire behind the brilliant playing of Capt. Jim Huggard of Philadelphia, who hit on 18 points. Villanova gradually cut the margin, and went ahead, 58-57, on a field goal by Bernard Chavis, with 5:22 remaining. From there on, it was all Villanova.

York Larese and Doug Moe supplied the scoring punch for North Carolina's win over Maryland. Larese got 24 points and Moe 19.

The Terps led only once, 8-7, in the opening minutes. North Carolina came back fast behind Larese, Moe and Dick Kepley to run up a 15-point lead, 25-10.

Maryland, led by Bill Stasiulatis of Bayonne, N.J., managed to cut the margin to four points and trailed 36-29 at the half.

Maryland went without a field goal during a period of nearly seven minutes in the first half.

Young Orioles Get Pay Hikes

Most Of Contracts Call For Increases

BALTIMORE (AP)—The young players who helped the Baltimore Orioles to a second-place finish in the American League last season will line their home nests with more green stuff next year.

Oriole President Lee MacPhail said Thursday that most of the 1961 contracts call for pay hikes.

"Most of the kids are entitled to increases and will get them," MacPhail said. "The four infielders, the young pitchers — they're the ones who haven't made much money before."

That seems to indicate that such young players as infielders Brooks Robinson, Ron Hansen, Marv Breeding, Jim Gentile, and pitchers Chuck Estrada, Steve Barber, Milt Pappas and Jack Fisher are being offered more than token raises.

With Gene Woodling drafted by the new Washington team, catcher Gus Triandos is expected to be the highest paid Oriole. He drew an estimated $25,000 last season.

DETROIT — Quarterbacks Earl Morrall and Jim Ninowski of the Detroit Lions were the signal-callers on the Michigan State Rose Bowl team in 1956.

Rymkus Named Coach Of Year In New League

Lou Guided Oilers To Division Title

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lou Rymkus of the Houston Oilers, who developed a winning team from a collection of rookies and pro has-beens, Thursday was voted 1960 coach-of-the-year in the American Football League by United Press International.

Rymkus, now in his 16th year of pro football, can climax his first season as a head coach by winning the A.F.L.'s championship game against the Los Angeles Chargers next Sunday at Houston.

Erdelatz Is Second

A panel of 24 league writers—3 from each league city—voted Rymkus the honor in a close ballot. The broad-shouldered, 41-year old Oilers coach received 9 votes compared to 6 for Eddie Erdelatz of the Oakland Raiders and 5 for Sid Gillman of Los Angeles. Sammy Baugh of the New York Titans had 2 votes.

Starting from scratch in this new pro football venture, just as his fellow coaches did, Rymkus did an outstanding job of organization and coaching in guiding the Oilers to the Eastern Division title with a 10-4 record.

Learned Under Leahy

Rymkus, a native of Royalton, Ill., learned his football under two of the game's coaching masters, Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

He was named Notre Dame's most valuable player in 1942 and was an all-pro guard during his 6 seasons with the Browns.

Owen Will Coach At Saskatchewan

REGINA, Sask. (UPI) — Steve Owen, the best trouble-shooter in the Canadian Football League, Thursday was named to succeed Ken Carpenter as head coach of the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The 62-year-old Owen, coach of the New York Giants for 23 years, will take over a team that finished last in the Western Conference of the Canadian League for the last two years.

Carpenter resigned as head coach of the Riders late last season to join the Denver Broncos of the American Football League as a player.

An attempt by a woman member of the House of Commons in Britain to outlaw boxing was voted down.

Boxer Of Year Honors Go To Heavy Champ

Floyd Patterson Is Named By NBA

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson of Rockville Centre, N.Y., Thursday was named boxer of the year by the National Boxing Association.

"Patterson's historic feat in being the first to regain the heavyweight title made his choice unanimous among the committee, said Tony Petronella, chairman of the NBA's ratings group.

Johansson had dethroned Patterson in their first match at Yankee Stadium, June 28, 1959.

Sugar Ray Robinson of New York also was cited by the NBA with its designation of him as its boxer of the month for December.

Robinson, who last year was deprived of his middleweight championship for his failure to comply with its order to defend the crown in a stipulated time, won the distinction for his strong performance in fighting a draw with Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, in their middleweight title match on Dec. 3.

Addition of Los Angeles in the American League will add something like $30,000 in air travel expense to the clubs.

Durocher Is Sought As Dodger Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday said they will try to sign Leo Durocher, onetime manager of the club, as a coach for 1961.

Manager Walter Alston will come to Los Angeles soon after Jan. 1 to talk to Durocher, the club disclosed, adding that Durocher would be a valuable addition to its board of strategy.

Mulleavy To Retire

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers first base coach, Greg Mulleavy, is retiring for the 1961 season because of ill health.

The Dodgers said Thursday he will remain as a scout and will return to the coaching staff when his health permits. Mulleavy has been in baseball since 1927.

North Carolina Belts Terps In Dixie Classic, 81-57

Villanova Rallies, Tops North Carolina State Quint, 72-63

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Villanova, 14 points behind at the half, stormed back to defeat North Carolina State 72-63 and North Carolina overwhelmed Maryland 81-57 Thursday in the first round of the Dixie Basketball Classic.

In Thursday night's games, defending champion Wake Forest met Marquette, each with 5-2 records, and undefeated Duke, 6th-ranked in the nation, went against Wyoming.

Villanova trailed by 12 points, 42-30, with 16:56 left to play. Then the Wildcats caught fire behind the brilliant playing of Capt. Jim Huggard of Philadelphia, who hit on 18 points. Villanova gradually cut the margin, and went ahead, 58-57, on a field goal by Bernard Chavis, with 5:22 remaining. From there on, it was all Villanova.

York Larese and Doug Moe supplied the scoring punch for North Carolina's win over Maryland. Larese got 24 points and Moe 19.

The Terps led only once, 8-7, in the opening minutes. North Carolina came back fast behind Larese, Moe and Dick Kepley to run up a 15-point lead, 25-10.

Maryland, led by Bill Stasiulatis of Bayonne, N.J., managed to cut the margin to four points and trailed 36-29 at the half.

Maryland went without a field goal during a period of nearly seven minutes in the first half.

Ten Ring Deaths Recorded In 1960, Four Were In U.S.

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten boxers, five of them professional and five amateur, died in ring contests during 1960, according to the annual survey by Ring magazine.

Four boxers met their death in the United States, two of them pro and two amateur. Four died in Mexico. The other fatalities were in Algeria and France.

Tommy Pacheco, 20-year-old Puerto Rican, died as the result of a New York pro bout, and Lewis Tubbs, a Houston welterweight, died 104 days after being injured in a bout at Pensacola, Fla. One of the amateurs who died in the U.S. was Charles Mohr of New York, a University of Wisconsin student.

Ring's award as fighter of the year went to Floyd Patterson, the 25-year-old New Yorker who became the first man ever to win back the world heavyweight title when he knocked out Ingemar Johansson last June.

The progress award went to Giulio Rinaldi, the young Italian who beat light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore in a nontitle bout.

Young Orioles Get Pay Hikes

Most Of Contracts Call For Increases

BALTIMORE (AP)—The young players who helped the Baltimore Orioles to a second-place finish in the American League last season will line their home nests with more green stuff next year.

Oriole President Lee MacPhail said Thursday that most of the 1961 contracts call for pay hikes.

"Most of the kids are entitled to increases and will get them," MacPhail said. "The four infielders, the young pitchers — they're the ones who haven't made much money before."

That seems to indicate that such young players as infielders Brooks Robinson, Ron Hansen, Marv Breeding, Jim Gentile, and pitchers Chuck Estrada, Steve Barber, Milt Pappas and Jack Fisher are being offered more than token raises.

With Gene Woodling drafted by the new Washington team, catcher Gus Triandos is expected to be the highest paid Oriole. He drew an estimated $25,000 last season.

DETROIT — Quarterbacks Earl Morrall and Jim Ninowski of the Detroit Lions were the signal-callers on the Michigan State Rose Bowl team in 1956.

Rymkus Named Coach Of Year In New League

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lou Rymkus of the Houston Oilers, who developed a winning team from a collection of rookies and pro has-beens, Thursday was voted 1960 coach-of-the-year in the American Football League by United Press International.

Rymkus, now in his 18th year of pro football, can climax his first season as a head coach by winning the A.F.L.'s championship game against the Los Angeles Chargers next Sunday at Houston.

Erdelatz Is Second

A panel of 24 league writers—3 from each league city—voted Rymkus the honor in a close ballot. The broad-shouldered, 41-year old Oilers coach received 9 votes compared to 6 for Eddie Erdelatz of the Oakland Raiders and 5 for Sid Gillman of Los Angeles. Sammy Baugh of the New York Titans had 2 votes.

Starting from scratch in this new pro football venture, just as his fellow coaches did, Rymkus did an outstanding job of organization and coaching in guiding the Oilers to the Eastern Division title with a 10-4 record.

Learned Under Leahy

Rymkus, a native of Royalton, Ill., learned his football under two of the game's coaching masters, Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

He was named Notre Dame's most valuable player in 1942 and was an all-pro guard during his 6 seasons with the Browns.

Owen Will Coach At Saskatchewan

REGINA, Sask. (UPI) — Steve Owen, the best trouble-shooter in the Canadian Football League, Thursday was named to succeed Ken Carpenter as head coach of the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The 62-year-old Owen, coach of the New York Giants for 23 years, will take over a team that finished last in the Western Conference of the Canadian League for the last two years.

Carpenter resigned as head coach of the Riders late last season to join the Denver Broncos of the American Football League as a player.

An attempt by a woman member of the House of Commons in Britain to outlaw boxing was voted down.

Boxer Of Year Honors Go To Heavy Champ

Floyd Patterson Is Named By NBA

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson of Rockville Centre, N.Y., Thursday was named boxer of the year by the National Boxing Association.

"Patterson's historic feat in being the first to regain the heavyweight title made his choice unanimous among the committee, said Tony Petronella, chairman of the NBA's ratings group.

Patterson, 25, became the first to rule the heavyweight division a second time with his five-round knockout of Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in their second clash at the Polo Grounds last June 20.

Johansson had dethroned Patterson in their first match at Yankee Stadium, June 28, 1959.

Sugar Ray Robinson of New York also was cited by the NBA with its designation of him as its boxer of the month for December.

Robinson, who last year was deprived of his middleweight championship for his failure to comply with its order to defend the crown in a stipulated time, won the distinction for his strong performance in fighting a draw with Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, in their middleweight title match on Dec. 3.

Addition of Los Angeles in the American League will add something like $30,000 in air travel expense to the clubs.

Eight Bowl Contests Set For Today And Saturday

Tangerine Billed Tonight; Four Big Ones On Monday

By The Associated Press

The calendar, which has 1961 starting on a Sunday, gives the football addict a double-barreled holiday with eight bowl games of assorted sizes scheduled for Friday night or Saturday and four big ones on Monday.

It will come to a close on Monday after Minnesota (8-1) and Washington (9-1) have entertained the usual 103,000 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. This kickoff is set for 5 p.m. (EST).

In addition to the Rose Bowl the other three big ones on Monday — Orange, Cotton and Sugar Bowl games—will be televised nationally. The same treatment will be given to the Gator Bowl and the two all-star attractions, East-West and Blue-Gray games, on Saturday.

Pimlico Leads State Betting

Handle For Year Hits $41,599,539

BALTIMORE (AP)—More money was bet at Pimlico in 1960 than at any of the state's other 11 tracks.

A report by the Maryland Jockey Club, operators of the Baltimore track, showed Thursday that betting for Pimlico's 12-day spring meet and 28-day autumn meet totaled $41,599,539. That's a daily average of $1,039,988.

Runnerup to Pimlico in total wagering was Laurel with $41,304,666, an average of $1,032,616 for 40 days.

Wagering at Bowie this year was $32,510,437 for a daily average of $1,015,951.

The largest single day's handle was $2,064,478 on Pimlico Cup Day, Dec. 10. The best attendance day was May 21 when 30,659 fans saw the Preakness.

Jazy Is Honored

(PARIS (AP) — Michel Jazy, second place winner in the 1,500-meter Olympic run, was voted France's No. 1 athlete of 1960. He was elected in a poll conducted by the sports newspaper L'Equipe.

Durocher Is Sought As Dodger Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday said they will try to sign Leo Durocher, onetime manager of the club, as a coach for 1961.

Manager Walter Alston will come to Los Angeles soon after Jan. 1 to talk to Durocher, the club disclosed, adding that Durocher would be a valuable addition to its board of strategy.

Mulleavy To Retire

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers first base coach, Greg Mulleavy, is retiring for the 1961 season because of ill health.

The Dodgers said Thursday he will remain as a scout and will return to the coaching staff when his health permits. Mulleavy has been in baseball since 1927.

Active But Hectic Market Registers Erratic Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks carved out a small, erratic advance Thursday with American Telephone, the steel shares, oils and utilities the major gainers.

The market was broad, active and hectic but it lacked the incentive for a full scale rally. Brokers said the roadblock was due to last-minute tax selling and switching and noted that only one trading day remains for the traditional year-end rally before 1960 becomes history.

American Telephone claimed additional strong support reaching another all-time high with a gain of 2¼ and was largely responsible for the Dow-Jones industrial average's 0.44 rise to 616.19. Union Carbide sagged the same amount.

Rail stocks tacked on 0.15 but the utilities broke the 100 mark with a gain of 0.69 to 100.07. Pacific Electric rose a point.

Volume for the next-to-the last session of 1960 climbed sharply to 4,340,000 shares from 3,620,000 the day before. Some 1,271 issues crossed the tape including 579 gainers and 427 losers. New highs outstripped new lows by a wide margin and for the 16th session in a row — 42 to 11.

Active But Hectic Market Registers Erratic Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks carved out a small, erratic advance Thursday with American Telephone, the steel shares, oils and utilities the major gainers.

The market was broad, active and hectic but it lacked the incentive for a full scale rally. Brokers said the roadblock was due to last-minute tax selling and switching and noted that only one trading day remains for the traditional year-end rally before 1960 becomes history.

American Telephone claimed additional strong support reaching another all-time high with a gain of 2¼ and was largely responsible for the Dow-Jones industrial average's 0.44 rise to 616.19. Union Carbide sagged the same amount.

Rail stocks tacked on 0.15 but the utilities broke the 100 mark with a gain of 0.69 to 100.07. Pacific Electric rose a point.

Volume for the next-to-the last session of 1960 climbed sharply to 4,340,000 shares from 3,620,000 the day before. Some 1,271 issues crossed the tape including 579 gainers and 427 losers. New highs outstripped new lows by a wide margin and for the 16th session in a row — 42 to 11.

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three rookie managers and a veteran who was fired last year face the touchest major league baseball assignments in 1961.

Two have clubs expected to win—two are certain to lose. Either way, it'll be no bed of roses.

The rookies on the hot spot with good clubs at their disposal are Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees and Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants.

At the other end, the doomed pair, are rookie manager Mickey Vernon of the new Washington Senators and veteran Bill Rigney of the even newer Los Angeles Angels. Rigney was fired by the Giants before mid-season last year.

Only time will tell which proves to be the severest managerial task but at this point the greater sympathy goes to Vernon and Rigney who'll have to nurse their cast-off casts through the longest season in American League history — 162 games.

Taylor Saw Problem

As old Zack Taylor used to say when he was shepherding the hopeless St. Louis Browns of another era, "You could live with this thing if it weren't for those long losing streaks."

Zack knew he had to lose with his rag-tag outfit but if he lost seven, won one and then lost eight he could "live with it" far easier than if those 15 defeats were strung in an unbroken row.

How the new Senators and the newer Angels are going to avoid long streaks in the lost column is hard to figure. But that's the sort of future facing both Vernon and Rigney as the two new American League clubs begin their slow build-up to a competitive footing with the rest of the league's eight old teams.

Houk, as successor to the fantastically successful Casey Stengel is the mos' obvious target for the second-guessers in 1961. He not only is untried as a major league pilot but is working in a "must win" situation with the Yankees who regard anything but first place a failure.

Dark's Task Demanding

Dark's task is less demanding but perhaps not much.

His first managerial shot comes with a club that used up two field bosses last year — Rigney and Tom Sheehan.

There were hints when Alvin first was named that some San Francisco factions were disappointed that a more experienced man hadn't ben selected. San Francisco long was accustomed, in its minor league days, to having the highly respected Lefty O'Doul running things and prefers a manager who knows his trade inside out.

Additionally, the Giants are playing in the toughest league with Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and St. Louis all scrambling for the top.

Among the other managers, Danny Murtaugh of Pittsburgh will have his hands full trying to keep the Pirates in the winning groove and there'll be pressure on Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles to keep his baby Birds flying high after their excellent — and premature — showing in 1960.

But as of now their chores seem considerably less awesome than those facing Houk, Dark, Vernon and Rigney.

Bellino Farewell In Miami Heads Jan. 2 Contests

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

It appears as though the Orange Bowl has the plum. Of the four football games to be played on Monday, Jan. 2 the most interest is being centered on the meeting of Navy and Missouri in Miami.

The magic name of Joe Bellino, Navy's record breaking halfback, is the reason. This could be the last time anyone will ever see Bellino carry a football.

He will be graduated next June. Pro football would like to have him the 5-foot-9 Bellino but he is scheduled to serve his next four football seasons in the Navy.

After that, Bellino may turn to baseball, a sport he prefers. He's a catcher, and a pretty fair hitter. If Bellino were eligible for baseball right now baseball men feel he could easily get a $50,000 bonus.

As Bellino goes so goes Navy. That has been the cry of the Midshipmen during the 1960 season. And Bellino went in nine of the 10 games. He scored 18 touchdowns and one two-point conversion on a run for 110 points.

Only in the Duke game was he stopped. In that one, Duke scored 19 points in the second half to hand the Middies their only setback, 19-10.

The millions who watch Bellino on their television screens the second day of the new year will see why he was regarded as the best football player in the nation. They will see him run the flanks, shake off tacklers he can't fake out of position and carry the ball with a peculair leaning action that has caused coaches to rate him the best sideway runner they have seen in many a season. Viewers will see him take kickoffs and punts and they will also see him defend against passes and possibly intercept a couple, if Missouri goes to the air.

The Rose Bowl game between Minnesota and host Washington figures to be an interesting test. Washington trounced Wisconsin, 44-8, last New Year's Day and Minnesota rated the No. 1 team in the nation, would like to regain what prestige the Big Ten lost a year ago.

Mississippi's unbeaten but tied Southeast Conference champions are favored to beat Rice in the Sugar Bowl. Ole Miss was held to less than 21 points only twice during the campaign, and it has the brilliant 5-foot-11 Jake Gibbs at quarterback.

Arkansas, ruler of the Southwest Conference, figures to take care of Duke in the Cotton Bowl. Duke looked unimpressive in losing its last two games and the Razorbacks permitted only one touchdown in their last four games.

Here are the New Year (Jan. 2) pairings and the TV lineup:

ORANGE BOWL—Navy vs. Missouri, CBS 12:45 EST.
SUGAR BOWL—Rice vs. Mississippi, NBC 1:45 EST.
COTTON BOWL—Arkansas vs. Duke, CBS 3:30 EST.
ROSE BOWL — Washington vs. Minnesota, NBC 4:45 EST.

WAYNE HARDIN

Wayne Hardin, Navy's 33-year-old coach with a 14-5-1 record for his two years at the U. S. Naval Academy, will be getting his first taste of post-season coaching action when his Middies play Missouri in the Orange Bowl.

Hardin, who won 11 varsity letters as an athlete at the College of Pacific, hopes his Annapolis gridmen live up to Navy's reputation for never having lost a bowl game. This will be Navy's first trip to Miami for a post-season contest.

DAN DEVINE

Missouri Coach Dan Devine is making a return engagement to the Orange Bowl. His 1959 team lost to Georgia, 14-0, last New Year's Day.

Devine, in six years as a head coach, has an impressive .783 winning percentage. His teams at Missouri and Arizona State at Tempe have won 47 games, lost 13 and tied 2. The Tigers were 9-1 for the season but actually wound up unbeaten. Kansas' 23-7 victory over Missouri was ruled a forfeit. Kansas used an ineligible player.

JIM OWENS

Nobody expects Jim Owens, young University of Washington coach, to share the success his Huskies enjoyed a year ago when they trounced Wisconsin, 44-8, in the Rose Bowl. This time Washington meets the nation's No. 1 team in Minnesota.

In four seasons as a head coach the 33-year-old Owens shows a 25-15-1 record. His Washington team has lost only two games in the last two seasons by a total of eight points. Owens was an All-America end on the great 1949 Oklahoma team.

MURRAY WARMATH

Murray Warmath became a winning coach in more ways than one with Minnesota this season. The Gophers' 9-1 record moved Warmath five games above .500 with his nine-year coaching record now showing 41-36-5.

The former Tennessee guard saw his team finish last in the Big Ten in 1959 but this fall Minnesota was ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, losing only to Purdue. Warmath coached Mississippi State two seasons and formerly was an aide at West Point.

JOHN VAUGHT

John Vaught of Mississippi takes into the Sugar Bowl the best record of any New Year's coach In 14 years at Ole Miss his teams have a .791 winning percentage. They show 110 wins, 29 defeats and 7 ties.

The former TCU guard led his team to Mississippi's fourth Southeastern Conference championship since 1947. Last New Year's Day at New Orleans, Vaught's charges humbled LSU, 21-0. This season the only mar on the Rebels' record was a 6-6 tie with LSU.

JESS NEELY

Jess Neely of Rice is the daddy of the New Year's bowl game coaches. The former Vanderbilt athlete and ex-Clemson coach shows a record of 184-139-17 in 34 years as a head coach. He came to Rice in 1940.

Under Neely, the Owls have won three times in the Cotton and once in the Orange Bowl. Their only bowl setback came against Navy, 20-7, in the 1958 Cotton Bowl test. The meeting with Mississippi marks Rice's first Sugar Bowl effort.

BILL MURRAY

Bill Murray has led his Duke Blue Devils to five conference titles in his last 10 years. In 18 years of coaching the ex-Delaware mentor shows a record of 111 victories, 49 defeats and 9 ties.

Despite a 7-3 record this fall, Duke won the Atlantic Coast Conference crown. Murray, 52, is a former Duke halfback. In 1952, before the ACC was formed, Murray was chosen top coach in the Southern Conference. In 1954 he was chosen coach of the year in the ACC.

FRANK BROYLES

In four years as a head football coach, Frank Broyles shows a 26-14-1 record. In facing Duke, a team Arkansas has never met in football, Broyles hopes to duplicate his success of last New Year's Day when his Razorbacks beat Georgia Tech, 14-7, in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville. Tech, incidentally, is his Alma Mater.

In previous Cotton Bowl games, Arkansas played a scoreless tie with LSU in 1947 and bowed to Georgia Tech, 14-6, in 1955. Broyles' 1960 team won the Southwest Conference title.

The only non-Pennsylvanian in Penn State's starting football lineup this year, Jim Kerr, of St. Clairsville, Ohio, led the team in rushing, scoring, pass receiving and kickoff returns.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three rookie managers and a veteran who was fired last year face the touchest major league baseball assignments in 1961.

Two have clubs expected to win—two are certain to lose. Either way, it'll be no bed of roses.

The rookies on the hot spot with good clubs at their disposal are Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees and Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants.

At the other end, the doomed pair, are rookie manager Mickey Vernon of the new Washington Senators and veteran Bill Rigney of the even newer Los Angeles Angels. Rigney was fired by the Giants before mid-season last year.

Only time will tell which proves to be the severest managerial task but at this point the greater sympathy goes to Vernon and Rigney who'll have to nurse their cast-off casts through the longest season in American League history — 162 games.

Taylor Saw Problem

As old Zack Taylor used to say when he was shepherding the hopeless St. Louis Browns of another era, "You could live with this thing if it weren't for those long losing streaks."

Zack knew he had to lose with his rag-tag outfit but if he lost seven, won one and then lost eight he could "live with it" far easier than if those 15 defeats were strung in an unbroken row.

How the new Senators and the newer Angels are going to avoid long streaks in the lost column is hard to figure. But that's the sort of future facing both Vernon and Rigney as the two new American League clubs begin their slow build-up to a competitive footing with the rest of the league's eight old teams.

Houk, as successor to the fantastically successful Casey Stengel is the most obvious target for the second-guessers in 1961. He not only is untried as a major league pilot but is working in a "must win" situation with the Yankees who regard anything but first place a failure.

Dark's Task Demanding

Dark's task is less demanding but perhaps not much.

His first managerial shot comes with a club that used up two field bosses last year — Rigney and Tom Sheehan.

There were hints when Alvin first was named that some San Francisco factions were disappointed that a more experienced man hadn't ben selected. San Francisco long was accustomed, in its minor league days, to having the highly respected Lefty O'Doul running things and prefers a manager who knows his trade inside out.

Additionally, the Giants are playing in the toughest league with Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and St. Louis all scrambling for the top.

Among the other managers, Danny Murtaugh of Pittsburgh will have his hands full trying to keep the Pirates in the winning groove and there'll be pressure on Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles to keep his baby Birds flying high after their excellent — and premature — showing in 1960.

But as of now their chores seem considerably less awesome than those facing Houk, Dark, Vernon and Rigney.

Bellino Farewell In Miami Heads Jan. 2 Contests

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

It appears as though the Orange Bowl has the plum. Of the four football games to be played on Monday, Jan. 2 the most interest is being centered on the meeting of Navy and Missouri in Miami.

The magic name of Joe Bellino, Navy's record breaking halfback, is the reason. This could be the last time anyone will ever see Bellino carry a football.

He will be graduated next June. Pro football would like to have him the 5-foot-9 Bellino but he is scheduled to serve his next four football seasons in the Navy.

After that, Bellino may turn to baseball, a sport he prefers. He's a catcher, and a pretty fair hitter. If Bellino were eligible for baseball right now baseball men feel he could easily get a $50,000 bonus.

As Bellino goes so goes Navy. That has been the cry of the Midshipmen during the 1960 season. And Bellino went in nine of the 10 games. He scored 18 touchdowns and one two-point conversion on a run for 110 points.

Only in the Duke game was he stopped. In that one, Duke scored 19 points in the second half to hand the Middies their only setback, 19-10.

The millions who watch Bellino on their television screens the second day of the new year will see why he was regarded as the best football player in the nation. They will see him run the flanks, shake off tacklers he can't fake out of position and carry the ball with a peculair leaning action that has caused coaches to rate him the best sideway runner they have seen in many a season. Viewers will see him take kickoffs and punts and they will also see him defend against passes and possibly intercept a couple, if Missouri goes to the air.

The Rose Bowl game between Minnesota and host Washington figures to be an interesting test. Washington trounced Wisconsin, 44-8, last New Year's Day and Minnesota rated the No. 1 team in the nation, would like to regain what prestige the Big Ten lost a year ago.

Mississippi's unbeaten but tied Southeast Conference champions are favored to beat Rice in the Sugar Bowl. Ole Miss was held to less than 21 points only twice during the campaign, and it has the brilliant 5-foot-11 Jake Gibbs at quarterback.

Arkansas, ruler of the Southwest Conference, figures to take care of Duke in the Cotton Bowl. Duke looked unimpressive in losing its last two games and the Razorbacks permitted only one touchdown in their last four games.

Here are the New Year (Jan. 2) pairings and the TV lineup:

ORANGE BOWL—Navy vs. Missouri, CBS 12:45 EST.
SUGAR BOWL—Rice vs. Mississippi, NBC 1:45 EST.
COTTON BOWL—Arkansas vs. Duke, CBS 3:30 EST.
ROSE BOWL — Washington vs. Minnesota, NBC 4:45 EST.

WAYNE HARDIN

Wayne Hardin, Navy's 33-year-old coach with a 14-5-1 record for his two years at the U. S. Naval Academy, will be getting his first taste of post-season coaching action when his Middies play Missouri in the Orange Bowl.

Hardin, who won 11 varsity letters as an athlete at the College of Pacific, hopes his Annapolis gridmen live up to Navy's reputation for never having lost a bowl game. This will be Navy's first trip to Miami for a post-season contest.

DAN DEVINE

Missouri Coach Dan Devine is making a return engagement to the Orange Bowl. His 1959 team lost to Georgia, 14-0, last New Year's Day.

Devine, in six years as a head coach, has an impressive .783 winning percentage. His teams at Missouri and Arizona State at Tempe have won 47 games, lost 13 and tied 2. The Tigers were 9-1 for the season but actually wound up unbeaten. Kansas' 23-7 victory over Missouri was ruled a forfeit. Kansas used an ineligible player.

JIM OWENS

Nobody expects Jim Owens, young University of Washington coach, to share the success his Huskies enjoyed a year ago when they trounced Wisconsin, 44-8, in the Rose Bowl. This time Washington meets the nation's No. 1 team in Minnesota.

In four seasons as a head coach the 33-year-old Owens shows a 25-15-1 record. His Washington team has lost only two games in the last two seasons by a total of eight points. Owens was an All-America end on the great 1949 Oklahoma team.

MURRAY WARMATH

Murray Warmath became a winning coach in more ways than one with Minnesota this season. The Gophers' 9-1 record moved Warmath five games above .500 with his nine-year coaching record now showing 41-36-5.

The former Tennessee guard saw his team finish last in the Big Ten in 1959 but this fall Minnesota was ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, losing only to Purdue. Warmath coached Mississippi State two seasons and formerly was an aide at West Point.

JOHN VAUGHT

John Vaught of Mississippi takes into the Sugar Bowl the best record of any New Year's coach In 14 years at Ole Miss his teams have a .791 winning percentage. They show 110 wins, 29 defeats and 7 ties.

The former TCU guard led his team to Mississippi's fourth Southeastern Conference championship since 1947 Last New Year's Day at New Orleans, Vaught's charges humbled LSU, 21-0. This season the only mar on the Rebels' record was a 6-6 tie with LSU.

JESS NEELY

Jess Neely of Rice is the daddy of the New Year's bowl game coaches. The former Vanderbilt athlete and ex-Clemson coach shows a record of 184-139-17 in 34 years as a head coach. He came to Rice in 1940.

Under Neely, the Owls have won three times in the Cotton and once in the Orange Bowl. Their only bowl setback came against Navy, 20-7, in the 1958 Cotton Bowl test. The meeting with Mississippi marks Rice's first Sugar Bowl effort.

BILL MURRAY

Bill Murray has led his Duke Blue Devils to five conference titles in his last 10 years. In 18 years of coaching the ex-Delaware mentor shows a record of 111 victories, 49 defeats and 9 ties.

Despite a 7-3 record this fall, Duke won the Atlantic Coast Conference crown. Murray, 52, is a former Duke halfback. In 1952, before the ACC was formed, Murray was chosen top coach in the Southern Conference. In 1954 he was chosen coach of the year in the ACC.

FRANK BROYLES

In four years as a head football coach, Frank Broyles shows a 26-14-1 record. In facing Duke, a team Arkansas has never met in football, Broyles hopes to duplicate his success of last New Year's Day when his Razorbacks beat Georgia Tech, 14-7, in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville. Tech, incidentally, is his Alma Mater.

In previous Cotton Bowl games, Arkansas played a scoreless tie with LSU in 1947 and bowed to Georgia Tech, 14-6, in 1955. Broyles' 1960 team won the Southwest Conference title.

Freezing Rain Covers Area In Icy Glaze

Roads Are Bad East Of City

A light misty rain in the afternoon and early evening yesterday froze into a thin glaze of ice in the Cumberland area last night, bringing traffic in Allegany County practically to a standstill and making walking hazardous on slippery sidewalks.

The slight rainfall followed in the wake of an early morning snowfall which accumulated from an inch to 1½ inches of new snow on the already covered ground.

Maryland State Police said the thin sheet of ice was covering everything in Allegany County and east of Cumberland, where weather reports indicated a hard winter freeze was in prospect.

West of Frostburg, however, the highways were bare and wet as warming temperatures in Garrett County, normally Western Maryland's "icebox," kept the snow and rain from freezing.

Frostburg City Police noted the warm afternoon rain had wet the city's streets, but no freezing was noted and traffic was normal.

Melting In Oakland

The weather in Oakland was wet and sloppy with 1½ inches of new snow accumulated in the early morning storm. The misty rain in the afternoon, however, melted some of the snow as temperatures hovered in the high 30s most of the day. The high for Oakland was 39 following an overnight low of 20 degrees.

Grantsville reported temperatures in the low 30s, and some freezing was noted late last night.

State Roads Commission crews were on the job yesterday cindering and salting the icy spots. The SRC reported U.S. Route 40 bare west of Frostburg, but glazed and slippery east of Cumberland.

Washington County had temperatures in the 20s and roads were reported very icy there.

Cumberland appeared to be the "cold spot" in Allegany County with temperatures ranging between 18 and 25 degrees during the day. The light snowfall dumped approximately one inch of new snow on the ground here. The snow was followed by .11 of an inch of rain which immediately glazed over in the freezing temperatures.

Power Fails

The inclement weather apparently was the cause of a power failure in a section of North Cumberland. Numerous houses in the Piedmont Avenue and Holland Street area were without electric power for nearly an hour last evening.

The Potomac Edison Company reported one phase of the three-phase electric circuit in North Cumberland was out of order from 5:10 p.m. until shortly after 6 o'clock when the power was restored.

PE crews are patrolling the power line to determine the exact cause of the power failure, the company reported.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, however, noted no trouble spots despite the freezing rain.

Bus schedules apparently were not affected too much by the bad conditions, officials of the Greyhound Lines stated.

Buses On Schedule

Eastbound buses were on time at the Cumberland station and no trouble had been reported on westbound schedules, although highway conditions were hazardous east of Hagerstown into the Baltimore area.

Rain pelted most of West Virginia and Pennsylvania yesterday and continued cold weather was expected to create bad icing conditions in the two neighboring states.

Snow fell in some sections of West Virginia and highways were reported "bad" in some mountainous areas. Some icing also was reported in Pennsylvania, and Turnpike authorities said the highway was slushy.

Today is expected to be partly sunny and warmer with the rain ending this morning. Temperatures will be in the high 30s.

Clinic Date Changed

The Allegany County Health Department announced yesterday that a child hygiene clinic which would normally be held Monday has been deferred until Monday, January 9, at 9 a.m.

Kiwanis Fetes Sunshine Campers

Maryland Sales Tax Table Is Issued By Government

State Income Tax Forms Are On The Way

Maryland income taxpayers, some 900,000 of them, will within the next few days receive their 1960 state income tax forms. Along with the forms they will receive a fiscal report of their state government.

The practice of sending to the citizens of Maryland a brief fiscal statement was inaugurated last year by State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

The report, Mr. Goldstein stated, was so well received last year that he decided to include it this year with tax forms. Much favorable comment was received regarding the report and it was the subject of a speech on the floor of the United States Senate by the late Senator Neuberger, who had it incorporated in the Congressional Record.

The report has a new format this year. In addition to the pie charts of receipts, disbursements and bonded indebtedness, the report lists in columnar order "Where Your State's Money Came From," "Where Your Money Went," and "The State's Bonded Debt Accounts."

Copies Available

The report lists the addresses of various offices of the comptroller, the names of the administrative officers and the division heads.

Mr. Goldstein said that in addition to sending a copy of the report to each income taxpayer, copies will be distributed to schools, service organizations, and others that request copies in small bulk quantities.

The fiscal report showed that the State of Maryland took in $476,300,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960.

Income taxes brought in $105,400,000; retail sales and use taxes $74,100,000; motor vehicle fuel tax $53,200,000; motor vehicle licenses, fines and titling tax $53,200,000; property, franchise, insurance and death taxes $37,100,000; tobacco, liquor, racing and amusement excise taxes $34,700,000, and miscellaneous fees $26,700,000.

This is a total of $371,300,000 from state revenues.

Grants Included

During the year, the state spent $129,800,000 for education, $115,500,000 for the State Roads Commission and tax distributions to localities, $73,000,000 for health and welfare, $37,400,000 for tax distributions to localities, $34,800,000 for legislative, judicial and general government services, $26,900,000 for servicing the state debt, $18,600,000 for correction and public safety services and $18,600,000 for land, buildings and equipment for a grand total of expenditures of $454,600,000.

The state's bonded debt totals $431,600,000, which is less than a year's income.

The debt includes $136,500,000 for land, buildings and equipment, $206,900,000 for highway improvements and $88,200,000 in public school construction funds for localities.

Mr. Machiz said the table may be used as a guide by district taxpayers in claiming sales tax deductions on the federal income tax returns for 1960.

"Taxpayers who itemize their deductions instead of taking the standard deduction on Forms 1040 or 1040W" he said, "may find the table helpful in estimating the amount to claim for sales taxes on their returns."

Mr. Machiz stated that the law requires taxpayers to substantiate any deduction claimed on their returns and if requested they must be prepared to do so. Ordinarily, however, they will not be asked to produce records to support the sales tax deduction claimed unless it exceeds the amount shown in the table.

For Maryland residents the table includes average sales tax payments only and not the two per cent titling tax on motor vehicles which must be computed separately.

Taxpayers who have questions on this subject may telephone the local Internal Revenue Office, he advised.

Harman Man Shot To Death

A Harman, W. Va., youth was shot to death on Christmas Day in Thoreau, New Mexico, and authorities said last night details on his death were sketchy.

The victim was identified as Sherrill Yokum Wolford, son of Mrs. Violet (Cooper) Wolford of Harman, and the late Jerry Wolford.

The youth died on his 20th birthday. A New Mexico funeral director described the shooting as "accidental," but no other facts were available here last night.

The body will arrive in Oakland today and will be taken to the Presbyterian Church in Harman for funeral services at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. John K. Mann will officiate and interment will be in the Yokum cemetery in Harman.

Mr. Wolford was born December 25, 1940, at Kincaid, W. Va. He is survived by his mother; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Wolford, Harman; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper, also of Harman; three brothers, Larry Wolford of Fort Knox, Ky., Randle Wolford and Tony Wolford, both of Harman; and a sister, Linda Lou Wolford, at Harman.

Federal Income Tax Pamphlets Arrive Here

Early Filing Urged By IR Service

Federal income tax forms for 1960 began arriving in the mails here yesterday.

More bad news is expected along with winter weather in a few days when similar forms for Maryland income tax are delivered.

Included in the federal tax form packet are brief tax instructions, copies of the famous 1040, capital gains schedules and estimated tax forms for 1961.

The pamphlet points out that you can save money for yourself and your government if you file your return early and make sure your figures are right.

The Internal Revenue Service points out that the final date for filing returns is April 15 but that taxpayers who wait until the last-minute often make costly mistakes.

Another argument for early filing, not stated, is that the earlier you file, the quicker you will get a refund check if you have overpaid your tax bill through withholding or other means.

The pamphlet notes that if taxpayers need help in preparing returns, they may ask questions by phone at the nearest Internal Revenue office or come in for other assistance.

The table may be used to estimate deductions for Maryland income tax paid.

Boy, 10, Has Unusual Run Of Bad Luck

A 10-year-old local boy has had his share of trouble lately.

Yesterday afternoon Kenneth Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Miller, 940 Gay Street, was sled riding, ran into a parked car and ended up in Memorial Hospital with a broken left leg.

About two weeks ago Kenny had a cast removed from his right foot. He was still learning to walk again when yesterday's accident occurred on Oldtown Road near the Fort Cumberland Homes.

Last month he was riding in the bed of a panel truck belonging to his dad when a motor on the bed shifted and broke the arch in his right foot.

After the sled accident yesterday, two boys in Kenny's neighborhood ran into his house and told his mother, "Give us Kenny's crutches because he broke his other leg."

Last night his left leg was in traction and the young fellow was reported to be in "satisfactory" condition.

B&O Recalls 203 Carmen At Keyser Shops

A bright spot for the economy of Keyser was the announcement yesterday by the B&O Railroad that 203 men have been ordered to return to work in the car repair shops next Wednesday.

This comprises four and one-half work units. The car repair shops at Keyser had been practically shut down for some weeks with a number of furloughs.

Dinner Is Planned

The Potomac Valley Farm Bureau Group No. 1 will hold a dinner meeting on January 4 at 6 p.m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Cobey Receives Oath

W. Earle Cobey, the newest associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, is shown standing yesterday as he receives the oath of office from Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court (back to camera). Looking on, seated at left, is Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Two Semmes Brothers Had Conflicting Views

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

When Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday commented about the first Allegany County citizen to become a judge of Circuit Court well over a century ago, he, in effect, opened a history book to a chapter about two brothers with conflicting sentiments.

Judge Harris pointed out yesterday that Samuel Middleton Semmes, a native of Charles County in Southern Maryland who migrated to Allegany County as a young man, was the first citizen of this county to be appointed a Circuit Court judge.

Samuel M. Semmes actually was appointed a judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals by then Governor Frank Thomas in 1844. In those days, jurists served both as Circuit Court judges and as judges of the Court of Appeals. One judge from each circuit sat on the Court of Appeals.

Judge Harris did not go on to tell the rest of the story as is explained in Thomas and Williams' History of Allegany County, published in 1923. This historical volume, available for research at the Cumberland Branch of the Allegany County Library, explains that Judge Semmes served until the ensuing meeting of the State Senate. The book says, "For some political reason, his appointment failed of confirmation." The State Senate no longer has the power to confirm or reject appointees to judgeships.

Judge Harris made his observation about Samuel Semmes during the ceremonies at which W. Earle Cobey, local attorney and a Democrat, was sworn in as the new associate judge of Circuit Court (story on page 9).

Paradoxically, Samuel M. Semmes served for 11 years in the State Senate, the body which had denied him the opportunity to serve as a judge. The Allegany County attorney served as a state senator from 1855 until 1866.

Brother Confederate Admiral

Samuel Semmes had an older brother who gained fame as a rear admiral in the Confederate Navy during the Civil War. His name was Raphael.

It is believed that he (Raphael) practiced law briefly in Cumberland before the Civil War, but this could not be verified.

The Dictionary of American Biography, also available for reference at the library here, simply states that during considerable leaves of absence from the U.S. Navy studied and practiced law in both Maryland and Ohio.

Raphael Semmes, who was born September 27, 1809, began his distinguished naval career on September 8, 1826, following his appointment as a midshipman by President John Quincy Adams. He reached the rank of commander in 1855, the same year his brother became a state senator in Maryland, and resigned from the U.S. Navy with the same rank on February 15, 1861, just before the outbreak of the Civil War.

During a period of brilliant service for the Confederate Navy, Raphael Semmes was responsible for the sinking of 82 merchantmen valued at $6,000,000 and sank a man-of-war. His own Confederate Naval career came to a virtual end when his own man-of-war, the Alabama, was sunk off the coast of France on June 19, 1864.

Pirate Or Hero?

There were mixed feelings about Raphael Semmes. The North considered him little more than a pirate. However, he was greatly admired in the naval world abroad and the Confederacy appointed him a rear admiral as of February 10, 1865, only about two months before Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Historical references to Samuel Semmes make no mention of his sympathies during the Civil War. However, he did serve in the State Senate of Maryland throughout the Civil War. That, in itself, ap-

Early Decision Set In River Compact Case

Appeal To High Court Expected

BALTIMORE (AP)—Arguments over the validity of a Maryland referendum on the new Potomac River Compact between Maryland and Virginia ended Thursday in Baltimore Circuit Court.

Judge Anselm Sodaro promised an early decision because of the importance of the case.

Sodaro took the case under consideration after a day and a half of argument by state lawyers defending the compact and Baltimore attorney Hyman A. Pressman, representing 101 Potomac watermen who oppose it.

The agreement would set up a bi-state commission to regulate fishing and conservation in the Maryland-owned river.

Challenges Validity

After the compact was approved by the legislatures of both states, opponents obtained enough signatures on a petition to place the issue before Maryland voters in the Nov. 8 election. The voters approved the pact by more than 40,000 votes of 449,000 cast, but watermen challenged the validity of the referendum on grounds that it was not legally advertised.

Asst. Attys. Gen. Joseph S. Kaufman and James O. Gentry told the court there had been "substantial compliance" with the law in advertising the compact.

Pressman said the state lawyers ignored the main point, which was that the voters did not get the opportunity required by law to see the full details of the compact before voting in the Nov. 8 referendum.

He noted that the law requires publication of the text of the question to be voted on in all daily Baltimore City newspapers and in at least two newspapers in each of the 23 Maryland counties. The compact text was published, along with proposed amendments to the State Constitution, in only one Baltimore paper.

Gives Background

Because the requirements were set in a 1957 revision of state election laws after a careful five-year study, said Pressman, there was no excuse for the state's failure to observe these requirements.

The court could not be blamed for "disenfranchising" those who voted on the compact, Pressman added, because if the vote were thrown out the fault would lie with the state officials who violated the requirements for legal publication of the compact text.

Kaufman summarized the historic and legal background of the compact and said the question had received wide publicity in the news columns of papers and on radio and television newscasts, besides publication of the text in the Baltimore newspaper.

He said only two of 15 other statewide questions on the Nov. 8 ballot were voted on more heavily than the compact. This indicated there was "a full and free expression of the popular will," he told the court.

May Go Higher

Observers expect the case to be carried to the Maryland Court of Appeals, regardless of Sodaro's ruling on the questions of validity and constitutionality raised by Pressman.

Besides the legality of the referendum, he has also contended that the compact itself is unconstitutional by providing for the trial of Marylanders in Virginia on conservation-law charges.

To become effective, the agreement still requires approval by Congress and the President.

The compact was drafted by a bi-state committee to replace the Compact of 1785, which gave Virginians equal fishing rights in the river. In exhange, Maryland shipping received free passage through the Virginia Capes, a concession later made unnecessary because the U. S. Constitution—ratified in 1789—guaranteed such passage on interstate waterways.

The 1958 Maryland Legislature, accusing Virginia officials of failing to cooperate in vigorous enforcement of conservation restrictions on oystermen, declared the 1785 compact void.

Virginia asked the Supreme Court to declare the agreement still in effect on grounds that it could not be nullified by one state without consent of the other.

New Pact Drawn

The bi-state committee then drafted the new compact proposal in an attempt to reach an out-of-court settlement.

Besides setting up the joint regulatory commission, the agreement requires each state to contribute fixed sums annually toward replenishment of oysters and other seafood resources of the once-rich river.

Leaders of the resistance movement, headed by State Sen. Walter R. Dorsey, D-St. Marys, have insisted that any bi-state conservation agreement should include Virginia's portion of Chesapeake Bay.

Cigaret Possible Cause Of Fatal Mine Explosion

Victims' Bodies Are Recovered

An ill-timed cigaret may have set off an explosion that killed two men in a coal mine in Preston County, W. Va., Wednesday, said State Mines Director Crawford L. Wilson.

Dead are Truman Burke, 22, and James Tarleton, 23, both of Newburg, Preston County.

Their bodies were recovered late Wednesday night several hours after they were trapped about 1,600 feet from the surface by a gas explosion.

"It looks like someone was smoking in there," said Mr. Wilson after receiving a report from mine inspectors at the scene of the blast in a small mine near Newburg.

"They found evidence of some cigarets in the debris," said Mr. Wilson in referring to investigations by federal and state inspectors.

Mr. Wilson pointed out that one of the two victims may have ignited an accumulation of gas when he prepared to light a cigaret.

The two men had finished loading a small coal car and the operator of the mine, Sanford Phillips, had taken the car to the surface to empty it when the blast occurred.

It took rescue teams about 14 hours to make their way through gas and roof falls to reach the two victims.

Rescue workers brought the bodies to the surface shortly before midnight after struggling through clouds of deadly gas fumes and digging through tons of rock and dirt.

Rescue efforts were hampered as crews continually were forced out of the pit to replenish the oxygen supply for their gas masks.

Workers Here Help Set PE Safety Record

For the first time in the history of The Potomac Edison Company, a single major division has worked a total of 1,000,000 man hours without a lost-time accident, and a group of Cumberland employes played a major role in attaining that record.

Potomac Edison's substations and communications department, which has divisions here, in Hagerstown, Frederick and Front Royal, recently passed that mark and continued to roll up the accident-free man hours.

The million man hour mark is recognized by national safety experts as indicative of outstanding safety performance and among the citations received by the PE group have been awards from the National Safety Council and the Edison Electric Institute.

The record established by the substations group represents over seven years without a lost-time injury. Their last accident which took a man off the job was suffered in July 1953.

PE president Robert G. MacDonald extended congratulations to members of that department, as did department manager O. Lee Wallis.

Mr. MacDonald told the group: "Certainly the greatest beneficiaries of this record are those who created it because they haven't known the pain and suffering that always accompanies serious injury."

State Acquires Mountain Land

The State Game and Inland Fish Commission has just acquired a large tract of land along the crest of Dan's Mountain, covering parts of six different election districts of Allegany County, according to a deed filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

This property, acquired partially from the executors of the estate of Isabel C. Addison, is described as "Coal and Iron Banks." The tract includes parts of District 18, Midland; 27, Gilmore; 15, Lonaconing; 9, Barton; 31, McCoole, and 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings.

It extends from near Dan's Rock to the Stony Run area of Allegany County at McCoole. Purchase price of the mountainous property was $27,143.33, according to a figure listed on the deed.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke explained last night that this purchase brings to between 7,000 and 8,000 acres the amount of land on Dan's Mountain owned by the Game and Inland Fish Commission. About 500 acres are being set apart for a game preserve and the rest will be utilized as public hunting lands.

Freezing Rain Covers Area In Icy Glaze

Roads Are Bad East Of City

A light misty rain in the afternoon and early evening yesterday froze into a thin glaze of ice in the Cumberland area last night, bringing traffic in Allegany County practically to a standstill and making walking hazardous on slippery sidewalks.

The slight rainfall followed in the wake of an early morning snowfall which accumulated from an inch to 1½ inches of new snow on the already covered ground.

Maryland State Police said the thin sheet of ice was covering everything in Allegany County and east of Cumberland, where weather reports indicated a hard winter freeze was in prospect.

West of Frostburg, however, the highways were bare and wet as warming temperatures in Garrett County, normally Western Maryland's "icebox," kept the snow and rain from freezing.

Frostburg City Police noted the warm afternoon rain had wet the city's streets, but no freezing was noted and traffic was normal.

Melting In Oakland

The weather in Oakland was wet and sloppy with 1½ inches of new snow accumulated in the early morning storm. The misty rain in the afternoon, however, melted some of the snow as temperatures hovered in the high 30s most of the day. The high for Oakland was 39 following an overnight low of 20 degrees.

Grantsville reported temperatures in the low 30s, and some freezing was noted late last night.

State Roads Commission crews were on the job yesterday cindering and salting the icy spots. The SRC reported U.S. Route 40 bare west of Frostburg, but glazed and slippery east of Cumberland.

Washington County had temperatures in the 20s and roads were reported very icy there.

Cumberland appeared to be the "cold spot" in Allegany County with temperatures ranging between 18 and 25 degrees during the day. The light snowfall dumped approximately one inch of new snow on the ground here. The snow was followed by .11 of an inch of rain which immediately glazed over in the freezing temperatures.

Power Fails

The inclement weather apparently was the cause of a power failure in a section of North Cumberland. Numerous houses in the Piedmont Avenue and Holland Street area were without electric power for nearly an hour last evening.

The Potomac Edison Company reported one phase of the three-phase electric circuit in North Cumberland was out of order from 5:10 p.m. until shortly after 6 o'clock when the power was restored.

PE crews are patrolling the power line to determine the exact cause of the power failure, the company reported.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, however, noted no trouble spots despite the freezing rain.

Bus schedules apparently were not affected too much by the bad conditions, officials of the Greyhound Lines stated.

Buses On Schedule

Eastbound buses were on time at the Cumberland station and no trouble had been reported on westbound schedules, although highway conditions were hazardous east of Hagerstown into the Baltimore area.

Rain pelted most of West Virginia and Pennsylvania yesterday and continued cold weather was expected to create bad icing conditions in the two neighboring states.

Snow fell in some sections of West Virginia and highways were reported "bad" in some mountainous areas. Some icing also was reported in Pennsylvania, and Turnpike authorities said the highway was slushy.

Today is expected to be partly sunny and warmer with the rain ending this morning. Temperatures will be in the high 30s.

Clinic Date Changed

The Allegany County Health Department announced yesterday that a child hygiene clinic which would normally be held Monday has been deferred until Monday, January 9, at 9 a.m.

Kiwanis Fetes Sunshine Campers

Maryland Sales Tax Table Is Issued By Government

State Income Tax Forms Are On The Way

Maryland income taxpayers, some 900,000 of them, will within the next few days receive their 1960 state income tax forms. Along with the forms they will receive a fiscal report of their state government.

The practice of sending to the citizens of Maryland a brief fiscal statement was inaugurated last year by State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

The report, Mr. Goldstein stated, was so well received last year that he decided to include it this year with tax forms. Much favorable comment was received regarding the report and it was the subject of a speech on the floor of the United States Senate by the late Senator Neuberger, who had it incorporated in the Congressional Record.

The report has a new format this year. In addition to the pie charts of receipts, disbursements and bonded indebtedness, the report lists in columnar order "Where Your State's Money Came From," "Where Your Money Went," and "The State's Bonded Debt Accounts."

Copies Available

The report lists the addresses of various offices of the comptroller, the names of the administrative officers and the division heads.

Mr. Goldstein said that in addition to sending a copy of the report to each income taxpayer, copies will be distributed to schools, service organizations, and others that request copies in small bulk quantities.

The fiscal report showed that the State of Maryland took in $476,300,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960.

Income taxes brought in $105,400,000; retail sales and use taxes $74,100,000; motor vehicle fuel tax $53,200,000; motor vehicle licenses, fines and titling tax $53,200,000; property, franchise, insurance and death taxes $37,100,000; tobacco, liquor, racing and amusement excise taxes $34,700,000, and miscellaneous fees $26,700,000.

This is a total of $371,300,000 from state revenues.

Grants Included

Federal grants totaling $60,100,000 and bond issue funds totaling $44,900,000 brought the grand total of income to $476,300,000.

During the year, the state spent $129,800,000 for education, $115,500,000 for the State Roads Commission and tax distributions to localities, $73,000,000 for health and welfare, $37,400,000 for tax distributions to localities, $34,800,000 for legislative, judicial and general government services, $26,900,000 for servicing the state debt, $18,600,000 for correction and public safety services and $18,600,000 for land, buildings and equipment for a grand total of expenditures of $454,600,000.

The state's bonded debt totals $431,600,000, which is less than a year's income.

The debt includes $136,500,000 for land, buildings and equipment, $206,900,000 for highway improvements and $88,200,000 in public school construction funds for localities.

Mr. Machiz said the table may be used as a guide by district taxpayers in claiming sales tax deductions on the federal income tax returns for 1960.

"Taxpayers who itemize their deductions instead of taking the standard deduction on Forms 1040 or 1040W" he said, "may find the table helpful in estimating the amount to claim for sales taxes on their returns."

Mr. Machiz stated that the law requires taxpayers to substantiate any deduction claimed on their returns and if requested they must be prepared to do so. Ordinarily, however, they will not be asked to produce records to support the sales tax deduction claimed unless it exceeds the amount shown in the table.

For Maryland residents the table includes average sales tax payments only and not the two per cent titling tax on motor vehicles which must be computed separately.

Taxpayers who have questions on this subject may telephone the local Internal Revenue Office, he advised.

Harman Man Shot To Death

A Harman, W. Va., youth was shot to death on Christmas Day in Thoreau, New Mexico, and authorities said last night details on his death were sketchy.

The victim was identified as Sherrill Yokum Wolford, son of Mrs. Violet (Cooper) Wolford of Harman, and the late Jerry Wolford.

The youth died on his 20th birthday. A New Mexico funeral director described the shooting as "accidental," but no other facts were available here last night.

The body will arrive in Oakland today and will be taken to the Presbyterian Church in Harman for funeral services at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. John K. Mann will officiate and interment will be in the Yokum cemetery in Harman.

Mr. Wolford was born December 25, 1940, at Kincaid, W. Va. He is survived by his mother; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Wolford, Harman; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper, also of Harman; three brothers, Larry Wolford of Fort Knox, Ky., Randle Wolford and Tony Wolford, both of Harman; and a sister, Linda Lou Wolford, at Harman.

Federal Income Tax Pamphlets Arrive Here

Early Filing Urged By IR Service

Federal income tax forms for 1960 began arriving in the mails here yesterday.

More bad news is expected along with winter weather in a few days when similar forms for Maryland income tax are delivered.

Included in the federal tax form packet are brief tax instructions, copies of the famous 1040, capital gains schedules and estimated tax forms for 1961.

The pamphlet points out that you can save money for yourself and your government if you file your return early and make sure your figures are right.

The Internal Revenue Service points out that the final date for filing returns is April 15 but that taxpayers who wait until the last-minute often make costly mistakes.

Another argument for early filing, not stated, is that the earlier you file, the quicker you will get a refund check if you have overpaid your tax bill through withholding or other means.

The pamphlet notes that if taxpayers need help in preparing returns, they may ask questions by phone at the nearest Internal Revenue office or come in for other assistance.

The task will be eased for Maryland taxpayers by a sales tax table published elsewhere on this page of today's Cumberland News.

The table may be used to estimate deductions for Maryland income tax paid.

Boy, 10, Has Unusual Run Of Bad Luck

A 10-year-old local boy has had his share of trouble lately.

Yesterday afternoon Kenneth Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Miller, 940 Gay Street, was sled riding, ran into a parked car and ended up in Memorial Hospital with a broken left leg.

About two weeks ago Kenny had a cast removed from his right foot. He was still learning to walk again when yesterday's accident occurred on Oldtown Road near the Fort Cumberland Homes.

Last month he was riding in the bed of a panel truck belonging to his dad when a motor on the bed shifted and broke the arch in his right foot.

After the sled accident yesterday, two boys in Kenny's neighborhood ran into his house and told his mother, "Give us Kenny's crutches because he broke his other leg."

Last night his left leg was in traction and the young fellow was reported to be in "satisfactory" condition.

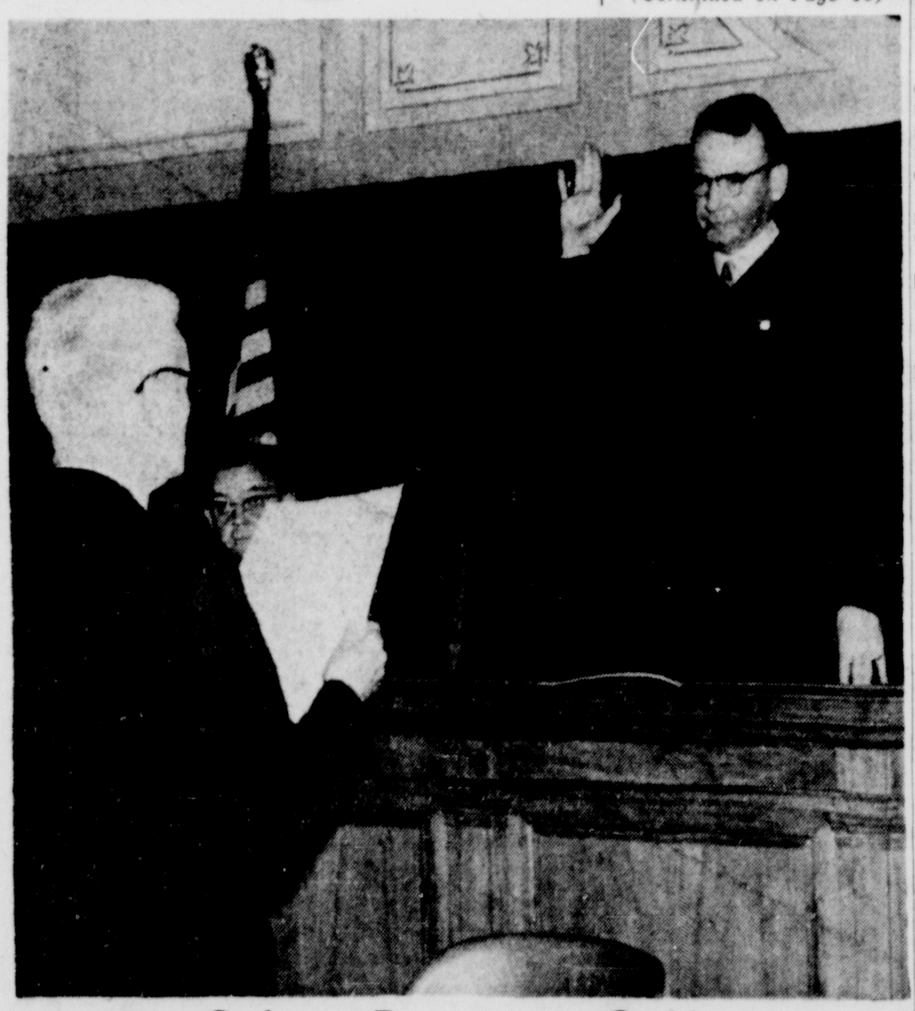
B&O Recalls 203 Carmen At Keyser Shops

A bright spot for the economy of Keyser was the announcement yesterday by the B&O Railroad that 203 men have been ordered to return to work in the car repair shops next Wednesday.

This comprises four and one-half work units. The car repair shops at Keyser had been practically shut down for some weeks with a number of furloughs.

Dinner Is Planned

The Potomac Valley Farm Bureau Group No. 1 will hold a dinner meeting on January 4 at 6 p.m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.



Cobey Receives Oath

W. Earle Cobey, the newest associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, is shown standing yesterday as he receives the oath of office from Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court (back to camera). Looking on, seated at left, is Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Two Semmes Brothers Had Conflicting Views

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

When Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday commented about the first Allegany County citizen to become a judge of Circuit Court well over a century ago, he, in effect, opened a history book to a chapter about two brothers with conflicting sentiments.

Judge Harris pointed out yesterday that Samuel Middleton Semmes, a native of Charles County in Southern Maryland who migrated to Allegany County as a young man, was the first citizen of this county to be appointed a Circuit Court judge.

Samuel M. Semmes actually was appointed a judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals by then Governor Frank Thomas in 1844. In those days, jurists served both as Circuit Court judges and as judges of the Court of Appeals. One judge from each circuit sat on the Court of Appeals.

Judge Harris did not go on to tell the rest of the story as is explained in Thomas and Williams' History of Allegany County, published in 1923. This historical volume, available for research at the Cumberland Branch of the Allegany County Library, explains that Judge Semmes served until the ensuing meeting of the State Senate. The book says, "For some political reason, his appointment failed of confirmation." The State Senate no longer has the power to confirm or reject appointees to judgeships.

Judge Harris made his observation about Samuel Semmes during the ceremonies at which W. Earle Cobey, local attorney and a Democrat, was sworn in as the new associate judge of Circuit Court (story on page 9).

Paradoxically, Samuel M. Semmes served for 11 years in the State Senate, the body which had denied him the opportunity to serve as a judge. The Allegany County attorney served as a state senator from 1855 until 1866.

Brother Confederate Admiral

Samuel Semmes had an older brother who gained fame as a rear admiral in the Confederate Navy during the Civil War. His name was Raphael.

It is believed that he (Raphael) practiced law briefly in Cumberland before the Civil War, but this could not be verified.

The Dictionary of American Biography, also available for reference at the library here, simply states that during considerable leaves of absence from the U.S. Navy studied and practiced law in both Maryland and Ohio.

Raphael Semmes, who was born September 27, 1809, began his distinguished naval career on September 8, 1826, following his appointment as a midshipman by President John Quincy Adams. He reached the rank of commander in 1855, the same year his brother became a state senator in Maryland, and resigned from the U.S. Navy with the same rank on February 15, 1861, just before the outbreak of the Civil War.

During a period of brilliant service for the Confederate Navy, Raphael Semmes was responsible for the sinking of 82 merchantmen valued at $6,000,000 and sank a man-of-war. His own Confederate Naval career came to a virtual end when his own man-of-war, the Alabama, was sunk off the coast of France on June 19, 1864.

Pirate Or Hero?

There were mixed feelings about Raphael Semmes. The North considered him little more than a pirate. However, he was greatly admired in the naval world abroad and the Confederacy appointed him a rear admiral as of February 10, 1865, only about two months before Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Historical references to Samuel Semmes make no mention of his sympathies during the Civil War. However, he did serve in the State Senate of Maryland throughout the Civil War. That, in itself, ap-

Early Decision Set In River Compact Case

Appeal To High Court Expected

BALTIMORE (AP)—Arguments over the validity of a Maryland referendum on the new Potomac River Compact between Maryland and Virginia ended Thursday in Baltimore Circuit Court.

Judge Anselm Sodaro promised an early decision because of the importance of the case.

Sodaro took the case under consideration after a day and a half of argument by state lawyers defending the compact and Baltimore attorney Hyman A. Pressman, representing 101 Potomac watermen who oppose it.

The agreement would set up a bi-state commission to regulate fishing and conservation in the Maryland-owned river.

Challenges Validity

After the compact was approved by the legislatures of both states, opponents obtained enough signatures on a petition to place the issue before Maryland voters in the Nov. 8 election. The voters approved the pact by more than 40,000 votes of 449,000 cast, but watermen challenged the validity of the referendum on grounds that it was not legally advertised.

Asst. Attys. Gen. Joseph S. Kaufman and James O. Gentry told the court there had been "substantial compliance" with the law in advertising the compact.

Pressman said the state lawyers ignored the main point, which was that the voters did not get the opportunity required by law to see the full details of the compact before voting in the Nov. 8 referendum.

He noted that the law requires publication of the text of the question to be voted on in all daily Baltimore City newspapers and in at least two newspapers in each of the 23 Maryland counties. The compact text was published, along with proposed amendments to the State Constitution, in only one Baltimore paper.

Gives Background

Because the requirements were set in a 1957 revision of state election laws after a careful five-year study, said Pressman, there was no excuse for the state's failure to observe these requirements.

The court could not be blamed for "disenfranchising" those who voted on the compact, Pressman added, because if the vote were thrown out the fault would lie with the state officials who violated the requirements for legal publication of the compact text.

Kaufman summarized the historic and legal background of the compact and said the question had received wide publicity in the news columns of papers and on radio and television newscasts, besides publication of the text in the Baltimore newspaper.

He said only two of 15 other statewide questions on the Nov. 8 ballot were voted on more heavily than the compact. This indicated there was "a full and free expression of the popular will," he told the court.

May Go Higher

Observers expect the case to be carried to the Maryland Court of Appeals, regardless of Sodaro's ruling on the questions of validity and constitutionality raised by Pressman.

Besides the legality of the referendum, he has also contended that the compact itself is unconstitutional by providing for the trial of Marylanders in Virginia on conservation-law charges.

To become effective, the agreement still requires approval by Congress and the President.

The compact was drafted by a bi-state committee to replace the Compact of 1785, which gave Virginians equal fishing rights in the river. In exhange, Maryland shipping received free passage through the Virginia Capes, a concession later made unnecessary because the U. S. Constitution—ratified in 1789—guaranteed such passage on interstate waterways.

The 1958 Maryland Legislature, accusing Virginia officials of failing to cooperate in vigorous enforcement of conservation restrictions on oystermen, declared the 1785 compact void.

Virginia asked the Supreme Court to declare the agreement still in effect on grounds that it could not be nullified by one state without consent of the other.

New Pact Drawn

The bi-state committee then drafted the new compact proposal in an attempt to reach an out-of-court settlement.

Besides setting up the joint regulatory commission, the agreement requires each state to contribute fixed sums annually toward replenishment of oysters and other seafood resources of the once-rich river.

Leaders of the resistance movement, headed by State Sen. Walter R. Dorsey, D-St. Marys, have insisted that any bi-state conservation agreement should include Virginia's portion of Chesapeake Bay.

Cigaret Possible Cause Of Fatal Mine Explosion

Victims' Bodies Are Recovered

An ill-timed cigaret may have set off an explosion that killed two men in a coal mine in Preston County, W. Va., Wednesday, said State Mines Director Crawford L. Wilson.

Dead are Truman Burke, 22, and James Tarleton, 23, both of Newburg, Preston County.

Their bodies were recovered late Wednesday night several hours after they were trapped about 1,600 feet from the surface by a gas explosion.

"It looks like someone was smoking in there," said Mr. Wilson after receiving a report from mine inspectors at the scene of the blast in a small mine near Newburg.

"They found evidence of some cigarets in the debris," said Mr. Wilson in referring to investigations by federal and state inspectors.

Mr. Wilson pointed out that one of the two victims may have ignited an accumulation of gas when he prepared to light a cigaret.

The two men had finished loading a small coal car and the operator of the mine, Sanford Phillips, had taken the car to the surface to empty it when the blast occurred.

It took rescue teams about 14 hours to make their way through gas and roof falls to reach the two victims.

Rescue workers brought the bodies to the surface shortly before midnight after struggling through clouds of deadly gas fumes and digging through tons of rock and dirt.

Rescue efforts were hampered as crews continually were forced out of the pit to replenish the oxygen supply for their gas masks.

Workers Here Help Set PE Safety Record

For the first time in the history of The Potomac Edison Company, a single major division has worked a total of 1,000,000 man hours without a lost-time accident, and a group of Cumberland employes played a major role in attaining that record.

Potomac Edison's substations and communications department, which has divisions here, in Hagerstown, Frederick and Front Royal, recently passed that mark and continued to roll up the accident-free man hours.

The million man hour mark is recognized by national safety experts as indicative of outstanding safety performance and among the citations received by the PE group have been awards from the National Safety Council and the Edison Electric Institute.

The record established by the substations group represents over seven years without a lost-time injury. Their last accident which took a man off the job was suffered in July 1953.

PE president Robert G. MacDonald extended congratulations to members of that department, as did department manager O. Lee Wallis.

Mr. MacDonald told the group: "Certainly the greatest beneficiaries of this record are those who created it because they haven't known the pain and suffering that always accompanies serious injury."

State Acquires Mountain Land

The State Game and Inland Fish Commission has just acquired a large tract of land along the crest of Dan's Mountain, covering parts of six different election districts of Allegany County, according to a deed filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

This property, acquired partially from the executors of the estate of Isabel C. Addison, is described as "Coal and Iron Banks." The tract includes parts of District 18, Midland; 27, Gilmore; 15, Lonaconing; 9, Barton; 31, McCoole, and 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings.

It extends from near Dan's Rock to the Stony Run area of Allegany County at McCoole. Purchase price of the mountainous property was $27,143.33, according to a figure listed on the deed.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke explained last night that this purchase brings to between 7,000 and 8,000 acres the amount of land on Dan's Mountain owned by the Game and Inland Fish Commission. About 500 acres are being set apart for a game preserve and the rest will be utilized as public hunting lands.
